Senate Passes Minimum Wage Bill

Measure, Marked for Veto, Raises Figure to 65 Cents

Legislation Carries Farm Price Amendment Opposed by Truman

SENATE AGREES TO NEW FIGURE BY 41-27 VOTE

House Passage Would Put Issue Squarely Up to White House

WASHINGTON, April 5 (AP) — A bill boosting the minimum wage from forty to sixty-five cents an hour, and carrying a higher-farm-price amendment, was passed tonight by the Senate and sent to the House.

The amendment was left in the measure despite a warning from President Truman that he would be compelled to veto the legislation unless it were removed. Administration men contend it is inflationary.

Passage, by a voice vote, followed a surprising reversal in which the Senate voted to place the new minimum wage at sixty-five cents an hour rather than sixty, as agreed upon yesterday. The change was made by a vote of 41 to 27, upsetting a 76 to 6 count twenty-four hours previously.

The whole day's proceedings, however, were in the nature of a let-down from yesterday's high point, the adoption of the farm amendment by a margin of 46 to 38.

House Approval Is Likely

The amendment would raise the price of agricultural products by revising the farm parity formula to include the cost of farm labor.

Proponents contend the rise would be a justified equalizer in view of the recent wage gains won by organized labor and the increases which would result from boosting the minimum wage.

Stabilization officials protest that it would increase the nation's grocery bill more than $4,000,000,000 a year.

The House twice has passed bills calling for a similar change in the parity formula. Farm state lawmakers saw no likelihood the House would reverse itself when the issue is presented in this bill.

House passage, with the amendment, would put the issue squarely up to President Truman.

Navy Transport Plane Crashes, 11 Persons Die

ALBUQUERQUE, N. M., April 5 (AP)—A two-engine navy transport plane crashed and exploded last night in the sandhills of the Isleta Indian reservation, killing all eleven persons aboard.

The Olathe, Kas., naval air station where the plane was based said it carried eight passengers and three crew en route from Phoenix, Ariz., to Amarillo, Tex.

Names of the dead will be released tomorrow after next of kin are notified, air station officials said.

The crash happened at 9:21 p. m., within five minutes after radio contact with Kirtland field, Albuquerque. The accident scene is thirteen miles southeast of Albuquerque on the remote Hell's canyon road four miles east of Isleta Indian pueblo.

The plane appeared to have hit the ground once, bounced and exploded. Parts of the craft were sprayed for 150 yards.

Residents in Albuquerque and troops at Kirtland saw a flash from the explosion. Military and state police searching squads were dispatched to the area immediately, but it was not until mid-day that state police made the first report on the crash, disclosing that eleven bodies had been removed to an Albuquerque mortuary.

A military guard was placed at the scene. Before nightfall a bulldozer was on hand to remove remaining evidence of the crash.

Inquest May Clear Up Death on Movie Set

HOLLYWOOD, April 5. — (AP) — Mystery attending the death of Edward R. Gray, a movie set worker, after a gay party celebrating the completion of the film, "Angel on My Shoulder," may be cleared at a coroner's inquest called for next Wednesday.

Police said they were inclined to believe that Gray's death was an accident. They said he may have fallen from the sixty-five-foot high backdrop of the grotesque $160,000 "Stairway to Hell" set or that he may have been crushed by a truck.

Several motion picture actors and technicians will be among those summoned to testify at the inquest. Paul Muni, host at the party, co-stars in the film with Anne Baxter.

Tawes Advocates Smaller Classes In State Schools, 12-Year System

ANNAPOLIS, Md., April 5—(AP)—Gov. O'Conor, State Comptroller J. Millard Tawes and other leading contenders for high offices appeared for addresses tonight as Democrats of Annapolis and Anne Arundel county met in two separate political rallies.

A crowd estimated at 400 was on hand for a meeting sponsored at the state house, while a much smaller "insurgent" group gathered in Carvel hall.

Tawes, speaking at both meetings in the interest of his candidacy for the gubernatorial nomination, called for smaller classes in state schools, a twelve-year school system throughout Maryland, and the establishment of "a few public junior colleges." He also told the smaller group that as far as he was concerned, the discussion of personalities was "over" for the campaign.

Gov. O'Conor, who is seeking the Senate seat now held by Sen. George L. Radcliffe, spoke only at the large meeting. He devoted most of his remarks to a recapitulation of what he termed the "actual accomplishments" of his administration as governor.

Also on the state house program were Rep. Sasscer (D-Md), Lawrence B. Fenneman, a candidate for attorney general, and Wilbur Dulin (D-Anne Arundel).

Tawes said the lowering of the size of average classes from forty to thirty-five by the 1945 General Assembly "was a progressive step, but does not go quite far enough." He said he would propose legislation reducing classes to thirty "as soon as additional teachers and classrooms can be provided."

He said it was "obviously unfair that approximately half the children of the state should be given education at public expense for eleven years and the other half for twelve years. He promised that he would see that "within a reasonable time," the twelve-year system would be introduced in all counties of the state.

Establishment of public junior colleges, possibly with a small tuition fee at first, Tawes said, would help those without financial means to get a college education.

Tawes declared that "several counties and Baltimore city are paying (teachers) higher salaries than required by the state minimum, but a good many counties are still on the minimum scale.

"While the new salary schedule was more in line with living costs at the time the legislation was passed, changing conditions have already thrown the salaries out of line with other comparable vocations and professions."

He urged that this condition be changed.

Two Are Killed, 58 Are Injured In Train Wreck

Western Pacific's Exposition Flyer Leaves Rails in Nevada

PILOT, Nev., April 5. (AP)—Exposition Flyer, Western Pacific passenger train, was derailed near here today, killing at least two persons and injuring fifty-eight others, ten seriously.

The locomotive and all ten of the passenger cars overturned.

Railroad officials identified the dead as Anthony Carcekowski, en route from Camp Beale, Calif., to visit his wife, Alice, at Burton, Ohio, and Mike Drensky, Denver.

A first-aid station was set up at Wenover, Utah, eighteen miles to the east, to care for the injured.

Western Pacific officials in San Francisco said first reports were that a "considerable number" had been injured.

A relief train arrived at 6:10 and began taking on the injured able to travel and uninjured. The train will return to Salt Lake City, where the injured will be cared for. Ambulances will meet the train at Salt Lake City.

The army flew two doctors from Salt Lake to aid in treatment of injured.

Red Cross Volunteers Reach Scene

Volunteers of the Elko county chapter of the Red Cross arrived at the scene of the wreck and provided blankets for the injured.

Four ambulances and one respirator were recruited and short wave radio was set up at the scene to handle messages.

Western Pacific officials in San Francisco said the accident occurred at 3:20 o'clock this afternoon (PST). Two hundred and ninety passengers were aboard.

Ambulances from the army air base at Wendover, Utah, were rushing to the scene. A hospital train was speeding from Elko, Nev., and a second train to aid in accommodating injured and uninjured passengers was also en route.

Cause Is Undetermined

The train left San Francisco at 4 p. m. yesterday en route to Salt Lake City.

Railway officials said of the ten derailed cars three were coaches, three tourist sleepers, two baggage and two express.

Every available physician in the Elko area was speeding to the scene of the disaster, which is approximately 789 miles from San Francisco.

Cause of the derailment was not immediately determined. Unofficial reports from Elko however said the fast train had an open switch. Railway officials at San Francisco said they did not know the cause of the accident, and probably could not be determined officially for three days, when an investigation could be completed.

Coal Operator's Suggestion Gets Cool Reception

WASHINGTON, April 5 (AP)—A West Virginia coal operator's proposal that the five-day-old bituminous strike be ended and the issues placed before a fact-finding board was received cooly today on all sides.

The suggestion came from Charles Dorrance, president of the West Virginia Coal and Coke Company, at Pittsburgh in telegrams which had been sent to the operators and to John L. Lewis, president of the United Mine Workers.

The operators agreed that the aim of Dorrance—to get the mines in operation again — was "meritorious" but that it as far as they would go.

Edward R. Burke, representing the Southern Coal Producers Association, which includes the West Virginia firm, said Lewis had "brushed aside with scorn" the Dorrance proposal at Thursday's negotiating session.

Lewis would not comment himself, but the miners' president so

Vincent Youmans, Song Composer, Dies at 47

DENVER, April 5 (AP) — Vincent Youmans, 47-year-old musical comedy composer who turned out such lilting tunes as "Tea for Two," and "I Want To Be Happy," died early today. He had been ill for years with tuberculosis and had been bedfast for several weeks.

In accordance with one of his last requests, the composer's ashes will be scattered beyond New York harbor near Ambrose lightship where he sailed and fished as a boy.

Funeral services in St. Thomas Episcopal church in New York will be under direction of Deems Taylor, composer and president of ASCAP.

Truman To Make Major Foreign Policy Address

Chief Executive Speeds toward Chicago by Special Train

By ERNEST B. VACCARO

EN ROUTE TO CHICAGO WITH PRESIDENT TRUMAN, April 5 (AP)—President Truman sped toward Chicago by special train tonight for a major foreign policy pronouncement.

The chief executive, an avowed champion of strong armed forces to bulwark this nation's determination to preserve world peace, will speak for upwards of twenty minutes, beginning at 4 p. m. (EST) tomorrow.

The address, to be delivered before an Army day audience in Soldier field, is billed as a followup to his New York Navy day speech. On that occasion he outlined a twelve-point foreign policy and pledged the United States to use its military strength solely to prevent war.

May Ask Draft Extension

Associates said the president will ask anew for quick passage of legislation extending the Selective Service act another year, unifying the armed forces, and setting up a program of universal training to back United States championship of peace and support for the weak.

He told his Navy day audience October 27 that the United States must remain powerfully armed to enforce the peace against defeated enemies, support the United Nations and defend the Western hemisphere.

He made it plain then that the United States would not recognize any government imposed upon any nation by the force of any foreign power, or approve any territorial changes in any friendly part of the world not in accord with the freely-expressed wishes of the people.

How much further he will go tomorrow remained a matter for spec-

House Committee Votes To Extend OPA for One Year

Amendment Curbs Application of Price Absorption Program

WASHINGTON, April 5. (AP)—Legislation giving OPA a full year's new lease on life was approved 15 to 4 today by the House Banking committee, after it wrote in an amendment an OPA official estimated would boost consumer costs by over $500,000,000 a year.

Chairman Spence (D-Ky) said the amendment, curbing OPA's application of its retail price absorption program, would hike prices on autos, refrigerators and many other reconversion items.

The OPA official, speaking privately to reporters, said the amendment would jump the price of an average auto $60.

Rep. Outland (D-Calif), a committee member, told newsmen this and other amendments "can be interpreted as saying but one thing: 'The consumer be damned.'"

The committee rejected, 13 to 9, a proposal by Rep. Wolcott (R-Mich) to limit OPA's new life span to nine months. No change was made in rent ceiling regulations, and the committee steered clear of the issue of increasing farm parity. Some senators have announced they will seek to put the parity revision into the bill when it reaches that body.

Important Revisions

As the committee tossed the OPA extension bill to the House floor for consideration, it bore these important revisions through amendments:

1. Mandatory but gradual liquidation of price controls in various areas of the economy as supply comes into balance with demand. This puts the major responsibility for decontrol squarely in the lap of President Truman, rather than with OPA. This amendment, by

Pepper Is Asked To Apologize For Attack on Foreign Policy

WASHINGTON, April 5 (AP) — Sen. Andrews called upon Sen. Pepper, his Florida colleague and fellow Democrat, today to apologize to President Truman and Secretary of State Byrnes for his speech yesterday attacking America's foreign policy.

Earlier, Sen. Myers (D-Pa) had followed Pepper's lead in assailing Britain's foreign tactics, bringing that nation's policies under fire in the Senate for the second successive day.

Andrews told a reporter that the sentiment expressed by Pepper "does not represent the feeling and sentiment of the great mass of people of Florida."

He referred particularly to Pepper's assertion that the United States is "ganging up" with Great Britain against Russia, but added that he did not agree with "any other part of his statement."

Myers asserted that Great Britain violated a treaty with the United States, and the United Nations Charter, in granting independence to Transjordan, formerly a part of the Palestine mandate.

Yesterday, Pepper complained that the British treaty with Transjordan permits English troops to remain in that country and that real control is left in British hands. Myers called upon the state department, in a speech today, to "explain its lack of protest." Myers also asked the Senate to look into the situation.

Myers said that under the Anglo-American agreement of 1924, Britain was required to obtain United States agreement before taking such action as the Trans-Jordan treaty. He also declared Great Britain "had no right" to change the terms of the League of Nations mandate under which Palestine and the Trans-Jordan territory are administered. "When the United States of America sits idly by while a flagrant violation of its solemn treaty is committed," Myers asserted, "and when, in fact, a treaty is abrogated by unilateral action in contempt of the Senate, it is my duty to call attention of the Senate and the people of the country to the matter. x x x

"If the peoples of the world are to believe in the moral position of the United States as a world leader," he said, "then they must have evidence that we will strike out against violations of treaty and human rights no matter which nation is concerned."

Russia and Iran Agree on Plans For Oil Company

Accord Also Covers Troop Evacuation and Azerbaijan Problem

By JOSEPH C. GOODWIN

TEHRAN, April 5 (AP)—Iran and Russia agreed today on initial plans for a Soviet-Persian oil company, set a deadline for evacuation of Russian troops, and earmarked troublesome Azerbaijan province as an "internal" problem for Iran to settle "in benevolent spirit."

Heavy Russian artillery, tanks and armored vehicles by the score moved northward today across the Soviet-Iranian frontier at the Caspian seaport of Astara. In Tehran there was general rejoicing and relief over the day's developments.

Prince Mozaffar Firouz, director of propaganda, said that the negotiations settled "all outstanding questions between the two countries or a basis of complete reciprocity and good will."

No treaty was signed, he said, but the three-point agreement was announced in a communique signed by Premier Ahmed Quavam and Soviet Ambassador Ivan Sadchikov.

Three-Point Agreement

The three points are:

"1. Red army troops will evacuate all Iranian territory within one and one half months from March 24, 1946.

"2. An agrement for formation of a joint Iranian-Soviet oil company and its terms will be submitted to the fifteenth Majlis (partliament) for its approval within seven months after March 24.

"3. With regard to Azerbaijan, since it is an internal Iranian affair, peaceful arrangements will be made between the government, and the people of Azerbaijan for carrying out of improvements, in accordance with the existing laws and in benevolent spirit toward the people of Azerbaijan."

(Word of the new agrement was received with obvious caution by diplomats of the United Nations in New York, where yesterday the Security council had voted to postpone further discussions of the of the Iranian issue until May 6. Some suggested the agrement strengthened Russia's assurance that in regard to formation of the oil company "only an agreement in principle, was reached, and details will be worked out later subject, of course, to approval of the Parliament."

Oil Company, Not Concessions

Asked if oil discussions were not contrary to the Iranian law passed in December, 1944, prohibitiing oil negotiations while foreign troops are on Iranian soil, Firouz replied that the law specified oil concessions, whereas the current proposal concerns "an organization of an oil company jointly financed by Persia and Russian capital."

Price of Wheat May Be Boosted To Spur Exports

By OVID A. MARTIN

WASHINGTON, April 5. (AP)—The production of flour for American consumption may be slashed and the price of wheat boosted to speed lagging exports of the bread grain to hungry areas abroad.

The price increase would be designed to pull grain off farms and away from livestock feed bins to make more available for export.

Talk of increasing the price as much as twenty-five cents a bushel in the near future arose in some government circles today after Secretary Anderson disclosed that wheat and flour exports during the first quarter of the year fell short of the goal. Anderson said he expected greater difficulties in the present quarter.

Accompanying a price rise may be an order reducing the production of flour for domestic consumption

Father of Three Who Perished in Fire Dies

KINGWOOD, W. Va., April 5. (AP)—Paul Rosenberger, who suffered severe burns last night in a futile attempt to save his three children from their burning home on Cadell mountain, died today in a hospital here.

The eldest boy, Calvin, 9, died a few hours after the fire. Madeline, 6, and Henry, 3, perished in the flames.

Mrs. Rosenberger said that when her husband woke her, the house was in flames. She took their fourth child, an 18-month-old baby, and fled.

She said her husband carried the other three children to a window which was closed. He put the children down to open it and the two youngest ran back into the flames. Rosenberger jumped with the eldest boy.

Meeting of Foreign Ministers in Paris April 25 Is Proposed

BYRNES DEPLORES SLOW PROGRESS OF DEPUTIES

Russia, Britain and France Are Expected To Agree to Parley

By GRAHAM HOVEY

WASHINGTON, April 5 (AP)—Secretary of State Byrnes tonight called for a Big Four foreign ministers meeting in Paris April 25 to speed final peace settlements with the former European allies of Nazi Germany.

Byrnes disclosed that he had dispatched the suggestion from New York yesterday to Foreign Ministers Molotov, of Russia; Bevin, of Britain, and Bidault, of France. His aim obviously was to avert postponement of the twenty-one-nation European peace conference, scheduled to open in Paris not later than May 1.

Russia Wants Postponement

Byrnes consistently has contended that the conference should convene by that deadline date, established in the Moscow communique of Big Three foreign ministers last December. Britain has agreed, but Russia has suggested postponement because the deputy foreign ministers, meeting in London, have made negligible progress on the drafts of proposed treaties with Italy, Rumania, Bulgaria, Hungary and Finland.

In his message proposing the new meeting of foreign ministers, Byrnes conceded that he had been "much distressed at the slow progress made by our deputies."

Indicating he expected Molotov, Bevin and Bidault to agree to the proposed meeting, Byrnes added:

"I hope that each of us may instruct our deputies to press forward their work on the drafts with utmost speed, reserving major matters on which they cannot agree for resolution by the foreign ministers at the Paris meeting beginning April 25."

No Replies Received

Byrnes said he hoped the other three men would agree that such a meeting was "essential to enable us to carry out the decision of the Moscow conference with respect to the peace conference."

All four countries are participating in the Italian treaty; all but France in the Balkan treaties, while

Proposal To Halt Draft Inductions Makes Headway

WASHINGTON, April 5 (AP) — A proposal to halt virtually all draft inductions after May 15, 1946, made quick headway today in the House Military committee.

The new move would extend the draft law from May 15, 1946, to February 15, 1947, but in effect would prohibit any new inductions under it. However, it would require the continued registration of all youths as they become 18.

Because of a late afternoon House session, the committee postponed a vote on the new proposal until next Tuesday.

Rep. Harness (R-Ind), author of the registration - without - induction proposal, told reporters after the closed door committee session he had sufficient votes to win committee approval.

An amendment to it, tentatively accepted by the committee, would permit the induction, even after May 15, of youths who are eligible for induction before May 15. The amendment would apply to youths in the process of induction on that date and to draft-age students now deferred to complete their schooling.

"There is no need to continue inductions," Harness told reporters.

Yale and Towne Workers Accept Wage Increase

STAMFORD, Conn., April 5 (AP)—Striking AFL-organized machinists at the Yale and Towne plant voted late today to accept a company offered wage hike of twelve and one-half cents an hour and to return to their jobs on Monday.

The action ended Connecticut's longest, bitterest and most costly postwar labor dispute which started November 7 when 2,700 members of two locals of the International Association of Machinists walked off their jobs to enforce demands for a thirty per cent wage hike and union security.

The company's offer was made earlier in the day in New York following an all-night conference between company and union officials and at which the company also agreed to a checkoff for union dues.

Mine-Detecting Device Locates $153,150 Stolen in Postal Theft

By ANDY ANDERSON

JACKSONVILLE, Fla., April 5 (AP)—A mine-detecting device that saved untold lives during the war located $153,150 nine feet deep last night in the back yard here of a now-dead postal employe, bringing to light the bulk of $180,000—largest amount of currency ever stolen from the postal service.

The money — missing since the night of May 16, 1944—was dug up by three postal inspectors between a chicken coop and the East First street rooming house of Mrs. Joseph D. Marshall, widow of the man who confessed the theft just before he died August 10, 1944, after an appendicitis operation.

Postal authorities said Mrs. Marshall, who was acquitted by a federal jury in 1945 of charges of conspiracy and of secreting and carrying away the money, was not implicated and that she had given permission for a search of the grounds—but that the investigation was continuing in an effort to determine, if possible where the remaining $17,000 might be hidden, for postal authorities said Marshall spent nearly $10,000 for jewelry.

They said, too, that they were convinced the theft was accomplished by only one man.

The Marshall yard had been searched once before but no detecting device was used; and holes dug did not extend nine feet below the surface.

Marshall was registry clerk in the post office here and on the night of May 16 a federal reserve registered shipment came in consigned to a Miami bank. The package which arrived at the bank the next day, however, was a dummy. Sometime between those two periods, the canvas bag containing the $180,000 had been taken from the post office.

It was Marshall's handwriting, which led to his arrest. Postal authorities studied the penmanship on the dummy package and announced that it tallied precisely with Marshall's handwriting, and arrested him.

He was indicted but never was brought to trial. He became ill while in jail and it was not until he knew he was going to die that he confessed the theft. But even then he refused to say where the money was hidden.

Red Cross Volunteers Reach Scene

Volunteers of the Elko county chapter of the Red Cross arrived at the scene of the wreck and provided blankets for the injured.

Four ambulances and one respirator were recruited and short wave radio was set up at the scene to handle messages.

Western Pacific officials in San Francisco said the accident occurred at 3:20 o'clock this afternoon (PST). Two hundred and ninety passengers were aboard.

Ambulances from the army air base at Wendover, Utah, were rushing to the scene. A hospital train was speeding from Elko, Nev., and a second train to aid in accommodating injured and uninjured passengers was also en route.

Cause Is Undetermined

The train left San Francisco at 4 p. m. yesterday en route to Salt Lake City.

Railway officials said of the ten derailed cars three were coaches, three tourist sleepers, two baggage and two express.

Every available physician in the Elko area was speeding to the scene of the disaster, which is approximately 789 miles from San Francisco.

Cause of the derailment was not immediately determined. Unofficial reports from Elko however said the fast train had an open switch. Railway officials at San Francisco said they did not know the cause of the accident, and probably could not be determined officially for three days, when an investigation could be completed.

Coal Operator's Suggestion Gets Cool Reception

WASHINGTON, April 5 (AP)—A West Virginia coal operator's proposal that the five-day-old bituminous strike be ended and the issues placed before a fact-finding board was received cooly today on all sides.

The suggestion came from Charles Dorrance, president of the West Virginia Coal and Coke Company, at Pittsburgh in telegrams which had been sent to the operators and to John L. Lewis, president of the United Mine Workers.

The operators agreed that the aim of Dorrance—to get the mines in operation again — was "meritorious" but that it as far as they would go.

Edward R. Burke, representing the Southern Coal Producers Association, which includes the West Virginia firm, said Lewis had "brushed aside with scorn" the Dorrance proposal at Thursday's negotiating session.

Lewis would not comment himself, but the miners' president so

Vincent Youmans, Song Composer, Dies at 47

DENVER, April 5 (AP) — Vincent Youmans, 47-year-old musical comedy composer who turned out such lilting tunes as "Tea for Two," and "I Want To Be Happy," died early today. He had been ill for years with tuberculosis and had been bedfast for several weeks.

In accordance with one of his last requests, the composer's ashes will be scattered beyond New York harbor near Ambrose lightship where he sailed and fished as a boy.

Funeral services in St. Thomas Episcopal church in New York will be under direction of Deems Taylor, composer and president of ASCAP.

Truman To Make Major Foreign Policy Address

Chief Executive Speeds toward Chicago by Special Train

By ERNEST B. VACCARO

EN ROUTE TO CHICAGO WITH PRESIDENT TRUMAN, April 5 (AP)—President Truman sped toward Chicago by special train tonight for a major foreign policy pronouncement.

The chief executive, an avowed champion of strong armed forces to bulwark this nation's determination to preserve world peace, will speak for upwards of twenty minutes, beginning at 4 p. m. (EST) tomorrow.

The address, to be delivered before an Army day audience in Soldier field, is billed as a followup to his New York Navy day speech. On that occasion he outlined a twelve-point foreign policy and pledged the United States to use its military strength solely to prevent war.

May Ask Draft Extension

Associates said the president will ask anew for quick passage of legislation extending the Selective Service act another year, unifying the armed forces, and setting up a program of universal training to back United States championship of peace and support for the weak.

He told his Navy day audience October 27 that the United States must remain powerfully armed to enforce the peace against defeated enemies, support the United Nations and defend the Western hemisphere.

He made it plain then that the United States would not recognize any government imposed upon any nation by the force of any foreign power, or approve any territorial changes in any friendly part of the world not in accord with the freely-expressed wishes of the people.

How much further he will go tomorrow remained a matter for spec-

Amendment Curbs Application of Price Absorption Program

WASHINGTON, April 5. (AP)—Legislation giving OPA a full year's new lease on life was approved 15 to 4 today by the House Banking committee, after it wrote in an amendment an OPA official estimated would boost consumer costs by over $500,000,000 a year.

Chairman Spence (D-Ky) said the amendment, curbing OPA's application of its retail price absorption program, would hike prices on autos, refrigerators and many other reconversion items.

The OPA official, speaking privately to reporters, said the amendment would jump the price of an average auto $60.

Rep. Outland (D-Calif), a committee member, told newsmen this and other amendments "can be interpreted as saying but one thing: 'The consumer be damned.'"

The committee rejected, 13 to 9, a proposal by Rep. Wolcott (R-Mich) to limit OPA's new life span to nine months. No change was made in rent ceiling regulations, and the committee steered clear of the issue of increasing farm parity. Some senators have announced they will seek to put the parity revision into the bill when it reaches that body.

Important Revisions

As the committee tossed the OPA extension bill to the House floor for consideration, it bore these important revisions through amendments:

1. Mandatory but gradual liquidation of price controls in various areas of the economy as supply comes into balance with demand. This puts the major responsibility for decontrol squarely in the lap of President Truman, rather than with OPA. This amendment, by

Pepper Is Asked To Apologize For Attack on Foreign Policy

WASHINGTON, April 5 (AP) — Sen. Andrews called upon Sen. Pepper, his Florida colleague and fellow Democrat, today to apologize to President Truman and Secretary of State Byrnes for his speech yesterday attacking America's foreign policy.

Earlier, Sen. Myers (D-Pa) had followed Pepper's lead in assailing Britain's foreign tactics, bringing that nation's policies under fire in the Senate for the second successive day.

Andrews told a reporter that the sentiment expressed by Pepper "does not represent the feeling and sentiment of the great mass of people of Florida."

He referred particularly to Pepper's assertion that the United States is "ganging up" with Great Britain against Russia, but added that he did not agree with "any other part of his statement."

Myers asserted that Great Britain violated a treaty with the United States, and the United Nations Charter, in granting independence to Transjordan, formerly a part of the Palestine mandate.

Yesterday, Pepper complained that the British treaty with Trans-Jordan permits English troops to remain in that country and that real control is left in British hands. Myers called upon the state department, in a speech today, to "explain its lack of protest." Myers also asked the Senate to look into the situation.

Myers said that under the Anglo-American agreement of 1924, Britain was required to obtain United States agreement before taking such action as the Trans-Jordan treaty. He also declared Great Britain "had no right" to change the terms of the League of Nations mandate under which Palestine and the Trans-Jordan territory are administered. "When the United States of America sits idly by while a flagrant violation of its solemn treaty is committed," Myers asserted, "and when, in fact, a treaty is abrogated by unilateral action in contempt of the Senate, it is my duty to call attention of the Senate and the people of the country to the matter. x x x

"If the peoples of the world are to believe in the moral position of the United States as a world leader," he said, "then they must have evidence that we will strike out against violations of treaty and human rights no matter which nation is concerned."

Russia and Iran Agree on Plans For Oil Company

By JOSEPH C. GOODWIN

TEHRAN, April 5 (AP)—Iran and Russia agreed today on initial plans for a Soviet-Persian oil company, set a deadline for evacuation of Russian troops, and earmarked troublesome Azerbaijan province as an "internal" problem for Iran to settle "in benevolent spirit."

Heavy Russian artillery, tanks and armored vehicles by the score moved northward today across the Soviet-Iranian frontier at the Caspian seaport of Astara. In Tehran there was general rejoicing and relief over the day's developments.

Prince Mozaffar Firouz, director of propaganda, said that the negotiations settled "all outstanding questions between the two countries or a basis of complete reciprocity and good will."

No treaty was signed, he said, but the three-point agreement was announced in a communique signed by Premier Ahmed Quavam and Soviet Ambassador Ivan Sadchikov.

Three-Point Agreement

The three points are:

"1. Red army troops will evacuate all Iranian territory within one and one half months from March 24, 1946.

"2. An agrement for formation of a joint Iranian-Soviet oil company and its terms will be submitted to the fifteenth Majlis (partliament) for its approval within seven months after March 24.

"3. With regard to Azerbaijan, since it is an internal Iranian affair, peaceful arrangements will be made between the government, and the people of Azerbaijan for carrying out of improvements, in accordance with the existing laws and in benevolent spirit toward the people of Azerbaijan."

(Word of the new agrement was received with obvious caution by diplomats of the United Nations in New York, where yesterday the Security council had voted to postpone further discussions of the of the Iranian issue until May 6. Some suggested the agrement strengthened Russia's assurance that in regard to formation of the oil company "only an agreement in principle was reached, and details will be worked out later subject, of course, to approval of the Parliament."

Oil Company, Not Concessions

Asked if oil discussions were not contrary to the Iranian law passed in December, 1944, prohibitiing oil negotiations while foreign troops are on Iranian soil, Firouz replied that the law specified oil concessions, whereas the current proposal concerns "an organization of an oil company jointly financed by Persia and Russian capital."

Price of Wheat May Be Boosted To Spur Exports

By OVID A. MARTIN

WASHINGTON, April 5. (AP)—The production of flour for American consumption may be slashed and the price of wheat boosted to speed lagging exports of the bread grain to hungry areas abroad.

The price increase would be designed to pull grain off farms and away from livestock feed bins to make more available for export.

Talk of increasing the price as much as twenty-five cents a bushel in the near future arose in some government circles today after Secretary Anderson disclosed that wheat and flour exports during the first quarter of the year fell short of the goal. Anderson said he expected greater difficulties in the present quarter.

Accompanying a price rise may be an order reducing the production of flour for domestic consumption

Father of Three Who Perished in Fire Dies

KINGWOOD, W. Va., April 5. (AP)—Paul Rosenberger, who suffered severe burns last night in a futile attempt to save his three children from their burning home on Caddell mountain, died today in a hospital here.

The eldest boy, Calvin, 9, died a few hours after the fire. Madeline, 6, and Henry, 3, perished in the flames.

Mrs. Rosenberger said that when her husband woke her, the house was in flames. She took their fourth child, an 18-month-old baby, and fled.

She said her husband carried the other three children to a window which was closed. He put the children down to open it and the two youngest ran back into the flames. Rosenberger jumped with the eldest boy.

U. S. Moves To Speed Final European Peace Treaties

Russia, Britain and France Are Expected To Agree to Parley

By GRAHAM HOVEY

WASHINGTON, April 5 (AP)—Secretary of State Byrnes tonight called for a Big Four foreign ministers meeting in Paris April 25 to speed final peace settlements with the former European allies of Nazi Germany.

Byrnes disclosed that he had dispatched the suggestion from New York yesterday to Foreign Ministers Molotov, of Russia; Bevin, of Britain, and Bidault, of France. His aim obviously was to avert postponement of the twenty-one-nation European peace conference, scheduled to open in Paris not later than May 1.

Russia Wants Postponement

Byrnes consistently has contended that the conference should convene by that deadline date, established in the Moscow communique of Big Three foreign ministers last December. Britain has agreed, but Russia has suggested postponement because the deputy foreign ministers, meeting in London, have made negligible progress on the drafts of proposed treaties with Italy, Rumania, Bulgaria, Hungary and Finland.

In his message proposing the new meeting of foreign ministers, Byrnes conceded that he had been "much distressed at the slow progress made by our deputies."

Indicating he expected Molotov, Bevin and Bidault to agree to the proposed meeting, Byrnes added:

"I hope that each of us may instruct our deputies to press forward their work on the drafts with utmost speed, reserving major matters on which they cannot agree for resolution by the foreign ministers at the Paris meeting beginning April 25."

No Replies Received

Byrnes said he hoped the other three men would agree that such a meeting was "essential to enable us to carry out the decision of the Moscow conference with respect to the peace conference."

All four countries are participating in the Italian treaty; all but France in the Balkan treaties, while

Proposal To Halt Draft Inductions Makes Headway

WASHINGTON, April 5 (AP) — A proposal to halt virtually all draft inductions after May 15, 1946, made quick headway today in the House Military committee.

The new move would extend the draft law from May 15, 1946, to February 15, 1947, but in effect would prohibit any new inductions under it. However, it would require the continued registration of all youths as they become 18.

Because of a late afternoon House session, the committee postponed a vote on the new proposal until next Tuesday.

Rep. Harness (R-Ind), author of the registration - without - induction proposal, told reporters after the closed door committee session he had sufficient votes to win committee approval.

An amendment to it, tentatively accepted by the committee, would permit the induction, even after May 15, of youths who are eligible for induction before May 15. The amendment would apply to youths in the process of induction on that date and to draft-age students now deferred to complete their schooling.

"There is no need to continue inductions," Harness told reporters.

Yale and Towne Workers Accept Wage Increase

STAMFORD, Conn., April 5 (AP)—Striking AFL-organized machinists at the Yale and Towne plant voted late today to accept a company offered wage hike of twelve and one-half cents an hour and to return to their jobs on Monday.

The action ended Connecticut's longest, bitterest and most costly postwar labor dispute which started November 7 when 2,700 members of two locals of the International Association of Machinists walked off their jobs to enforce demands for a thirty per cent wage hike and union security.

The company's offer was made earlier in the day in New York following an all-night conference between company and union officials and at which the company also agreed to a checkoff for union dues.

Mine-Detecting Device Locates $153,150 Stolen in Postal Theft

By ANDY ANDERSON

JACKSONVILLE, Fla., April 5 (AP)—A mine-detecting device that saved untold lives during the war located $153,150 nine feet deep last night in the back yard here of a now-dead postal employe, bringing to light the bulk of $180,000—largest amount of currency ever stolen from the postal service.

The money — missing since the night of May 16, 1944—was dug up by three postal inspectors between a chicken coop and the East First street rooming house of Mrs. Joseph D. Marshall, widow of the man who confessed the theft just before he died August 10, 1944, after an appendicitis operation.

Postal authorities said Mrs. Marshall, who was acquitted by a federal jury in 1945 of charges of conspiracy and of secreting and carrying away the money, was not implicated and that she had given permission for a search of the grounds—but that the investigation was continuing in an effort to determine, if possible where the remaining $17,000 might be hidden, for postal authorities said Marshall spent nearly $10,000 for jewelry.

They said, too, that they were convinced the theft was accomplished by only one man.

The Marshall yard had been searched once before but no detecting device was used; and holes dug did not extend nine feet below the surface.

Marshall was registry clerk in the post office here and on the night of May 16 a federal reserve registered shipment came in consigned to a Miami bank. The package which arrived at the bank the next day, however, was a dummy. Sometime between those two periods, the canvas bag containing the $180,000 had been taken from the post office.

It was Marshall's handwriting, which led to his arrest. Postal authorities studied the penmanship on the dummy package and announced that it tallied precisely with Marshall's handwriting, and arrested him.

He was indicted but never was brought to trial. He became ill while in jail and it was not until he knew he was going to die that he confessed the theft. But even then he refused to say where the money was hidden.

Yes, Day Dreams Are Worth While

DAY DREAMS—what wonderful things they are to be sure, and what a stimulus they can provide the tired body and the weary mind.

In our youth we visualized them—and "the thoughts of youth are long, long thoughts." They always looked ahead into the roseate future with success, wealth, pleasures and luxuries abounding. There were opportunities galore and what difficulties and hardships they entailed were overlooked in the glory of achievement and possession.

In age they are a priceless enjoyment, too. A tired businessman gave an account of one he had the other day while drowzily reclining in a huge and comfortable armchair. He had put his feet up on a table—the women folks were nowhere around at the time—and that probably reminded him of the scene he visualized from the distant past, which had stuck in his memory and came back at different times through a long, busy and somewhat strenuous career.

It was when on a summer's day he lay, a small barefoot boy, upon the floor of the sitting room in a green-shuttered white cottage in a southern Ohio riverside town—the home of his boyhood. He stuck his feet up on a chair as he lay there. His feet were dirty, too, he remembered, as boys' feet are when they go barefooted. But he was brazenly unashamed.

The scene was indelibly karanougraphed upon his mind. An old-fashioned rag carpet was on the floor, the quaint pattern of which was still vividly remembered. The wall paper had large and fantastic figures of graceful trees by a brookside. A marble-topped stand was in the center of the room, bearing a kerosene lamp with a spreading shade. On the mantelpiece was a pressed glass vase filled with tapers he had helped Grandma twist from old newspapers. A tall box-like clock was there, too, with a glass-paned front like a door, the lower half of which bore a gaily-colored Alpine scene about a circular space through which the swinging brass-disked pendulum gleamed. He could yet hear the sweet melody of its deep-toned wiry chime.

Beyond on a wall hung a picture of a white-gowned, long-haired maiden clinging to a huge cross on a wave-dashed rock in the ocean. "Rock of Ages" was the title. An old-fashioned solid walnut bookcase touched the low ceiling on one one side. There were chairs made from hickory which Grandpa had bought from a shanty-boat man. A big dictionary stood in a skeleton frame. Outside the sun shone warmly and the insects droned and buzzed.

He remembered his thoughts then. "What can I do now? Maybe Harry Maxon can come over to play; and maybe we can get Maurice Aleshire or Odd McIntyre and so swimming in the old swimmin' hole in Chickamauga creek." Ah, what ineffable pleasure and luxury that! No clothes to fuss over, no perplexing business arrangements to worry about, no pile of bills to pay, no entertainments to scheme. Nothing of today with its dashing around in automobiles, its radios, its movies, its blaring and glaring night clubs and its countless other conveniences and pleasures can measure up to those boyhood days even though they brought pains with stone bruises and cuts and scratches and bumps. It was just over the fence and go.

But it was too soon yet to chase up the other boys and meanwhile the lad lay idly kicking his heels on the chair and indulging in other thoughts, not of the immediate carefree present but of the glorious indefinable future. These all came to the same thing—achievement, success, honor and fame. Like the beggarly boy who lived in a cellar damp and had neither book nor a toy but who had an Alladin's lamp and who, when he could not sleep for the cold or was kept awake by the rain, "builded with roofs of gold" his "beautiful castles in Spain." And they were wondrous and magnificent structures, too. But now he was going to own a steamboat, a long, graceful stern-wheeler, glistening white with gold trimmings; it was to be named The Marguerite, and he was to be its captain!

It was life and fun and anticipation beyond all comparison. And—there was an incomparable cherry pie on a shelf out there in the kitchen cupboard, access to which against periods of hunger was never denied—a pie which only Grandma knew how to make.

Day dreams—they are worth while, whether by young or old. They help, sometimes, to carry on when we think we have burdens and difficulties and sorrows intolerable, when, perhaps, they are not so unbearable after all. They all stem from the past, but they should not rest there because the glory and the joy and the pleasurable anticipation of the good things we can visualize and plan for the future are balm in Gilhead and comfort to the heart.

Commendable Move In Courts-Martial

IN ACTING to overhaul the army's court-martial system, as in his recent appointment of a committee to inquire into the relationships between officers and enlisted men, Secretary of War Patterson has shown a highly commendable openmindedness as well as an eagerness to improve the American military system. A smaller man might have contented himself with defending the War department against criticism which often has been exaggerated and overdrawn. Mr. Patterson has adopted the far wiser and more constructive course of assuming that so much smoke must indicate some fire and taking steps to improve the system.

There is not much doubt that courts-martial have produced a great many cases of injustice and that many of the sentences handed out have been unduly severe. In the majority of these cases the system which provides for review by special army boards probably offers a sufficient safeguard for men who have been penalized too harshly.

But it is more than likely that there is room or improvement in a system of military justice which has stood unchanged for a quarter of a century. Penology has made substantial progress in that period. Ideas have changed about the type of treatment that will deter men from crime and improve chances for their reclamation.

According to Secretary Patterson, "The War department wants the most efficient and just system of military justice that can be devised in the light of military experience. American conceptions of punitive justice and enlightened penology." No one can quarrel with that.

Postwar Sir Troubles

THE GENERALS and the admirals are on the defensive but they probably are not losing too much sleep over postwar outbursts against the officer caste system in the American defense force. They know their history. They know that after every great war the people and the politicians complain loud and long about what they call the undemocratic armed forces.

But the people and the politicians soon forget, and the army, navy and marines go their way, as officers and men, as they always have in this country and in every other country.

Nor is the criticism of the officer corps confined to wartime. In 1839, a bill to abolish West Point on the ground that it was hatching an aristocracy came near passing Congress. Cadet U. S. Grant recalled that he read newspaper accounts of the progress of the bill with the hope that it would become law and he would be sent home.

In the Civil war, the regular army was kept intact. Volunteers elected their officers. That was supposed to be democratic. But it took the elected officers two years to condition their men for effective battle. The system speeded enactment of the land college act, which required the training of students for officer duty. In the last two wars mistakes were made. Some officers failed. But most of them were true to their creed and their responsibility.

It is likely, therefore, that the present agitation for army and navy reorganization may correct some abuses and further emphasize merit over seniority. But it can hardly be expected to affect the basic pattern. Nor should it be. The Russian reds tried to precinct committeeman system until the professional officers of the little Finnish army stood off the invading communist divisions with military science and disciplined troops. The officer system offends those who are not officers, but it wins wars.

Sounding an Alert

TRAFFIC ACCIDENTS drive home the accuracy of the National Safety Council's prediction that the end of the war would bring to the country the greatest crop of driving injuries and fatalities in history. Everyone who drives must be conscious that possible injury or death rides at the wheel, waiting for some slip on his part, or some lapse of judgment. With every driver operating his machine with greatest conscientiousness, there will still be more accidents during 1946 than most persons will care to contemplate.

The use of merged capital letters to designate government agencies and other organizations has become so extensive and habitual that much confusion is resulting. Half the time readers are puzzled as to just what organization is meant, especially in view of the fact that many designate two or more of them. Maybe we can get away from it in time, but probably not until the axe is used more extensively in Washington.

Headline writers do not take an altogether pessimistic view of Gromyko and the UNO. His name, for headline purposes, could have been much worse.

The average gardener wouldn't have such high hopes if those seed catalogs were not printed by artists looking at their vegetable models through a magnifying glass.

SPRINGTIME GAIETY

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

There is no Season of the year that I welcome with more genuine joy and anticipation than another Springtime. It's as though the Earth itself were christened anew, as in fact it is! Coming out from its long sleep, Nature's eyes open in an awakening that is nothing short of a miracle.

The covering of the earth grows green. Bursting buds appear. Trees foliage. The thirst of this Springtime is everywhere appeased. Forests are beautifully clothed in their new suits of green. The meadows are scented with their colorful flowers. It's love time and creative time for all Nature. Songsters fill the air with their melodious music. Happiness abounds. Man alone is disturbed and worried, as "wars and rumors of wars" reach his hearing.

If all the evil thinking of this earth could but be replaced with the gaiety and glory of the Springtime, all of man's fears would be immediately reduced to a minimum, and happiness would abound everywhere. Can anyone question the benefits that could easily be acquired by a universal adoption of spiritual values, at such an unhappy and disquieting time as we find ourselves in at present. Isn't it about time that we turned to God for His guidance, instead of to political and military minds whose thoughts are so clouded that they can see no safe road ahead?

How subtle and peaceful are all the workings of Nature! To her he can turn for much of the spiritual splendor bequeathed to her by the Creator. We are the inheritors of all her benefits. Her Springtime gaiety is our spiritual serenade!

The arms of the earth open to all this birth of beauty. It could all be called a festival of faith, for we live to see its creative wonders unwrapped before our expectant yes. It is as though every growing bit of earth uttered its joy in voiceless silence or in an ecstasy of frenzied delight.

Another Springtime—another unfolding of the wonders of Nature! Walt Whitman spoke of the grass as "the handkerchief of the Lord. A scented gift and remembrances, designedly dropped." All Springtime is a doxology—unrehearsed!

THE WASHINGTON MERRY-GO-ROUND

U. S. Packers Balk at Processing Horse Meat for Europe, Drew Pearson Reports

By DREW PEARSON

WASHINGTON, April 5—An important debate has been taking place among food experts inside the administration regarding the use of horse meat for feeding Europe.

Horse meat is a type of food which Americans know little about. Within Europe it is standard diet and certain countries, especially France and Belgium, have repeatedly informed the United States that they would like to buy more horse meat here. If two and a half billion pounds of horse meat could be sold to Europe — which is the amount available in the U. S. A. — it would take care of most of Europe's feeding problems and eliminate any need for U. S. A. rationing.

Such a program has been urged by UNRRA officials and also by some experts in the army and navy. However, the plan has run up against several snags, chiefly that of United States meat packers.

The big packers don't want the American public to get the idea that horse meat is processed in their plants. They fear that the suspicion would linger in the consumers' mind even after the emergency that horse meat might be mixed with beef and pork. To get around this, the Agriculture department has been buying small amounts of horse meat from smaller meat packers, many of them state-licensed. However, Harry Reed, who does most of the meat procurement for UNRRA in the Department of Agriculture, leans toward the big meat packers and they never have wanted small state packers to get into the inter-state business.

Horse Meat Feeds Zoos

Another source of opposition is expected to come from the many horse lovers throughout the country who probably would claim that the United States was being denuded of horses.

Officials point out, however, that several hundred horses are slaughtered weekly all over the United States to feed the zoos of the nation. Furthermore, the United States today has a larger surplus of horses than ever before in history. Agriculture department estimates are that 3,000,000 surplus horses are now on the ranges and farms of the country. The grain which they alone consume would go a long way toward feeding Europe.

Officials estimate that these 3,000,000 surplus horses would supply a total of two and a half billion pounds of meat, also give fats for soap, together with hides to ease the scarcity of leather.

Note — While prices of almost everything tended upward during the war, the price of horses did not. Government buyers purchasing draft animals for UNRRA report that the country has thousands of four to six-year old horses which have never been harnessed. Farmers haven't had time to break them in, would like to sell them if prices were right.

Bumptious Gen. Vaughn

Twelve years ago, famous Filipino Gen. Emilio Aguinaldo sent President Roosevelt a nine and one-half-foot carved table of Philippine hardwood designed to serve as a cabinet table. It was so large, however, that it couldn't get through the doors of the cabinet room and has remained in the main executive office lobby ever since.

The table is a beautiful piece of workmanship with four large carved buffalo heads originally attached to the four legs. For many years these buffalo heads were admired by all White House visitors even though someone occasionally bumped their knees against them.

The other morning, however, Brig. Gen. Harry Vaughn, White House military aide, hurrying through the White House lobby, also bumped his knee on a buffalo. Promptly the four carved buffalo heads came off. It mattered not that the table was a present from the Philippines' most famous leader in token of his long withheld friendship to the U. S. A. Gen. Vaughn had bumped his knee, so the buffalo heads were removed.

Congressman's Pay

Elder Statesman Josephus Daniels points out that in addition to his $10,000 a year salary, a congressman receives various additional perquisites, such as $16,120 annually for each senator to pay his office help, $9,500 for each representative to pay his office staff, while committee chairmen get additional clerk expenses.

The ex-secretary of the navy also observes that Sen. McKellar, of Tennessee, has a total of $38,140 to spend for office assistants. However, Mr. Daniels, more courteous than this columnist, did not mention the McKellar relatives on the senator's payroll, plus his government limousine and chauffeur.

Sen. Josiah Bailey, of North Carolina, also gets $19,720 annually to pay for clerks on his Senate Commerce committee; while other committee chairmen receive extra allowances.

However, it remains a fact that conscientious congressmen, with no independent income, are unable to save money in Washington, especially if they are scrupulous about campaign contributions. Perhaps the solution is the system of pensions for long-serving congressmen, despite the fact that a sensitive House of Representatives just vetoed a pension plan last week.

Capital Chaff

Rep. Clare Boothe Luce, of Connecticut, who has announced she will not seek re-election this fall, is busy writing two plays now. She also waited quite a while for an appointment at the White House, complained to Republican colleagues that apparently the president doesn't want to see her. . . .

Congressmen could save money for the treasury if they would read the Congressional Record more carefully. Three days after Sen. Styles Bridges, of New Hampstire, had inserted an article on the German underground movement, five columns of close type, Rep. Walter Judd, of Minnesota, inserted exactly the same thing in the Record. . . The Russian Purchasing Commission, after trying unsuccessfully to find quarters in New York, has renewed its lease in Washington for another year. The owner of the apartment house used by the Russians received 6,300 calls and letters from people asking for apartments when the Washington Times-Herald printed a story saying the Russians would not renew their lease.

U. S. Troops in India

Excerpt from a letter sent by a United States sergeant in India: "How pathetic it is to see grown men exiled by their own people. I am the first sergeant of a group of men here in India. It is up to me to keep the morale of the men up. There is no work to do, so I try to organize games to keep their minds busy. But it is up to the people back home to see that they, at least, have hopes of something to look forward to—some definite information instead of depressing rumors.

"In the last month I have lost three men to the mental ward. One I had the misfortune of seeing last week, a fine, healthy, American sergeant, this week a babbling idiot in a strait-jacket, who can remember nothing but his wife's name. There are dozens of such cases, and they certainly aren't war casualties."

"It Says Here"

By BOB HOPE

These past weeks I've been playing colleges. The professors are all in favor of my putting my show on in institutions of higher learning . . . They say the contrast is good for the students.

When I first start my show, the students are very quiet, but after I tell a few jokes, you can hear the I. Q.'s dropping all over the place.

During basketball season the auditoriums were very messy after I played in them . . . They used to catch the eggs and try to dribble 'em down the aisles.

I played to an all-girl college once and my reception was practically the same, although I did notice one slight difference . . . They gave me the bird an octave higher.

But times have changed since I went to school. We couldn't have thought of going around any bars . . . At my school they were on the windows and charged with electricity. I remember our biggest rival was S. C. . . . solitary confinement. A lot of people get out of colleges with honors and several degrees behind them . . . I got out with a guard and several bloodhounds behind me.

Russia May Have Been the Victor In Iran Dispute

By DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON, April 5—Diplomacy has many a means of saving face for governments that get into embarrassing positions but no better example of its operations has been furnished than the way Great Britain, the United States and Russia extricated themselves from the Iran dilemma.

On the surface it looks as if the United Nations Organization won a victory over Russia. But it could also turn out that Russia outsmarted the other powers. The answer will come only when it is known what the government of Iran does about oil wanted by the Soviets and about the setting up an an autonomous republic friendly to Russia in the northern part of Iran.

So far as the record of words is concerned, Russia hasn't altered her pledges or promises or conceded that she violated any. The assumption that the Soviet was maintaining troops in Iran and coercing the little country was widely made but nowhere is there any record or investigation that proves it.

Explanation Accepted

True enough, the Russians promised to evacuate their troops "if no unforseen circumstances" arose and there were indications that some of these circumstances might be the failure of Iran to grant the Russians the concessions they are asking. But when the Moscow government now officially announces that there wasn't the slightest connection between the promise to withdraw troops and the matter of oil concessions, the UNO promptly accepts the explanation and everybody seems to be happy.

The Russians never admitted before that there was any connection. All they said and all they have now admitted is that the demands for oil and the negotiations for the withdrawal of the troops happened to coincide and were carried on in a parallel manner. The British and American observers can read into this all they like but the Russians innocently insist such suspicions are unfounded.

The truth is the Iranian government has a premier who is friendly to Russia and he isn't likely to tell what the Russians said or what pressure they put on his government.

So long as Iran doesn't argue the case further, the world will be no wiser. What measures the Russians used to infiltrate into Iran, what methods they adopted to win the premier to their side what form their propaganda took to undermine the Iranian representative in New York by reports that he didn't have the confidence of his government and all the other measures that were made in the last fortnight — all this will not be put into perspective until more information is available from observers in Iran itself.

Heartening to Small Nations

Certainly there may be basis for the pride of the UNO in having kept Russia from grabbing Iran completely. There may be basis, too, for the belief that Russia might have used her troops coercively if the UNO hadn't stepped in and put the white light of publicity on the whole episode. Small nations everywhere will take heart from the way UNO operated. But it remains to be seen whether Russia didn't have the situation well in hand when she announced that she had an "understanding" with Iran and that there was no use bringing the matter to the attention of the Security Council.

Russia wanted until April 10 before discussing the Iran affair. A settlement was expected to be and has been reached before that date—and on Russia's terms. She did not take her troops out of Iran on March 2 as agreed nor did she evacuate them anywhere near that date. She now announces that it will be May 6 and, because Iran accepts that date, the Security Council agrees to forget about it—though the violation of the treaty is as plain today as it was on March 2.

Maybe the UNO Security Council decided that too much fuss had been raised about the affair anyway and accepted the easiest way out. Anyway Russia has obtained her postponement beyond April 10, succeeding by an adroitly phrased note in getting the matter off the Security Council table. And still Moscow has plenty of time to "negotiate" for oil and other matters with Iran. The UNO may have won a moral victory — but Russia may turn out to have gotten what she wanted in Iran.

Bowles and Lewis Fight on Opposite Sides of Fence

By MARK SULLIVAN

Stabilization Director Chester Bowles fights for continuation of price control. Simultaneously, Mr. John L. Lewis fights for higher wages for coal miners. The two fights, taken together, illustrate what is going on about inflation.

If Mr. Lewis gets the wage raise he fights for, the price of coal to consumers will go up. Just how much is not certain. The wage raise which coal operators have already offered is equivalent to about eighteen cents per hour. That, it is estimated, would result in an increase of some twenty to thirty cents per ton in the price of coal.

Here Mr. Bowles enters the picture. He, with the Office of Price Administration, is supposed to keep the price of coal (and other goods) from rising. But of course he cannot—if wages go up, the price of coal goes up. It is automatic, and has been proved. When Mr. Lewis got a previous raise in wages, an increase in the price of coal was announced immediately.

It has happened in other commodities. Last week OPA announced an increase in the manufacturers' price of automobiles, and said the increase was caused by the wage-raise recently won by the automobile workers' union. Not long before, OPA similarly announced an increase in prices of some meats, and similarly explained that it was due to the wage raise won by the strike of the meat workers' union. A few weeks before, OPA announced an increase in the price of steel, due, again, to the wage raise won by the strike of the steel workers' union.

Pay Boost Is Pervasive

It has to be. All Mr. Bowles can do is to beat the devil around the stump in order to keep the price increase as low as possible. In announcing the increase in manufacturers' prices of automobiles, OPA tried to minimize the effect by squeezing retailers—it reduced the margin between what retailers pay to manufacturers and what they charge the public. Even so, the public will pay as much as $51 more for familiar makes of cars.

A wage raise to one union does not stop with an increase of price in the one line of goods made by that union. It is pervasive, ramified into other lines of goods. If Mr. Lewis gets his wage raise, more than the price of soft coal will be increased. In every industry using soft coal for fuel, the cost of the goods it makes will be increased, hence also the price to consumers.

These two—raise in wages followed by increase in prices—are the mechanism of inflation. It is automatic and it is at work constantly—today a wage raise, tomorrow a price increase. Then having completed one round of the inflation spiral, the mechanism begins another. The increases in prices of goods taking place in many lines, cause higher cost of living. This leads to demands of unions for yet another wage raise. And so on, round after round.

No End Is in Sight

No end to the process is in sight. It is a process by which the only certain way to end it is to prevent it from beginning. This was early seen by Mr. Bernard M. Baruch. From the time the war first created danger of inflation, he advocated "freezing" both wages and prices—wages not to go up, prices not to go up.

After the war ended, the Truman administration, in policies adopted for the reconversion period, followed one course about wages, another about prices. About wages, the administration policy was to encourage raises. About prices, the policy was to prevent or restrain increases. The two could not go together. After wage raises were made, the price increases followed.

If the administration knows a way to stop the process, and has the determination to do so, the opportunity and the need are presented by Mr. Lewis's coal strike. Maybe Mr. Bowles has the necessary resolution. If he says there must not be any increase in the price of coal, Mr. Lewis cannot get the wage raise he is fighting for. If Mr. Bowles really resists Mr. Lewis, and does not successfully, he will be about the first official in either the Truman or the Roosevelt administration who has had occasion to resist Mr. Lewis, and whom Mr. Lewis could not cow or otherwise beat.

Yes, Day Dreams Are Worth While

DAY DREAMS—what wonderful things they are to be sure, and what a stimulus they can provide the tired body and the weary mind.

In our youth we visualized them—and "the thoughts of youth are long, long thoughts." They always looked ahead into the roseate future with success, wealth, pleasures and luxuries abounding. There were opportunities galore and what difficulties and hardships they entailed were overlooked in the glory of achievement and possession.

In age they are a priceless enjoyment, too. A tired businessman gave an account of one he had the other day while drowzily reclining in a huge and comfortable armchair. He had put his feet up on a table—the women folks were nowhere around at the time—and that probably reminded him of the scene he visualized from the distant past, which had stuck in his memory and came back at different times through a long, busy and somewhat strenuous career.

It was when on a summer's day he lay, a small barefoot boy, upon the floor of the sitting room in a green-shuttered white cottage in a southern Ohio riverside town—the home of his boyhood. He stuck his feet up on a chair as he lay there. His feet were dirty, too, he remembered, as boys' feet are when they go barefooted. But he was brazenly unashamed.

The scene was indelibly karanougraphed upon his mind. An old-fashioned rag carpet was on the floor, the quaint pattern of which was still vividly remembered. The wall paper had large and fantastic figures of graceful trees by a brookside. A marble-topped stand was in the center of the room, bearing a kerosene lamp with a spreading shade. On the mantelpiece was a pressed glass vase filled with tapers he had helped Grandma twist from old newspapers. A tall box-like clock was there, too, with a glass-paned front like a door, the lower half of which bore a gaily-colored Alpine scene about a circular space through which the swinging brass-disked pendulum gleamed. He could yet hear the sweet melody of its deep-toned wiry chime.

Beyond on a wall hung a picture of a white-gowned, long-haired maiden clinging to a huge cross on a wave-dashed rock in the ocean. "Rock of Ages" was the title. An old-fashioned solid walnut bookcase touched the low ceiling on one one side. There were chairs made from hickory which Grandpa had bought from a shanty-boat man. A big dictionary stood in a skeleton frame. Outside the sun shone warmly and the insects droned and buzzed.

He remembered his thoughts then. "What can I do now? Maybe Harry Maxon can come over to play; and maybe we can get Maurice Aleshire or Odd McIntyre and so swimming in the old swimmin' hole in Chickamauga creek." Ah, what ineffable pleasure and luxury that! No clothes to fuss over, no perplexing business arrangements to worry about, no pile of bills to pay, no entertainments to scheme. Nothing of today with its dashing around in automobiles, its radios, its movies, its blaring and glaring night clubs and its countless other conveniences and pleasures can measure up to those boyhood days even though they brought pains with stone bruises and cuts and scratches and bumps. It was just over the fence and go.

But it was too soon yet to chase up the other boys and meanwhile the lad lay idly kicking his heels on the chair and indulging in other thoughts, not of the immediate carefree present but of the glorious indefinable future. These all came to the same thing—achievement, success, honor and fame. Like the beggarly boy who lived in a cellar damp and had neither book nor a toy but who had an Alladin's lamp and who, when he could not sleep for the cold or was kept awake by the rain, "builded with roofs of gold" his "beautiful castles in Spain." And they were wondrous and magnificent structures, too. But now he was going to own a steamboat, a long, graceful stern-wheeler, glistening white with gold trimmings; it was to be named The Marguerite, and he was to be its captain!

It was life and fun and anticipation beyond all comparison. And—there was an incomparable cherry pie on a shelf out there in the kitchen cupboard, access to which against periods of hunger was never denied—a pie which only Grandma knew how to make.

Day dreams—they are worth while, whether by young or old. They help, sometimes, to carry on when we think we have burdens and difficulties and sorrows intolerable, when, perhaps, they are not so unbearable after all. They all stem from the past, but they should not rest there because the glory and the joy and the pleasurable anticipation of the good things we can visualize and plan for the future are balm in Gilhead and comfort to the heart.

Commendable Move In Courts-Martial

IN ACTING to overhaul the army's court-martial system, as in his recent appointment of a committee to inquire into the relationships between officers and enlisted men, Secretary of War Patterson has shown a highly commendable openmindedness as well as an eagerness to improve the American military system. A smaller man might have contented himself with defending the War department against criticism which often has been exaggerated and overdrawn. Mr. Patterson has adopted the far wiser and more constructive course of assuming that so much smoke must indicate some fire and taking steps to improve the system.

There is not much doubt that courts-martial have produced a great many cases of injustice and that many of the sentences handed out have been unduly severe. In the majority of these cases the system which provides for review by special army boards probably offers a sufficient safeguard for men who have been penalized too harshly.

But it is more than likely that there is room or improvement in a system of military justice which has stood unchanged for a quarter of a century. Penology has made substantial progress in that period. Ideas have changed about the type of treatment that will deter men from crime and improve chances for their reclamation.

According to Secretary Patterson, "The War department wants the most efficient and just system of military justice that can be devised in the light of military experience. American conceptions of punitive justice and enlightened penology." No one can quarrel with that.

Postwar Sir Troubles

THE GENERALS and the admirals are on the defensive but they probably are not losing too much sleep over postwar outbursts against the officer caste system in the American defense force. They know their history. They know that after every great war the people and the politicians complain loud and long about what they call the undemocratic armed forces.

But the people and the politicians soon forget, and the army, navy and marines go their way, as officers and men, as they always have in this country and in every other country.

Nor is the criticism of the officer corps confined to wartime. In 1839, a bill to abolish West Point on the ground that it was hatching an aristocracy came near passing Congress. Cadet U. S. Grant recalled that he read newspaper accounts of the progress of the bill with the hope that it would become law and he would be sent home.

In the Civil war, the regular army was kept intact. Volunteers elected their officers. That was supposed to be democratic. But it took the elected officers two years to condition their men for effective battle. The system speeded enactment of the land college act, which required the training of students for officer duty. In the last two wars mistakes were made. Some officers failed. But most of them were true to their creed and their responsibility.

It is likely, therefore, that the present agitation for army and navy reorganization may correct some abuses and further emphasize merit over seniority. But it can hardly be expected to affect the basic pattern. Nor should it be. The Russian reds tried to precinct committeeman system until the professional officers of the little Finnish army stood off the invading communist divisions with military science and disciplined troops. The officer system offends those who are not officers, but it wins wars.

Sounding an Alert

TRAFFIC ACCIDENTS drive home the accuracy of the National Safety Council's prediction that the end of the war would bring to the country the greatest crop of driving injuries and fatalities in history. Everyone who drives must be conscious that possible injury or death rides at the wheel, waiting for some slip on his part, or some lapse of judgment. With every driver operating his machine with greatest conscientiousness, there will still be more accidents during 1946 than most persons will care to contemplate.

The use of merged capital letters to designate government agencies and other organizations has become so extensive and habitual that much confusion is resulting. Half the time readers are puzzled as to just what organization is meant, especially in view of the fact that many designate two or more of them. Maybe we can get away from it in time, but probably not until the axe is used more extensively in Washington.

Headline writers do not take an altogether pessimistic view of Gromyko and the UNO. His name, for headline purposes, could have been much worse.

The average gardener wouldn't have such high hopes if those seed catalogs were not printed by artists looking at their vegetable models through a magnifying glass.

THE WASHINGTON MERRY-GO-ROUND

U. S. Packers Balk at Processing Horse Meat for Europe, Drew Pearson Reports

By DREW PEARSON

WASHINGTON, April 5—An important debate has been taking place among food experts inside the administration regarding the use of horse meat for feeding Europe.

Horse meat is a type of food which Americans know little about. Within Europe it is standard diet and certain countries, especially France and Belgium, have repeatedly informed the United States that they would like to buy more horse meat here. If two and a half billion pounds of horse meat could be sold to Europe — which is the amount available in the U. S. A. — it would take care of most of Europe's feeding problems and eliminate any need for U. S. A. rationing.

Such a program has been urged by UNRRA officials and also by some experts in the army and navy. However, the plan has run up against several snags, chiefly that of United States meat packers.

The big packers don't want the American public to get the idea that horse meat is processed in their plants. They fear that the suspicion would linger in the consumers' mind even after the emergency that horse meat might be mixed with beef and pork. To get around this, the Agriculture department has been buying small amounts of horse meat from smaller meat packers, many of them state-licensed. However, Harry Reed, who does most of the meat procurement for UNRRA in the Department of Agriculture, leans toward the big meat packers and they never have wanted small state packers to get into the inter-state business.

Horse Meat Feeds Zoos

Another source of opposition is expected to come from the many horse lovers throughout the country who probably would claim that the United States was being denuded of horses.

Officials point out, however, that several hundred horses are slaughtered weekly all over the United States to feed the zoos of the nation. Furthermore, the United States today has a larger surplus of horses than ever before in history. Agriculture department estimates are that 3,000,000 surplus horses are now on the ranges and farms of the country. The grain which they alone consume would go a long way toward feeding Europe.

Officials estimate that these 3,000,000 surplus horses would supply a total of two and a half billion pounds of meat, also give fats for soap, together with hides to ease the scarcity of leather.

Note — While prices of almost everything tended upward during the war, the price of horses did not. Government buyers purchasing draft animals for UNRRA report that the country has thousands of four to six-year old horses which have never been harnessed. Farmers haven't had time to break them in, would like to sell them if prices were right.

Bumptious Gen. Vaughn

Twelve years ago, famous Filipino Gen. Emilio Aguinaldo sent President Roosevelt a nine and one-half-foot carved table of Philippine hardwood designed to serve as a cabinet table. It was so large, however, that it couldn't get through the doors of the cabinet room and has remained in the main executive office lobby ever since.

The table is a beautiful piece of workmanship with four large carved buffalo heads originally attached to the four legs. For many years these buffalo heads were admired by all White House visitors even though someone occasionally bumped their knees against them.

The other morning, however, Brig. Gen. Harry Vaughn, White House military aide, hurrying through the White House lobby, also bumped his knee on a buffalo. Promptly the four carved buffalo heads came off. It mattered not that the table was a present from the Philippines' most famous leader in token of his long withheld friendship to the U. S. A. Gen. Vaughn had bumped his knee, so the buffalo heads were removed.

Congressman's Pay

Elder Statesman Josephus Daniels points out that in addition to his $10,000 a year salary, a congressman receives various additional perquisites, such as $16,120 annually for each senator to pay his office help, $9,500 for each representative to pay his office staff, while committee chairmen get additional clerk expenses.

The ex-secretary of the navy also observes that Sen. McKellar, of Tennessee, has a total of $38,140 to spend for office assistants. However, Mr. Daniels, more courteous than this columnist, did not mention the McKellar relatives on the senator's payroll, plus his government limousine and chauffeur.

Sen. Josiah Bailey, of North Carolina, also gets $19,720 annually to pay for clerks on his Senate Commerce committee; while other committee chairmen receive extra allowances.

However, it remains a fact that conscientious congressmen, with no independent income, are unable to save money in Washington, especially if they are scrupulous about campaign contributions. Perhaps the solution is the system of pensions for long-serving congressmen, despite the fact that a sensitive House of Representatives just vetoed a pension plan last week.

Capital Chaff

Rep. Clare Boothe Luce, of Connecticut, who has announced she will not seek re-election this fall, is busy writing two plays now. She also waited quite a while for an appointment at the White House, complained to Republican colleagues that apparently the president doesn't want to see her. . .

Congressmen could save money for the treasury if they would read the Congressional Record more carefully. Three days after Sen. Styles Bridges, of New Hampstire, had inserted an article on the German underground movement, five columns of close type, Rep. Walter Judd, of Minnesota, inserted exactly the same thing in the Record. . . The Russian Purchasing Commission, after trying unsuccessfully to find quarters in New York, has renewed its lease in Washington for another year. The owner of the apartment house used by the Russians received 6,300 calls and letters from people asking for apartments when the Washington Times-Herald printed a story saying the Russians would not renew their lease.

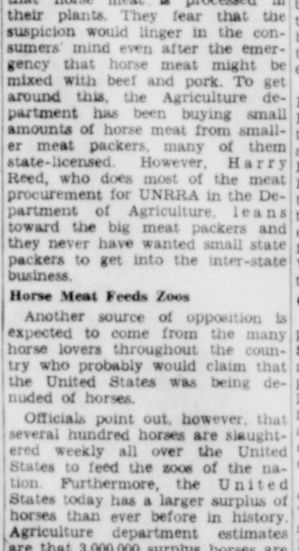

U. S. Troops in India

Excerpt from a letter sent by a United States sergeant in India: "How pathetic it is to see grown men exiled by their own people. I am the first sergeant of a group of men here in India. It is up to me to keep the morale of the men up. There is no work to do, so I try to organize games to keep their minds busy. But it is up to the people back home to see that they, at least, have hopes of something to look forward to—some definite information instead of depressing rumors.

"In the last month I have lost three men to the mental ward. One I had the misfortune of seeing last week, a fine, healthy, American sergeant, this week a babbling idiot in a strait-jacket, who can remember nothing but his wife's name. There are dozens of such cases, and they certainly aren't war casualties."

"It Says Here"

By BOB HOPE

These past weeks I've been playing colleges. The professors are all in favor of my putting my show on in institutions of higher learning . . . They say the contrast is good for the students.

When I first start my show, the students are very quiet, but after I tell a few jokes, you can hear the I. Q.'s dropping all over the place.

During basketball season the auditoriums were very messy after I played in them . . . They used to catch the eggs and try to dribble 'em down the aisles.

I played to an all-girl college once and my reception was practically the same, although I did notice one slight difference . . . They gave me the bird an octave higher.

But times have changed since I went to school. We couldn't have thought of going around any bars . . . At my school they were on the windows and charged with electricity. I remember our biggest rival was S. C. . . . solitary confinement. A lot of people get out of colleges with honors and several degrees behind them . . . I got out with a guard and several bloodhounds behind me.

Russia May Have Been the Victor In Iran Dispute

By DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON, April 5—Diplomacy has many a means of saving face for governments that get into embarrassing positions but no better example of its operations has been furnished than the way Great Britain, the United States and Russia extricated themselves from the Iran dilemma.

On the surface it looks as if the United Nations Organization won a victory over Russia. But it could also turn out that Russia outsmarted the other powers. The answer will come only when it is known what the government of Iran does about oil wanted by the Soviets and about the setting up an an autonomous republic friendly to Russia in the northern part of Iran.

So far as the record of words is concerned, Russia hasn't altered her pledges or promises or conceded that she violated any. The assumption that the Soviet was maintaining troops in Iran and coercing the little country was widely made but nowhere is there any record or investigation that proves it.

Explanation Accepted

True enough, the Russians promised to evacuate their troops "if no unforseen circumstances" arose and there were indications that some of these circumstances might be the failure of Iran to grant the Russians the concessions they are asking. But when the Moscow government now officially announces that there wasn't the slightest connection between the promise to withdraw troops and the matter of oil concessions, the UNO promptly accepts the explanation and everybody seems to be happy.

The Russians never admitted before that there was any connection. All they said and all they have now admitted is that the demands for oil and the negotiations for the withdrawal of the troops happened to coincide and were carried on in a parallel manner. The British and American observers can read into this all they like but the Russians innocently insist such suspicions are unfounded.

The truth is the Iranian government has a premier who is friendly to Russia and he isn't likely to tell what the Russians said or what pressure they put on his government.

So long as Iran doesn't argue the case further, the world will be no wiser. What measures the Russians used to infiltrate into Iran, what methods they adopted to win the premier to their side what form their propaganda took to undermine the Iranian representative in New York by reports that he didn't have the confidence of his government and all the other measures that were made in the last fortnight — all this will not be put into perspective until more information is available from observers in Iran itself.

Heartening to Small Nations

Certainly there may be basis for the pride of the UNO in having kept Russia from grabbing Iran completely. There may be basis, too, for the belief that Russia might have used her troops coercively if the UNO hadn't stepped in and put the white light of publicity on the whole episode. Small nations everywhere will take heart from the way UNO operated. But it remains to be seen whether Russia didn't have the situation well in hand when she announced that she had an "understanding" with Iran and that there was no use bringing the matter to the attention of the Security Council.

Russia wanted until April 10 before discussing the Iran affair. A settlement was expected to be and has been reached before that date—and on Russia's terms. She did not take her troops out of Iran on March 2 as agreed nor did she evacuate them anywhere near that date. She now announces that it will be May 6 and, because Iran accepts that date, the Security Council agrees to forget about it—though the violation of the treaty is as plain today as it was on March 2.

Maybe the UNO Security Council decided that too much fuss had been raised about the affair anyway and accepted the easiest way out. Anyway Russia has obtained her postponement beyond April 10, succeeding by an adroitly phrased note in getting the matter off the Security Council table. And still Moscow has plenty of time to "negotiate" for oil and other matters with Iran. The UNO may have won a moral victory — but Russia may turn out to have gotten what she wanted in Iran.

Bowles and Lewis Fight on Opposite Sides of Fence

By MARK SULLIVAN

Stabilization Director Chester Bowles fights for continuation of price control. Simultaneously, Mr. John L. Lewis fights for higher wages for coal miners. The two fights, taken together, illustrate what is going on about inflation.

If Mr. Lewis gets the wage raise he fights for, the price of coal to consumers will go up. Just how much is not certain. The wage raise which coal operators have already offered is equivalent to about eighteen cents per hour. That, it is estimated, would result in an increase of some twenty to thirty cents per ton in the price of coal.

Here Mr. Bowles enters the picture. He, with the Office of Price Administration, is supposed to keep the price of coal (and other goods) from rising. But of course he cannot—if wages go up, the price of coal goes up. It is automatic, and has been proved. When Mr. Lewis got a previous raise in wages, an increase in the price of coal was announced immediately.

It has happened in other commodities. Last week OPA announced an increase in the manufacturers' price of automobiles, and said the increase was caused by the wage-raise recently won by the automobile workers' union. Not long before, OPA similarly announced an increase in prices of some meats, and similarly explained that it was due to the wage raise won by the strike of the meat workers' union. A few weeks before, OPA announced an increase in the price of steel, due, again, to the wage raise won by the strike of the steel workers' union.

Pay Boost Is Pervasive

It has to be. All Mr. Bowles can do is to beat the devil around the stump in order to keep the price increase as low as possible. In announcing the increase in manufacturers' prices of automobiles, OPA tried to minimize the effect by squeezing retailers—it reduced the margin between what retailers pay to manufacturers and what they charge the public. Even so, the public will pay as much as $51 more for familiar makes of cars.

A wage raise to one union does not stop with an increase of price in the one line of goods made by that union. It is pervasive, ramified into other lines of goods. If Mr. Lewis gets his wage raise, more than the price of soft coal will be increased. In every industry using soft coal for fuel, the cost of the goods it makes will be increased, hence also the price to consumers.

These two—raise in wages followed by increase in prices—are the mechanism of inflation. It is automatic and it is at work constantly—today a wage raise, tomorrow a price increase. Then having completed one round of the inflation spiral, the mechanism begins another. The increases in prices of goods taking place in many lines, cause higher cost of living. This leads to demands of unions for yet another wage raise. And so on, round after round.

No End Is in Sight

No end to the process is in sight. It is a process by which the only certain way to end it is to prevent it from beginning. This was early seen by Mr. Bernard M. Baruch. From the time the war first created danger of inflation, he advocated "freezing" both wages and prices—wages not to go up, prices not to go up.

After the war ended, the Truman administration, in policies adopted for the reconversion period, followed one course about wages, another about prices. About wages, the administration policy was to encourage raises. About prices, the policy was to prevent or restrain increases. The two could not go together. After wage raises were made, the price increases followed.

If the administration knows a way to stop the process, and has the determination to do so, the opportunity and the need are presented by Mr. Lewis's coal strike. Maybe Mr. Bowles has the necessary resolution. If he says there must not be any increase in the price of coal, Mr. Lewis cannot get the wage raise he is fighting for. If Mr. Bowles really resists Mr. Lewis, and does not successfully, he will be about the first official in either the Truman or the Roosevelt administration who has had occasion to resist Mr. Lewis, and whom Mr. Lewis could not cow or otherwise beat.

Two More English Brides To Arrive Here Next Week

Two more English Brides of Allegany county soldiers are expected to arrive in the states on Tuesday, when the S. S. Holbrook, docks in New York.

Mrs. Iris Wilson of Plymouth, England, wife of Leonard Wilson of 47 Blackstone avenue, and Edith Jones and her three children, wife of Edward Jones, Hanekamp street, Lonaconing, are aboard the ship, according to Mrs. Louise C. Dean, home service secretary of Allegany County Chapter American Red Cross.

Leonard Wilson left Cumberland with Company G, when the local National Guard unit was mustered into federal service over five years ago. He married his young English bride on August 12, 1944, while he was serving in the British Isles. Wilson was overseas three years and eleven days. He was recently discharged and is now employed by the street department, city of Cumberland. He said last night that he will not go to New York to meet his bride, but will meet her when she arrives here. The couple will reside at 47 Blackstone avenue. They have no children.

Mt. District Legion Auxiliary Leads Membership Drive

Membership in the Mountain district of the American Legion Auxiliary has reached an all time high and is first in the Department of Maryland, Mrs. Earl Smith, Lonaconing, district vice president, has announced.

Besides carrying out programs outlined by the national and state departments, "at this time," Mrs. Smith said, "the district is leading in three membership points. It has increased its membership over last year from 501 to 757; it also has the largest new unit; and the unit showing the largest increase in membership."

The largest new unit is Victory Unit, Westernport, which has fifty-nine members. Memorial Unit, Mt. Savage, has increased from an enrollment of twelve to sixty-six.

Fort Cumberland Unit, city, is now enrolling mothers, wives, sisters and daughters of World War II veterans. Mrs. Harry Vogel is local chairman.

Dr. J. K. Rozum Named Marine Corps Examiner

Dr. John K. Rozum, of 305 Decatur street, has been appointed medical examiner for the marine corps recruiting station here, S-Sgt. Murrel W. Brainerd, local recruiter said yesterday.

This will make it possible for recruits to have examinations here before being sent to Baltimore. It has been the practice of local recruiting stations, army, navy and Marine corps, to send recruits to Baltimore for examinations. A percentage of these enlistments have been rejected, and has been the cause of some embarrassment to the recruits, especially after their names had been published, Brainerd said.

It will now be possible to enlist and take examinations here before leaving the city. Dr. Rozum was recently discharged from the navy as a lieutenant commander after a year's service. He has resumed his local practice and is also city physician and police surgeon.

Joy Wilson Honors Two Brides-Elect

The daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Alexander Dayton, Park Heights, Miss Dayton and Pvt. Donald L. Whiteman, son of Mrs. Edgar Whiteman, Elm street, will be married this spring.

The bridal motif was combined with spring flowers in the decorations of the refreshment table, where covers were laid for eight guests.

FAILURE TO ASSIGN AUTO TITLE COSTS H. V. SIRBAUGH $50

Henry V. Sirbaugh, 1104 Ella street, was charged yesterday in trial magistrates' court with failure to assign title at the time of sale and delivery of an automobile, and was $50 and costs. Unable to pay the fine he was committed to jail, but released a short time later when the fine was paid.

Magistrate Frank A. Perdew said Sirbaugh asserted he was unable to find the title at the time of the sale, and sold the car to a man named Jackson for $75. A short time later, Jackson was told a local bank held a lien on the car for $150 which was unsettled, Sirbugh then found the title, showing the lien. The sale took place in January, the magistrate said, and in the meantime, Jackson spent about $150 to $175 getting the car in good condition.

In an opinion handed down by Associate Judge Walter C. Capper, the equity action of Thomas and Berta Hunt against Clyde M. and Ersa Westfall, his wife, was dismissed with the plaintiffs given the right to pursue their action for damages on the law docket.

The plaintiffs bought a property at 212 Avirett avenue on December 26, 1944, from the Westfalls, through C. A. Jewell, an agent, it was alleged, and the Westfalls sold the same property on January 30, 1945, to the Loyal Order of the Moose lodge.

The equity action asked for specific performance of the sale contract, while the suit on the law docket asked damages for breach of contract. The court dismissed the first action, with the plaintiffs allowed to pursue the damage suit.

Assorted Utilities, Industrials Make Further Headway in Market

NEW YORK, April 5 (AP) — Assorted utilities and industrials managed to make some further headway in today's stock market although leaders generally were depressed by light profit cashing.

Most steels, rails and motors were down after a steady opening. Losses of fractions to two or more points predominated at the close. Dealings tapered throughout and transfers of 1,660,000 shares compared with 2,130,000 Thursday.

Electric Boat added one-half point. Ahead were General Public Utilities, Consolidated Edison, Electric Power and Light, Public Service of New Jersey, American and Foreign Power, American Water Works, Columbia Gas, International Paper, Sears Roebuck, Eastern Air Lines, du Pont and Standard Oil (NJ).

Dow Chemical exemplified the "thinness" of the market by dropping the six and three-fourths points it gained in the preceding session on sales of only 300 shares. Allied Chemical was off four. Lesser setbacks were suffered by United States Steel, Bethlehem, Chrysler, General motors, Goodrich, Douglas Aircraft, Douglas Aircraft, Grumman (on an earnings dip), Kennecott, Sante Fe, Southern Pacific, Eastman Kodak and Montgomery Ward. Amerada was off four points despite a splitup proposal and a boosted dividend.

Curb advancers were standard Cap, Consolidated Gas of Baltimore, Cities Service, Garrett Corporation and National Bellas Hess. Lower were Northern States Power, Beaunit and North American Light. Turnover here was 640,000 shares against 770,000 yesterday.

Long-term United States Treasury issues continued their upturn at near the top levels in the Bond market today, while corporates moved within a narrow range.

The government 2½s of December 1972-67 climbed one-fourth of a point, the day's permissible change, in outside markets, while the 2½s of June 1972-67 registered an advance of seventeen-thirty-seconds on the exchange.

Total sales of $5,490,000 compared with $5,380,000 Thursday.

Fellowship of Prayer

Daily Lenten Devotional

Prepared by

Dr. GAIUS GLENN ATKINS

SATURDAY, April 6

The eye of the soul: "Lord, that our eyes may be opened—" Matthew 20:33. Read Matthew 20:29—34.

Jesus rebuked the request for high station; He granted the prayer for opened eyes, and so taught us to be always praying for more and clearer light since there are so many kinds of blindness.

Dr. Atkins

This insensate war of ours has doomed a great company of youth to spend all their waiting years in the dark. God forgive us. For back of their physical blindness lies our moral and spiritual blindnesses. They have lost the sunlight and the stars through our transgressions.

We need, therefore, to pray that our eyes may be opened to see beauty and its meanings; to see the longing in the eyes of little children; to see the kindness in the faces of our friends; to see the authority of God's moral order; to see the steep accents of duty; to see the issues of life beyond the hills of time; all this and more. Jesus came not only to open blind eyes by Palestinian roadsides, but to open for us the eye of the soul.

Prayer: Lord of light and vision, grant us Thy light perpetually and when we cannot see the way before us, may we continue to put our trust in Thee and so be kept from falling, this day and always. Through Jesus Christ, our Lord. Amen

NEW YORK, April 5 (AP) — Assorted utilities and industrials managed to make some further headway in today's stock market although leaders generally were depressed by light profit cashing.

Most steels, rails and motors were down after a steady opening. Losses of fractions to two or more points predominated at the close. Dealings tapered throughout and transfers of 1,660,000 shares compared with 2,130,000 Thursday.

Electric Boat added one-half point. Ahead were General Public Utilities, Consolidated Edison, Electric Power and Light, Public Service of New Jersey, American and Foreign Power, American Water Works, Columbia Gas, International Paper, Sears Roebuck, Eastern Air Lines, du Pont and Standard Oil (NJ).

Dow Chemical exemplified the "thinness" of the market by dropping the six and three-fourths points it gained in the preceding session on sales of only 300 shares. Allied Chemical was off four. Lesser setbacks were suffered by United States Steel, Bethlehem, Chrysler, General motors, Goodrich, Douglas Aircraft, Douglas Aircraft, Grumman (on an earnings dip), Kennecott, Sante Fe, Southern Pacific, Eastman Kodak and Montgomery Ward. Amerada was off four points despite a splitup proposal and a boosted dividend.

Curb advancers were standard Cap, Consolidated Gas of Baltimore, Cities Service, Garrett Corporation and National Bellas Hess. Lower were Northern States Power, Beaunit and North American Light. Turnover here was 640,000 shares against 770,000 yesterday.

Long-term United States Treasury issues continued their upturn at near the top levels in the Bond market today, while corporates moved within a narrow range.

The government 2½s of December 1972-67 climbed one-fourth of a point, the day's permissible change, in outside markets, while the 2½s of June 1972-67 registered an advance of seventeen-thirty-seconds on the exchange.

Total sales of $5,490,000 compared with $5,380,000 Thursday.

—Copper was the original standard of value in Italy, and remained the only coinage in Rome until the introduction of silver in 268 B. C.

The eye of the soul: "Lord, that our eyes may be opened—" Matthew 20:33. Read Matthew 20:29—34.

Jesus rebuked the request for high station; He granted the prayer for opened eyes, and so taught us to be always praying for more and clearer light since there are so many kinds of blindness.

Mix a Batch o' Muffins

MOLASSES BRAN MUFFINS are easy to make, good to eat and nutritious.

By CHARLOTTE ADAMS
Associated Press Food Editor

We are asked to eat less bread, and surely all of us will try to do so. But once in a while a batch of home-made muffins will make a real party out of the simplest breakfast or supper. If they are bran ones, they will even be more nutritious. Here's a good basic recipe with possible variations following:

Molasses Bran Muffins

2 cups bran
½ cup molasses
1½ cups milk
1 egg, beaten
1 cup sifted flour
½ teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon soda

Add bran to molasses and milk and allow to soak for fifteen minutes. Light oven for 400° and grease muffin pans. To the bran mixture add egg and flour, sifted with salt and soda. Stir only until flour disappears and batter is still lumpy. Fill muffin pans two-thirds full and bake about twenty minutes.

Corn Meal Muffins

1 cup flour
½ teaspoon salt
3 teaspoons baking powder
1 tablespoon sugar
1 egg, well beaten
¾ cup cornmeal
1 cup milk
¼ cup melted shortening

Mix and sift dry ingredients. Combine egg and milk and add to the dry mixture. Add melted fat and mix just enough to moisten flour. Bake in greased muffin tins at 425° for twenty-twenty-five minutes.

Whole Wheat Muffins

1 cup flour
1 cup whole wheat flour
3 teaspoons baking powder
½ teaspoon salt
2 tablespoons brown sugar
1 egg
1 cup milk
3 tablespoons melted shortening

Mix and sift flour, baking powder, salt and brown sugar. Stir in whole wheat flour. Combine well-beaten egg and milk and add to dry ingredients. Stir only enough to moisten flour. Add melted shortening. Fill muffin tins two-thirds full and bake at 425° 20-25 minutes.

Bran Muffin Variations

1. Make a topping by mixing together: ¾ teaspoon butter or margarine, ¾ teaspoon cinnamon, ½ cup sugar. Sprinkle this mixture over the muffin batter just before baking.
2. Pour a teaspoonful of strained honey and a few finely-chopped nuts into bottom of each muffin tin before filling with batter.
3. After muffins have cooled, cut off top. Scoop out inside and fill with quince or crabapple jam. Replace top.
4. Add to batter a tablespoonful of grated orange rind, a half cup of dried apricots, cut into pieces with scissors, or a half cup of seeded muscat raisins.
5. Add to batter a half cup of crushed pineapple.

Commercial Travelers Will Mark Memorial Day on Sunday

Cumberland Council No. 179, United Commercial Travelers of America, will observe their Memorial day on Sunday morning by attending the worship service at First Methodist church, Frostburg, at 10:45 a. m.

The Rev. Watson E. Holly, pastor, will preach an appropriate sermon. He is a member of Roanoke Council, No. 174, United Commercial Travelers of America.

Members of the council will meet at Odd Fellows hall, South Mechanic street, at 10 a. m. to form a motorcade to drive to the Frostburg church.

On Saturday, April 6, at 7:30 p. m. the council will hold its first meeting under the new administration elected four weeks ago. The meeting will be held at Odd Fellows hall.

Sixty-Eight Postal Employes May Get Raise

Fifty-two regular employes and sixteen extra workers at the Cumberland post office will receive an annual pay increase of $400 if a bill that passed the House of Representatives Wednesday is approved by the Senate.

A $400 increase for postal employes was effective last July 1, but was offset several months later when most employes were put back on a forty-hour week, thereby losing time and a half overtime pay.

Vandegrift, who followed Pittman's car into the city, was fined $11.45 for speeding.

Bernard Leo Kesler, Jr., of 324 Arch street, paid $2.75 fine on a charge of speeding Wednesday on Route 40 at LaVale. Trooper Glen D Folk made the arrest.

MOLASSES BRAN MUFFINS are easy to make, good to eat and nutritious.

We are asked to eat less bread, and surely all of us will try to do so. But once in a while a batch of home-made muffins will make a real party out of the simplest breakfast or supper. If they are bran ones, they will even be more nutritious. Here's a good basic recipe with possible variations following:

Molasses Bran Muffins

2 cups bran
½ cup molasses
1½ cups milk
1 egg, beaten
1 cup sifted flour
½ teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon soda

Add bran to molasses and milk and allow to soak for fifteen minutes. Light oven for 400° and grease muffin pans. To the bran mixture add egg and flour, sifted with salt and soda. Stir only until flour disappears and batter is still lumpy. Fill muffin pans two-thirds full and bake about twenty minutes.

Corn Meal Muffins

1 cup flour
½ teaspoon salt
3 teaspoons baking powder
1 tablespoon sugar
1 egg, well beaten
¾ cup cornmeal
1 cup milk
¼ cup melted shortening

Mix and sift dry ingredients. Combine egg and milk and add to the dry mixture. Add melted fat and mix just enough to moisten flour. Bake in greased muffin tins at 425° for twenty-twenty-five minutes.

Whole Wheat Muffins

1 cup flour
1 cup whole wheat flour
3 teaspoons baking powder
½ teaspoon salt
2 tablespoons brown sugar
1 egg
1 cup milk
3 tablespoons melted shortening

Mix and sift flour, baking powder, salt and brown sugar. Stir in whole wheat flour. Combine well-beaten egg and milk and add to dry ingredients. Stir only enough to moisten flour. Add melted shortening. Fill muffin tins two-thirds full and bake at 425° 20-25 minutes.

Bran Muffin Variations

1. Make a topping by mixing together: ¾ teaspoon butter or margarine, ¾ teaspoon cinnamon, ½ cup sugar. Sprinkle this mixture over the muffin batter just before baking.
2. Pour a teaspoonful of strained honey and a few finely-chopped nuts into bottom of each muffin tin before filling with batter.
3. After muffins have cooled, cut off top. Scoop out inside and fill with quince or crabapple jam. Replace top.
4. Add to batter a tablespoonful of grated orange rind, a half cup of dried apricots, cut into pieces with scissors, or a half cup of seeded muscat raisins.
5. Add to batter a half cup of crushed pineapple.

No. 19168 Equity. In the Circuit Court for Allegany County, Maryland.

The object of this suit is to procure a decree of divorce A VINCULO MATRIMONII, divorcing the plaintiff from the defendant. Fifty-two regular employes and sixteen extra workers at the Cumberland post office will receive an annual pay increase of $400 if a bill that passed the House of Representatives Wednesday is approved by the Senate.

Parents Should Not Push Children Beyond Capacities

By HERMAN N. BUNDESEN, M. D.

Few parents realize how-important happiness is for the little child. Just as his growing body needs sunlight and fresh air, so his developing personality requires the atmosphere to people, and parents generally seem to confuse it with pride. This is a mistake which is completely disruptive of child-happiness because it spurs parents to demand more from the child than he can give.

Forced Growth

A child cannot be forced into his various stages of growth. His nature must develop slowly from within and unfold gently like the unfolding leaf.

The child who lacks or who is pushed beyond his native capacities is likely to develop emotional conflicts. And emotional disturbances are reflected not only in deep-seated personality defects, but in actual physical symptoms similar to those of disease.

Sometimes, there are grave behavior problems as well. . . bed wetting, dirt eating, tics (repeated twitching of certain muscles), and a great deal of crying at night.

Repeated Headache

According to Dr. Herbert C. Miller, of Yale university school of medicine, repeated attacks of headache in the absence of eyestrain, sinus infection, milgraine and certain other disorders, are usually produced by conflict of the emotions or disturbing situations for which the child cannot find a ready solution.

He says also, that attacks of pain over the heart lasting for a short time and accompanied by breathlessness may occur in children who have been pushed beyond their abilities by their parents. Sometimes, they may develop because a child has been forced to assume responsibilities too great for one of his years. Another cause is a feeling of insecurity because of disturbed home conditions or a feeling of not being loved.

Abdominal Pain

Perhaps the most common symptom is due to emotional conflicts is pain in the abdomen. Such attacks of pain, even when accompanied by vomiting and constipation, may merely be an attempt on the part of the child to draw attention to himself.

In trying to determine just what is producing the emotional conflict responsible for the many symptoms, it is necessary not only to study the child's mental condition but also the emotions of the parents.

Parents so often make the mistake of not trying to find out just what the child's capabilities are, but instead, try to mold the boy or girl according to some pattern which they select and, usually, there is no stimulation given to the child to live up to these ideals of the parents. Such an attitude will bring on an emotional conflict which affects both child and parents.

Behavior Problems

In treating these behavior problems, it is important, first of all, to make sure there is no organic basis for the attacks as determined by a complete physical examination. Then, the parents must be made to realize that the child's symptoms are not due to a disease but, rather, to emotional disturbances. Thus, by the proper change in attitude on the part of the parents, a great deal can often be done to relieve the trouble.

Much can be done, also, to prevent these symptoms. The expectant mother should rid herself of superstitions and false notions concerning the raising of the child. She must not be afraid to handle the baby after it is born and she must not lose confidence in her ability to nurse him and care for him properly. A lack of confidence in the mother may easily be transferred to the baby.

If every parent would take stock of these things and realize that he must rid himself of his own emotional conflicts, fears and uncertainties lest they weigh on his child with crushing force, we would have better homes and fewer problem children.

Corps Gets More Esprit de Corps

IRVINGTON, N. J.—(AP)—Eight former Irvington high school athletes had learned to get along so well that they decided to carry on together for the next few years.

The eight together with four other high school students enlisted in the United States Marine Corps in the biggest group induction at the Newark District Marine Corps recruiting office since the office opened.

Blood Donors Wanted

A request for blood donors to enroll at the office of Thomas F. Conlon, local representative of the Maryland Veterans' Commission, was made yesterday by Commander Samuel A. Graham, Fort Cumberland Post No. 13, American Legion. About 100 persons are listed at present in Conlon's office in the Liberty Trust Building.

Both hospitals have been crowded in recent months and calls for blood donors have increased beyond the expectation of the Legion committee handling the blood donor program, Graham said.

Schools To Register Children Next Week

The spring registration of beginning school children will be Monday and Tuesday, April 8 and 9, between the hours of 3:30 p. m. and 5 p. m., in the school system, it was announced yesterday by Superintendent Charles L. Kopp.

In a letter to school principals, Kopp stressed the importance of making a complete canvas in the respective districts in an effort to enroll 100 percent the pre-school children who will enter school in September.

Kopp also stated that the parents of prospective school children who visit the schools should be made to feel at home and given a warm welcome as "this is highly important and the first step in setting up a desirable relationship between the home and the school."

Attention was called to the regulation governing entrance age. Children whose sixth birthday falls on January 1, 1947, or earlier, are eligible for enrollment in September.

Judge Capper Sets Bond For White at $3,000

A writ of habeas corpus was granted yesterday in Garrett county circuit court to William White, 70, Gorman, accused slayer of Ervin S. Steyer, 39, who sought his release from Garrett county jail.

Associate Judge Walter C. Capper granted the writ after a hearing on White's petition which was presented to the court by William R. Offutt, Oakland attorney. Bond of $3,000 was ordered before White gains his release from jail pending action of the September grand jury.

Steyer was shot and killed March 23 at the White home during a quarrel following a drinking bout, according to police.

LOOM O' THE LIGHTS

Sailor folks invented a new and lovely phrase long ago. When they came out of the long, swaying darkness of the ocean and for the first time saw the gleam of a great city against the sky, they called it the "Loom o' the Lights."

Often, at dark times, I've remembered those comforting words. For no matter how heavy the night, sooner or later there'd come the "loom o' the lights." And I thought how true that was in a large sense—how the brave and tender, the loyal and wise have left the loom o' the lights to guide the whole race home through the long journey.

What poor, weak, bewildered things we humans were at first, huddled in caves, fumbling through the darkness without and the deeper darkness within. But always, in every journey, however handicapped by fear and ignorance, there have been some whose records stood out like stars. Those lads who risked and often lost their lives at Attu, Guam and Okinawa and all the bloody beaches of a frantic war—we weep for their lost youth and their bodies wasted on foreign soil. But, till the end, the loom of their young dreams will inspire and guide us through the night. And there are more, so many, many more.

Long lost, forgotten in the ages past, before men ever knew the use of words or pen, they stood out in the darkness like some bright light—men who held honor dearer than their lives . . . who clutched their courage through the fog of fear . . . who dimly saw the loveliness of love—they shine like torches in the darkness of the night. And then that One who let Himself be sacrificed that all men "might be lifted up" to a cleaner, finer height—He will for all time loom against the night.

Do not despair if you own work seems lost—if all your offorts, all your dreams and prayers seem meaningless. Each act of faith and courage, pity and truth will stand for always as a "loom of the lights" to guide and hearten others in their stumbling flight.

Why Truman Got Auto License 5745

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Dr. Francis M Hayden, a dentist, asked for Missouri state license plate 5745 because it is his home address but he gave it up so President Truman could have it.

Mr. Truman, who declined an offer for Missouri tag 1 because he thought it too conspicuous for his family car, asked for 5-7-45 because it stands for the date on which Germany surrendered.

MOTOR CLUB PLANS DANCE; AWARD MERIT BADGES TO PATROL

Members of the Western Maryland Motor Club formulated final plans for a dance, and received a report on the school patrol rally, at the dinner-meeting, last evening at the Queen City hotel.

J. Walter Byer presided and announced that the dance is for members and their friends and will be semi-formal and will be held April 26, at Clary Club, with music from 9 to 1 o'clock by the Modernaires, featuring vocal selections by Betty Lee. Invitations will be sent out in the next few days.

Daniel D'Amico reported that a moving picture, will feature the rally for the school patrol, which will be held May 11, at which time merit barges will be awrded.

Various committees gave their reports and Mr. Byer congratulated the board of directors and members for their attendance and work in building the membership of the organization to more than 200. He also urged them to continue working for the three A club.

Mrs. Mary Brewer, social chairman, reported that she expects to have a guest speaker for the dinner-meeting, May 2.

WRITTEN QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS MARK TRIAL OF MUTE

There was little chance for misunderstanding at a hearing before Magistrate Frank A. Perdew in trial magistrates court Thursday as oral questions and answers gave way to written queries and replies.

Magistrate Perdew was confronted by a mute couple who were encountering domestic difficulties and called on Edgar M. Lewis, court clerk, to write down the questions and answers.

The couple were Mr. and Mrs. Charles Schultz, 408 Footer place, and Mrs. Schultz charged her husband with assaulting her on March 29.

Questions and answers passed back and forth disclosed, court attaches said, that Mrs. Schultz left home on occasional trips to Ohio, West Virginia and once went so far as Colorado. She came home from these jaunts, they added, with a satchel full of letters written to her by boy friends.

Discovery of the letters by the husband would result in a row, according to attaches, who said Schultz wrote in reply to one-question that he did not strike his wife but hit her with a magazine and picture frame.

Magistrate Perdew sentenced Schultz to thirty days in the county jail.

LABOR GROUP RAPS C. OF C. FOR STAND ON FOREMAN ISSUE

The Western Maryland Labor Unity Conference Thursday went on record as opposing the Cumberland Chamber of Commerce's recommendation to exclude foreman from the protection of the Wagner labor act, C. E. Stutzman, temporary president, announced.

Declaring that State Senator Robert B. Kimble has always been "on the people's side," the group, representing AFL, CIO, Brotherhood and independent unions unanimously indorsed the candidacy of the local legislator and promised him "whole hearted support."

Previous action for the continuance of OPA was affirmed. The group is opposing a rent increase for this area recently requested by the real estate board, Stutzman said.

About twenty locals are now affiliated with the labor unity group, including Blacksmith's Local 32 and Machinists Local 212, which presented credentials last evening.

The election of permanent officers was postponed until the next meeting, to be held April 18 at Teamsters hall, so that locals who have signified their intentions of joining the group, may be represented.

Parents Should Not Push Children Beyond Capacities

By HERMAN N. BUNDESEN, M. D.

Few parents realize how-important happiness is for the little child. Just as his growing body needs sunlight and fresh air, so his developing personality requires the atmosphere to people, and parents generally seem to confuse it with pride. This is a mistake which is completely disruptive of child-happiness because it spurs parents to demand more from the child than he can give.

Forced Growth

A child cannot be forced into his various stages of growth. His nature must develop slowly from within and unfold gently like the unfolding leaf.

The child who lacks or who is pushed beyond his native capacities is likely to develop emotional conflicts. And emotional disturbances are reflected not only in deep-seated personality defects, but in actual physical symptoms similar to those of disease.

Sometimes, there are grave behavior problems as well. . . bed wetting, dirt eating, tics (repeated twitching of certain muscles), and a great deal of crying at night.

Repeated Headache

According to Dr. Herbert C. Miller, of Yale university school of medicine, repeated attacks of headache in the absence of eyestrain, sinus infection, milgraine and certain other disorders, are usually produced by conflict of the emotions or disturbing situations for which the child cannot find a ready solution.

He says also, that attacks of pain over the heart lasting for a short time and accompanied by breathlessness may occur in children who have been pushed beyond their abilities by their parents. Sometimes, they may develop because a child has been forced to assume responsibilities too great for one of his years. Another cause is a feeling of insecurity because of disturbed home conditions or a feeling of not being loved.

Abdominal Pain

Perhaps the most common symptom is due to emotional conflicts is pain in the abdomen. Such attacks of pain, even when accompanied by vomiting and constipation, may merely be an attempt on the part of the child to draw attention to himself.

In trying to determine just what is producing the emotional conflict responsible for the many symptoms, it is necessary not only to study the child's mental condition but also the emotions of the parents.

Parents so often make the mistake of not trying to find out just what the child's capabilities are, but instead, try to mold the boy or girl according to some pattern which they select and, usually, there is no stimulation given to the child to live up to these ideals of the parents. Such an attitude will bring on an emotional conflict which affects both child and parents.

Behavior Problems

In treating these behavior problems, it is important, first of all, to make sure there is no organic basis for the attacks as determined by a complete physical examination. Then, the parents must be made to realize that the child's symptoms are not due to a disease but, rather, to emotional disturbances. Thus, by the proper change in attitude on the part of the parents, a great deal can often be done to relieve the trouble.

Much can be done, also, to prevent these symptoms. The expectant mother should rid herself of superstitions and false notions concerning the raising of the child. She must not be afraid to handle the baby after it is born and she must not lose confidence in her ability to nurse him and care for him properly. A lack of confidence in the mother may easily be transferred to the baby.

If every parent would take stock of these things and realize that he must rid himself of his own emotional conflicts, fears and uncertainties lest they weigh on his child with crushing force, we would have better homes and fewer problem children.

Dairy Workers Will Hold Annual Banquet

The annual banquet of Local 924, Dairy Workers and Drivers Union, will be held Saturday evening at 7:30 o'clock in the LaVale Volunteer Fire Department hall, John R. Kelly, president, announced yesterday.

Robert C. Bowers will be toastmaster for the celebration which will feature a floor show by Miss Catherine Steckman's studio. Paid up union cards will be accepted for admission to the banquet, Kelly said.

The dairy workers local elected John R. Kelly, Reggie Wolfe and Chester D. Ritchie as delegates to the Maryland and District of Columbia Federation of Labor convention to be held here May 13 to 16 and named Allen Knippenburg, William Twigg and George Eversole as alternates.

Corps Gets More Esprit de Corps

IRVINGTON, N. J.—(AP)—Eight former Irvington high school athletes had learned to get along so well that they decided to carry on together for the next few years.

The eight together with four other high school students enlisted in the United States Marine Corps in the biggest group induction at the Newark District Marine Corps recruiting office since the office opened.

Blood Donors Wanted

A request for blood donors to enroll at the office of Thomas F. Conlon, local representative of the Maryland Veterans' Commission, was made yesterday by Commander Samuel A. Graham, Fort Cumberland Post No. 13, American Legion. About 100 persons are listed at present in Conlon's office in the Liberty Trust Building.

Both hospitals have been crowded in recent months and calls for blood donors have increased beyond the expectation of the Legion committee handling the blood donor program, Graham said.

Schools To Register Children Next Week

The spring registration of beginning school children will be Monday and Tuesday, April 8 and 9, between the hours of 3:30 p. m. and 5 p. m., in the school system, it was announced yesterday by Superintendent Charles L. Kopp.

In a letter to school principals, Kopp stressed the importance of making a complete canvas in the respective districts in an effort to enroll 100 percent the pre-school children who will enter school in September.

Kopp also stated that the parents of prospective school children who visit the schools should be made to feel at home and given a warm welcome as "this is highly important and the first step in setting up a desirable relationship between the home and the school."

Attention was called to the regulation governing entrance age. Children whose sixth birthday falls on January 1, 1947, or earlier, are eligible for enrollment in September.

Judge Capper Sets Bond For White at $3,000

A writ of habeas corpus was granted yesterday in Garrett county circuit court to William White, 70, Gorman, accused slayer of Ervin S. Steyer, 39, who sought his release from Garrett county jail.

Associate Judge Walter C. Capper granted the writ after a hearing on White's petition which was presented to the court by William R. Offutt, Oakland attorney. Bond of $3,000 was ordered before White gains his release from jail pending action of the September grand jury.

Steyer was shot and killed March 23 at the White home during a quarrel following a drinking bout, according to police.

LOOM O' THE LIGHTS

Sailor folks invented a new and lovely phrase long ago. When they came out of the long, swaying darkness of the ocean and for the first time saw the gleam of a great city against the sky, they called it the "Loom o' the Lights."

Often, at dark times, I've remembered those comforting words. For no matter how heavy the night, sooner or later there'd come the "loom o' the lights." And I thought how true that was in a large sense—how the brave and tender, the loyal and wise have left the loom o' the lights to guide the whole race home through the long journey.

What poor, weak, bewildered things we humans were at first, huddled in caves, fumbling through the darkness without and the deeper darkness within. But always, in every journey, however handicapped by fear and ignorance, there have been some whose records stood out like stars. Those lads who risked and often lost their lives at Attu, Guam and Okinawa and all the bloody beaches of a frantic war—we weep for their lost youth and their bodies wasted on foreign soil. But, till the end, the loom of their young dreams will inspire and guide us through the night. And there are more, so many, many more.

Long lost, forgotten in the ages past, before men ever knew the use of words or pen, they stood out in the darkness like some bright light—men who held honor dearer than their lives . . . who clutched their courage through the fog of fear . . . who dimly saw the loveliness of love—they shine like torches in the darkness of the night. And then that One who let Himself be sacrificed that all men "might be lifted up" to a cleaner, finer height—He will for all time loom against the night.

Do not despair if you own work seems lost—if all your offorts, all your dreams and prayers seem meaningless. Each act of faith and courage, pity and truth will stand for always as a "loom of the lights" to guide and hearten others in their stumbling flight.

Why Truman Got Auto License 5745

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Dr. Francis M Hayden, a dentist, asked for Missouri state license plate 5745 because it is his home address but he gave it up so President Truman could have it.

Mr. Truman, who declined an offer for Missouri tag 1 because he thought it too conspicuous for his family car, asked for 5-7-45 because it stands for the date on which Germany surrendered.

MOTOR CLUB PLANS DANCE; AWARD MERIT BADGES TO PATROL

Members of the Western Maryland Motor Club formulated final plans for a dance, and received a report on the school patrol rally, at the dinner-meeting, last evening at the Queen City hotel.

J. Walter Byer presided and announced that the dance is for members and their friends and will be semi-formal and will be held April 26, at Clary Club, with music from 9 to 1 o'clock by the Modernaires, featuring vocal selections by Betty Lee. Invitations will be sent out in the next few days.

Daniel D'Amico reported that a moving picture, will feature the rally for the school patrol, which will be held May 11, at which time merit barges will be awrded.

Various committees gave their reports and Mr. Byer congratulated the board of directors and members for their attendance and work in building the membership of the organization to more than 200. He also urged them to continue working for the three A club.

Mrs. Mary Brewer, social chairman, reported that she expects to have a guest speaker for the dinner-meeting, May 2.

WRITTEN QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS MARK TRIAL OF MUTE

There was little chance for misunderstanding at a hearing before Magistrate Frank A. Perdew in trial magistrates court Thursday as oral questions and answers gave way to written queries and replies.

Magistrate Perdew was confronted by a mute couple who were encountering domestic difficulties and called on Edgar M. Lewis, court clerk, to write down the questions and answers.

The couple were Mr. and Mrs. Charles Schultz, 408 Footer place, and Mrs. Schultz charged her husband with assaulting her on March 29.

Questions and answers passed back and forth disclosed, court attaches said, that Mrs. Schultz left home on occasional trips to Ohio, West Virginia and once went so far as Colorado. She came home from these jaunts, they added, with a satchel full of letters written to her by boy friends.

Discovery of the letters by the husband would result in a row, according to attaches, who said Schultz wrote in reply to one-question that he did not strike his wife but hit her with a magazine and picture frame.

Magistrate Perdew sentenced Schultz to thirty days in the county jail.

LABOR GROUP RAPS C. OF C. FOR STAND ON FOREMAN ISSUE

The Western Maryland Labor Unity Conference Thursday went on record as opposing the Cumberland Chamber of Commerce's recommendation to exclude foreman from the protection of the Wagner labor act, C. E. Stutzman, temporary president, announced.

Declaring that State Senator Robert B. Kimble has always been "on the people's side," the group, representing AFL, CIO, Brotherhood and independent unions unanimously indorsed the candidacy of the local legislator and promised him "whole hearted support."

Previous action for the continuance of OPA was affirmed. The group is opposing a rent increase for this area recently requested by the real estate board, Stutzman said.

About twenty locals are now affiliated with the labor unity group, including Blacksmith's Local 32 and Machinists Local 212, which presented credentials last evening.

The election of permanent officers was postponed until the next meeting, to be held April 18 at Teamsters hall, so that locals who have signified their intentions of joining the group, may be represented.

Service Pension Is Based on Degree Of Disability

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX
Famous Authority on Problems of Love and Marriage

Dear Miss Fairfax:

I am a veteran of World War II, honorably discharged.

I have served overseas and have been wounded twive and am disabled and cannot accept steady employment. Am I entitled to a pension and how much, and to whom shall I apply?

PRIVATE M. M.

Pensions are based upon the percentage of disability and run from ten per cent to 100 per cent, in multiples of ten. A veteran with a ten per cent disability would receive $11.50 a month, which is ten per cent of total disability pension of $115 a month. Also, there are special rates and allowances for specific injuries and more seriously disabling conditions. Write to Veterans' Administration, Washington 25, D. C., for application blank.

Payee for Allowance

Dear Miss Fairfax:

My mother-in-law had been taking care of my two motherless children until she died recently. They are now living with a neighbor who has offered to care for them until I am discharged from the army. Would it be permissible to name her as payee for the children's family allowance even if she is not a relative? D. E. S.

Yes. Fill out a change of status form (WD AGO Form 641) obtainable from your personnel officer, naming the new payee. Send this to the Office of Dependency Benefits, Newark 2, N. J. with a letter explaining the circumstances.

Entitled to Mustering-out Pay

Dear Miss Fairfax:

My husband had almost three years service, with six months overseas, and as he did not have enough points, he was given a discharge because I was dependent on him. Isn't he entitled to his mustering-out pay? C. P. S.

An enlisted man, without sufficient points for discharge, but released because of dependency, is eligible for mustering-out pay. Tell your husband to write to Chief of Finance, War department, Pentagon building, Washington 25, D. C., if he hasn't received it.

Army's Education Program

Dear Miss Fairfax:

My brother overseas wants to know what courses are offered by the United States Armed Forces Institute in Germany, where he is stationed. In this connection, May I be advised to what extent service personnel are taking advantage of these courses? F.

Overseas personnel will obtain better service by enrolling and corresponding with the nearest branch of the United States Armed Forces Institute, although headquarters are in Madison, Wis. Your brother may take up the matter with his own information-education officer, or by writing to Commandant, European Branch, USAFI, Headquarters United States Forces, European Theater (Rear), A.P.O. 413, care Postmaster, New York, N. Y.

There have been approximately 200,000 army enrollments for correspondence and self-teaching courses, and one million enrollments for classes organized and conducted on Army installations.

Draftee Has No Choice

Dear Miss Fairfax:

I'm 18 years of age and although I was asked to report, the board has allowed me to remain in high school until I graduate in June. Will I have a choice of the branch of service I would like to enter? A READER.

If a young man waits to be drafted, he has no choice as to the branch of the service, or the theater, to which he may be assigned.

Freight Traffic Is Hit by Strike Of Coal Miners

Freight traffic on both the Baltimore and Ohio railroad and the Western Maryland railway has been curtailed considerably as a result of the coal strike, officials of the two lines said yesterday.

B. and O. traffic through Keyser, W. Va., was reported down about eighty per cent and through Cumberland about twenty-five per cent. Westbound traffic has not dropped to any extent.

While between fifty-six and sixty locomotives have been taken out of service on the division because of the strike and train crews are not getting as much work as formerly, none has been furloughed.

Traffic on the Elkins division of the Western Maryland has been curtailed about sixty per cent because of the strike. As with the B. and O., there has been no furloughing of train crews although there is less work.

Draftee Has No Choice

Dear Miss Fairfax:

I'm 18 years of age and although I was asked to report, the board has allowed me to remain in high school until I graduate in June. Will I have a choice of the branch of service I would like to enter? A READER.

If a young man waits to be drafted, he has no choice as to the branch of the service, or the theater, to which he may be assigned.

Freight Traffic Is Hit by Strike Of Coal Miners

Freight traffic on both the Baltimore and Ohio railroad and the Western Maryland railway has been curtailed considerably as a result of the coal strike, officials of the two lines said yesterday.

B. and O. traffic through Keyser, W. Va., was reported down about eighty per cent and through Cumberland about twenty-five per cent. Westbound traffic has not dropped to any extent.

While between fifty-six and sixty locomotives have been taken out of service on the division because of the strike and train crews are not getting as much work as formerly, none has been furloughed.

Traffic on the Elkins division of the Western Maryland has been curtailed about sixty per cent because of the strike. As with the B. and O., there has been no furloughing of train crews although there is less work.

"Better Feeling" Among Religions Resulted from War, Chaplain Says

Father Mark Saw Hiroshima's Ruins; Served at Leyte and Ie Shima

By A. TRAGO BRUST, JR.

A Catholic army chaplain who viewed the ruins of Hiroshima from the top of its atom-bomb wrecked city hall where the ashes of some 100,000 of its citizens killed in the explosion were stored, expressed the opinion yesterday that the war helped to establish a better feeling among the different religions.

He said that men of different faiths "got to know each other better" and that "religious prejudices were broken down" in the army.

Father Mark, now assigned temporarily to SS. Peter and Paul monastery until the summer, completes his terminal leave today and will receive his discharge as a major although he has signed up in the reserve corps for five years.

Speaking for Chaplin's Corps

Making it plain that he did not wish to be built up as a hero, Father Mark said he was speaking for the chaplain's corps, all of whom had similar experiences.

Father Mark spent two and a half months in Japan, and was stationed at Kure, where the Japs had a lot of midget submarines, just fifteen miles from Hiroshima where he was able to spend a lot of time.

Like some other of the more modern buildings in Hiroshima, those built of reinforced concrete, the four-story city hall, located only a few blocks from the spot where the atom bomb exploded, withstood the blast.

Conducted on a tour of the building by a Japanese resident, who talk English and once worked at Sacramento, Calif., Father Mark visited one room, marked "Skeleton Room" on the door and there saw the ashes of bomb casualties stored in 100,000 plain wooden boxes, each about a foot square. On the table in one end of the room stood a beautifully lacquered box which he was told contained the ashes of the mayor. A small light burned in front of it.

Missionaries Survived

The story of the atom bomb explosion in Hiroshima was told to Father Mark by about half a dozen Jesuit missionaries who survived along with about an equal number of nuns. The missionaries, from Spain, France and Germany, spoke English.

As Father Mark repeated the story they told him, it was about 8:15 a. m. when a B-29 came in. No one paid much attention to it when all of a sudden there was a tremendous flash and a tremendous noise of explosion. Everything started falling. Fires were everywhere. People were screaming and yelling. Thousands upon thousands were burned to death.

People tried to get to the rivers in the city to get away from the fires, and many of those who did drifted into the ocean when the tide came in because of their weakened condition, Father Mark was told.

The building of the missionaries was more substantial than many of the buildings in Hiroshima, he added, and did not burn, but he said he saw a picture of the ruins of the buildings, located just two blocks from the explosion, and had no idea how the missionaries escaped with no ill effects other than being dazed.

Father Mark, who said he had the "common, ordinary career of every chaplain," taught history at St. Fidelis seminary, near Pittsburgh, Pa., for about eight years before he entered the chaplain's corps March 4, 1942, and reported to Carlisle barracks, Carlisle, Pa.

Attended Chaplain's School

After a short stay there he was sent to chaplain's school at Fort Benjamin Harrison, Ind., and sailed for duty in the Pacific April 9, 1944, landing in the Hawaiian islands. Four and a half months later he was on a LST headed for combat duty.

Father Mark was in the first group to hit Leyte on October 20, 1944, and he recalled yesterday that he encountered a "terrible experience" at Dulag.

He had just finished holding religious services about noon when Jap suicide planes started coming in and hit five ships. One vessel was badly burning and a medical officer and Father Mark went to the stricken ship in a duck and found when they went aboard that the suicider had gone directly down the hatch.

"All the guys—air corpsmen—were wiped out," he said, adding, "As a priest I had to take care of them." There were 300 casualties.

Father Mark rejoined the Seventy-seventh—Statue of Liberty—division, with which he served in the states, on Leyte and was with the One Thousand One Hundred and Eigheenth Engineers combat group.

He took part in the Seventy-seven's "end run" that caught the Japs flat-footed at Ormoc on the west side of Leyte, and recalled that "Jap suiciders came after us on the drive to Ormoc. They sank a destroyer next to us and it went down in about ninety seconds." Of the complement of 300 men, about ninety were saved.

Thrown Out of Water

The terrific concussion as the destroyer exploded "threw our LCI out of the water. The lights went out. We thought we were hit. It scared the daylights out of me," Father Mark said.

Ormoc was taken at a time when the Japs believed they still held the harbor, according to Father Mark, who remembered that as the Seventy-seventh entered the city a small Jap convoy came into the harbor. It was a case then of the American army fighting the Jap navy, he said, adding that every Jap transport was sunk. One tried to get away in the morning but American planes sank that one too.

On Christmas of 1944 Father Mark was preparing to conduct midnight services at Ipil, near Ormoc.

"We had a chapel fixed up for the service. The rear end was blown out, the front was missing, half of the roof was gone and it was leaning crazily. The fellows got some palms and fixed it up a bit. We even had a crib," he related.

"We started the service and snipers in the area started firing. When they opened up the congregation scrammed and hit the dirt. The snipers let up soon and we started the service again. Then the snipers started. When they let up again we gave it a third trial and they left us undisturbed. Nobody was hurt. The password that night was 'Jingle Bells.'"

Later on Father Mary was on Ie Shima where Ernie Pyle, the correspondent, met his death.

Hot Spot for Bombing

Ie Shima, Father Mark said, "was one of the hottest spots for bombing. We were putting in air strips and had 170 alerts from April 16 to August 1. Ninety per cent of them were at night. The longest one lasted eight hours—almost all night.

Later on Father Mark was on Ie

One bombing "blew all of my belongings sky-high." Father Mark said, "I just got in my hole in time. Thirty guys around me were killed that night."

Father Mark conducted services for the dead in front of Ernie Pyle's grave the afternoon he was buried. "It wasn't planned that way at all, it just happened," he said. "You see, Ernie Pyle was a protestant and a protestant chaplain conducted his funeral."

The night before Father Mark hit the beach at Ie Shima, Ernie Pyle talked to the men in his outfit, Father Mark said, adding that that night Pyle was "interested in men from Chicago."

After the landing at Ie Shima, Father Mark recalled in connection with Pyle's death, Pyle and Lt. Col. Coolidge, of the Seventy-seventh division, were riding up a narrow road when a Jap machine gunner opened fire.

Shot Through Head

After the first burst they hit the dirt." Then Pyle looked up and he was "hit through the head. That happened about 9:30 a. m. and they couldn't get the body for quite awhile," Jap fire was so intense.

Funeral services for Ernie Pyle were conducted the following morning.

Father Mark reached Japan a little later and after two and a half months there finally returned to the states on December 31.

Annual Events Planned By Motor Club Here

Plans for two annual events of the Western Maryland Motor Club were subjects of discussion at a meeting of the organization at Queen City hotel ballroom, according to J. Walter Byer, president.

The School Boy Patrol rally and parade will be held here May 11, and the first annual dance of the local group will be held April 26. Mrs. Mary Brewer, chairman of the dance committee said the affair will be held at Clary Club, with dancing from 9 p. m. until 1 a. m.

Byer commended the present directors for their work and George Erling reported on the club's proposed emergency road service. Erling said the contract for the service will soon be presented affiliated garages and filling stations. The service includes limited auto towing, free 30-minute mechanical service on the road, rentals on batteries in cases of emergency and the changing of tires.

The next meeting of the group will be held May 2 at the Queen City Hotel.

Milk Handlers Warned To Renew Permits

Milk distributors, producers, processors and producer-distributors in Allegany and Garrett counties who have not yet secured permits for this year are subject to penalty of a $100 fine, county health department officials said yesterday.

Applications for the permits, which were due January 1 for renewal, may be obtained at the health department office on the second floor of the Public Safety building.

Officials pointed out that the permits must be obtained by owners of grocery stores, restaurants and all establishments which distribute or sell milk.

Tydings and "Mrs. B." Make Bows In Democratic Primary Contests

By JAMES E. HAGUE

BALTIMORE, April 5 (AP)—Two persons, without whom Maryland Democratic campaigns for many years haven't been complete, made their bows in the current primary contests this week.

They are Millard E. Tydings, Maryland's senior senator and important power in state Democratic politics, and Mrs. Marie Bauernschmidt, never a holder of public office but a constant and news-provoking commentator on the political scene.

In Baltimore, her home, she is known simply as "Mrs. B.," the apparent result of a newspaper headline writer's losing fight to get her thirteen-lettered surname into a one-colum headline.

Baldwin, W. Preston Lane, Jr., and Tawes make up the gubernatorial triangle on the Democratic side.

"Mrs. B." got into the campaign by accusing Baldwin of constant absenteeism from Congress, particularly during the horse racing season, and of using a "phoney" issue, the CIO-Political Action Committee, as a major campaign talking point.

These charges had been made earlier by Rep. Thomas D'Alesandro (D-Md).

Indicative of Mrs. Bauerschmidt's unusual role in politics is the fact that Baldwin thought the charges when made by another Democratic congressman not "worthy of an answer" but prepared a detailed, five-page statement in reply to "Mrs. B." He claimed the pages contained a complete refutation of accusations.

The flurries caused by the Tydings endorsement of Tawes and the exchange between "Mrs. B." and Baldwin featured the week in Maryland politics.

However, there should be a series of rapid-fire developments in the next ten days, completely crystallizing the primary picture. Ten days from now is the filing deadline for the primary. The withdrawal deadline is four days later, April 20.

The filing and withdrawal dates were advanced this year to permit early delivery of complete ballots to absent servicemen.

Tydings took sides in the gubernatorial contest but hasn't committed himself to either Radcliffe or O'Conor in the senatorial lists.

Republican Mayor Theodore R. McKeldin, of Baltimore, still bides his time before announcing his primary plans, with the governorship believed uppermost in his mind. It would surprise no one if he waited until the final minutes before filing for such has been his custom.

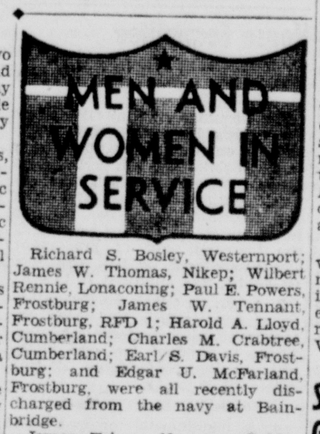

There are three Republican candidates for United States senator but none has the announced blessing of Galen L. Tait, Republican state chairman.

Harold L. Hendershot, 6 Grand avenue, Cumberland, has been discharged from the navy at Jacksonville, Fla.

Dinner for Farmers Is Set for Apr. 23

Plans for the Cumberland Chamber of Commerce dinner for farmers of this section, have been completed by members of the organization's agriculture committee, according to Robert E. Laramy, chairman.

The affair will be held April 23 at 6:30 p. m. in LaVale Volunteer Firemen's hall.

Tasker G. Lowndes will preside and John E. Clark, Harford county farmer and leader in the soil conservation program, will speak. Clark is also a member of the State Fair Board and chairman of the House of Delegates Agriculture committee.

Mylo Downey, University of Maryland extension service leader for 4-H boys club work, is expected to present awards to four youths who recently won prizes in the Firestone conservation contest.

Seventy-five farmers have been invited to be guests of the chamber and already many have accepted the invitation. Edward Davis, state director of the conservation program, will also attend.

—The first mention of the White mountains in print was in John Josselyn's "New England Rarities," printed in 1672.

Suspended Jail Term Given Blake Allen

Blake Allen, 318 Crawford street, arrested by Lt. B. F. Gaffney on a charge of unauthorized use of a motor vehicle, entered a plea of guilty in trial magistrates' court yesterday, and was sentenced to thirty days in jail. Sentence was suspended by Trial Magistrate Oliver H. Bruce, Jr., on condition that the man refrain from use of intoxicants.

The car was owned by Louis L. Youngblood, Roberts street, and Allen 'borrowed" it without the owner's permission.

Magistrate Bruce said the young man has been in no previous trouble, is a recently returned soldier and has a wife and two small children dependent upon him for support, so sentence was suspended.

Quota of 275 Is Set for Mineral Farm Bureau

By LUKE McDOWELL

KEYSER, W. Va., April 5—In the million membership goal of the Farm Bureau, Mineral county's quota was set at 275. County membership chairman, Garland Ebert reports 244 have paid for 1946. Paid memberships for 1945 numbered 281. Ebert states that if all who paid in 1945 were to pay again this year, the enrollment would pass the 300 mark, thus giving the county a substantial margin above its allocation. He urges farmers to enroll by mailing dues to the Farm Bureau office in Keyser, or to call at the office and make payment personally.

"Better Feeling" Among Religions Resulted from War, Chaplain Says

By A. TRAGO BRUST, JR.

A Catholic army chaplain who viewed the ruins of Hiroshima from the top of its atom-bomb wrecked city hall where the ashes of some 100,000 of its citizens killed in the explosion were stored, expressed the opinion yesterday that the war helped to establish a better feeling among the different religions.

He said that men of different faiths "got to know each other better" and that "religious prejudices were broken down" in the army.

Father Mark, now assigned temporarily to SS. Peter and Paul monastery until the summer, completes his terminal leave today and will receive his discharge as a major although he has signed up in the reserve corps for five years.

Speaking for Chaplin's Corps

Making it plain that he did not wish to be built up as a hero, Father Mark said he was speaking for the chaplain's corps, all of whom had similar experiences.

Father Mark spent two and a half months in Japan, and was stationed at Kure, where the Japs had a lot of midget submarines, just fifteen miles from Hiroshima where he was able to spend a lot of time.

Like some other of the more modern buildings in Hiroshima, those built of reinforced concrete, the four-story city hall, located only a few blocks from the spot where the atom bomb exploded, withstood the blast.

Conducted on a tour of the building by a Japanese resident, who talk English and once worked at Sacramento, Calif., Father Mark visited one room, marked "Skeleton Room" on the door and there saw the ashes of bomb casualties stored in 100,000 plain wooden boxes, each about a foot square. On the table in one end of the room stood a beautifully lacquered box which he was told contained the ashes of the mayor. A small light burned in front of it.

Missionaries Survived

The story of the atom bomb explosion in Hiroshima was told to Father Mark by about half a dozen Jesuit missionaries who survived along with about an equal number of nuns. The missionaries, from Spain, France and Germany, spoke English.

As Father Mark repeated the story they told him, it was about 8:15 a. m. when a B-29 came in. No one paid much attention to it when all of a sudden there was a tremendous flash and a tremendous noise of explosion. Everything started falling. Fires were everywhere. People were screaming and yelling. Thousands upon thousands were burned to death.

People tried to get to the rivers in the city to get away from the fires, and many of those who did drifted into the ocean when the tide came in because of their weakened condition, Father Mark was told.

The building of the missionaries was more substantial than many of the buildings in Hiroshima, he added, and did not burn, but he said he saw a picture of the ruins of the buildings, located just two blocks from the explosion, and had no idea how the missionaries escaped with no ill effects other than being dazed.

Father Mark, who said he had the "common, ordinary career of every chaplain," taught history at St. Fidelis seminary, near Pittsburgh, Pa., for about eight years before he entered the chaplain's corps March 4, 1942, and reported to Carlisle barracks, Carlisle, Pa.

Attended Chaplain's School

After a short stay there he was sent to chaplain's school at Fort Benjamin Harrison, Ind., and sailed for duty in the Pacific April 9, 1944, landing in the Hawaiian islands. Four and a half months later he was on a LST headed for combat duty.

Father Mark was in the first group to hit Leyte on October 20, 1944, and he recalled yesterday that he encountered a "terrible experience" at Dulag.

He had just finished holding religious services about noon when Jap suicide planes started coming in and hit five ships. One vessel was badly burning and a medical officer and Father Mark went to the stricken ship in a duck and found when they went aboard that the suicider had gone directly down the hatch.

"All the guys—air corpsmen—were wiped out," he said, adding, "As a priest I had to take care of them." There were 300 casualties.

Father Mark rejoined the Seventy-seventh—Statue of Liberty—division, with which he served in the states, on Leyte and was with the One Thousand One Hundred and Eigheenth Engineers combat group.

He took part in the Seventy-seventh's "end run" that caught the Japs flat-footed at Ormoc on the west side of Leyte, and recalled that "Jap suiciders came after us on the drive to Ormoc. They sank a destroyer next to us and it went down in about ninety seconds." Of the complement of 300 men, about ninety were saved.

Thrown Out of Water

The terrific concussion as the destroyer exploded "threw our LCI out of the water. The lights went out. We thought we were hit. It scared the daylights out of me," Father Mark said.

Ormoc was taken at a time when the Japs believed they still held the harbor, according to Father Mark, who remembered that as the Seventy-seventh entered the city a small Jap convoy came into the harbor. It was a case then of the American army fighting the Jap navy, he said, adding that every Jap transport was sunk. One tried to get away in the morning but American planes sank that one too.

On Christmas of 1944 Father Mark was preparing to conduct midnight services at Ipil, near Ormoc.

"We had a chapel fixed up for the service. The rear end was blown out, the front was missing, half of the roof was gone and it was leaning crazily. The fellows got some palms and fixed it up a bit. We even had a crib," he related.

"We started the service and snipers in the area started firing. When they opened up the congregation scrammed and hit the dirt. The snipers let up soon and we started the service again. Then the snipers started. When they let up again we gave it a third trial and they left us undisturbed. Nobody was hurt. The password that night was 'Jingle Bells.'"

Later on Father Mary was on Ie Shima where Ernie Pyle, the correspondent, met his death.

Hot Spot for Bombing

Ie Shima, Father Mark said, "was one of the hottest spots for bombing. We were putting in air strips and had 170 alerts from April 16 to August 1. Ninety per cent of them were at night. The longest one lasted eight hours—almost all night.

Later on Father Mark was on Ie

One bombing "blew all of my belongings sky-high," Father Mark said. "I just got in my hole in time. Thirty guys around me were killed that night."

Father Mark conducted services for the dead in front of Ernie Pyle's grave the afternoon he was buried. "It wasn't planned that way at all, it just happened," he said. "You see, Ernie Pyle was a protestant and a protestant chaplain conducted his funeral."

The night before Father Mark hit the beach at Ie Shima, Ernie Pyle talked to the men in his outfit, Father Mark said, adding that that night Pyle was "interested in men from Chicago."

After the landing at Ie Shima, Father Mark recalled in connection with Pyle's death, Pyle and Lt. Col. Coolidge, of the Seventy-seventh division, were riding up a narrow road when a Jap machine gunner opened fire.

Shot Through Head

After the first burst they hit the dirt." Then Pyle looked up and he was "hit through the head. That happened about 9:30 a. m. and they couldn't get the body for quite awhile," Jap fire was so intense.

Funeral services for Ernie Pyle were conducted the following morning.

Father Mark reached Japan a little later and after two and a half months there finally returned to the states on December 31.

Tydings and "Mrs. B." Make Bows In Democratic Primary Contests

By JAMES E. HAGUE

BALTIMORE, April 5 (AP)—Two persons, without whom Maryland Democratic campaigns for many years haven't been complete, made their bows in the current primary contests this week.

They are Millard E. Tydings, Maryland's senior senator and important power in state Democratic politics, and Mrs. Marie Bauernschmidt, never a holder of public office but a constant and news-provoking commentator on the political scene.

In Baltimore, her home, she is known simply as "Mrs. B.," the apparent result of a newspaper headline writer's losing fight to get her thirteen-lettered surname into a one-colum headline.

Baldwin, W. Preston Lane, Jr., and Tawes make up the gubernatorial triangle on the Democratic side.

"Mrs. B." got into the campaign by accusing Baldwin of constant absenteeism from Congress, particularly during the horse racing season, and of using a "phoney" issue, the CIO-Political Action Committee, as a major campaign talking point.

These charges had been made earlier by Rep. Thomas D'Alesandro (D-Md).

Indicative of Mrs. Bauerschmidt's unusual role in politics is the fact that Baldwin thought the charges when made by another Democratic congressman not "worthy of an answer" but prepared a detailed, five-page statement in reply to "Mrs. B." He claimed the pages contained a complete refutation of accusations.

The flurries caused by the Tydings endorsement of Tawes and the exchange between "Mrs. B." and Baldwin featured the week in Maryland politics.

However, there should be a series of rapid-fire developments in the next ten days, completely crystallizing the primary picture. Ten days from now is the filing deadline for the primary. The withdrawal deadline is four days later, April 20.

The filing and withdrawal dates were advanced this year to permit early delivery of complete ballots to absent servicemen.

Tydings took sides in the gubernatorial contest but hasn't committed himself to either Radcliffe or O'Conor in the senatorial lists.

Republican Mayor Theodore R. McKeldin, of Baltimore, still bides his time before announcing his primary plans, with the governorship believed uppermost in his mind. It would surprise no one if he waited until the final minutes before filing for such has been his custom.

There are three Republican candidates for United States senator but none has the announced blessing of Galen L. Tait, Republican state chairman.

Richard S. Bosley, Westernport; James W. Thomas, Nikep; Wilbert Rennie, Lonaconing; Paul E. Powers, Frostburg; James W. Tennant, Frostburg, RFD 1; Harold A. Lloyd, Cumberland; Charles M. Crabtree, Cumberland; Earl S. Davis, Frostburg; and Edgar U. McFarland, Frostburg, were all recently discharged from the navy at Bainbridge.

James Fahey, 19, son of Mrs. Regina Fahey and the late Patrick J. Fahey, 601 Shriver avenue, returned to his home Monday after twenty months of service in the navy. The LaSalle high school graduate served for a year on an oil tanker in the Pacific area.

Seaman First Class Franklin Wayne Hoffman, 20, son of Mr. and Mrs. John E. Hoffman, 419 North Mechanic street, was discharged from the navy at Bainbridge March 25. The former Kelly employe plans to attend a music school in Baltimore soon. A veteran of two year's service, he was a member of the crew of LST 617, the oldest ship of its type in the Pacific area. The local man wears six battle stars for service on Luzon, Leyte, Mindora, Okinawa, Leshima and Kerumeretta, several theater ribbons and the Victory medal. His brother, Petty Officer First Class Forrest Hoffman, is expected home on furlough soon.

Edward M. Rosskamp, fireman first class, son of Mrs. Mary A. Rosskamp, Ridgeley, is serving aboard the destroyer Powers, which is escorting the battleship Missouri to Turkey. Rosskamp, a former employe at the Western Maryland railroad shops, has been in the navy fourteen months.

Pvt. Ray T. Everly, son of Mr. and Mrs. James W. Everly, 940 Glenwood street, Cumberland, is now in training at the AAF military training center at San Antonio, Texas.

Comdr. Howard Reed Will, NSNR, 322 Cumberland street, has been released from the navy to inactive duty.

John S. Cook, Cumberland, Jack C. Kalbaugh, Westernport, Robert F. Lotz, Mt. Savage, and Russel C. Warne, Frostburg, have been honorably discharged from the navy at Bainbridge.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles L. Appel, 525 Columbia avenue, have received word that their son, Staff Sgt. Charles William Appel, arrived in Seattle, Wash., on the SS. General Hodges. He has been serving in the India-Burma Theater for twenty-seven months as a platoon sergeant in the army transportation corps. He will report to Fort Meade for discharge.

Former Servicemen Back at Old Jobs

PIEDMONT, W. Va., April 5—Two soldiers who recently received their discharges from the army have returned to their former positions as bookkeepers with the Piedmont Grocery Company, here. They are:

Tech. Sgt. Robert A. Shumaker, who served four years in the army, over thirteen months of which he spent in the South Pacific and five months on Okinawa. He is entitled to wear the Good Conduct ribbon, Asiatic-Pacific Theater ribbon with one star, American Theater ribbon and Korean Occupation ribbon.

Tech. Sgt. Wiliam A. Russell, who was in the service twenty-seven months, with over eighteen months in the Asiatic-Pacific theater. He is entitled to wear the Good Conduct ribbon, Asiatic-Pacific ribbon and Victory ribbon.

Suspended Jail Term Given Blake Allen

Blake Allen, 318 Crawford street, arrested by Lt. B. F. Gaffney on a charge of unauthorized use of a motor vehicle, entered a plea of guilty in trial magistrates' court yesterday, and was sentenced to thirty days in jail. Sentence was suspended by Trial Magistrate Oliver H. Bruce, Jr., on condition that the man refrain from use of intoxicants.

The car was owned by Louis L. Youngblood, Roberts street, and Allen 'borrowed" it without the owner's permission.

Magistrate Bruce said the young man has been in no previous trouble, is a recently returned soldier and has a wife and two small children dependent upon him for support, so sentence was suspended.

In Police Court, John Mull, 5 Bellevue street, and Alpha Filler, of Route 2, this city, forfeited $5 bonds each for driving through a red light signal at Greene and Allegany streets yesterday afternoon. Sgt. Raymond R. Johnston made the arrest.

Quota of 275 Is Set for Mineral Farm Bureau

By LUKE McDOWELL

KEYSER, W. Va., April 5—In the million membership goal of the Farm Bureau, Mineral county's quota was set at 275. County membership chairman, Garland Ebert reports 244 have paid for 1946. Paid memberships for 1945 numbered 281. Ebert states that if all who paid in 1945 were to pay again this year, the enrollment would pass the 300 mark, thus giving the county a substantial margin above its allocation. He urges farmers to enroll by mailing dues to the Farm Bureau office in Keyser, or to call at the office and make payment personally.

Garrett County Commissioners Accept Bequest

Resolution Adopted Formally Accepting Money To Build Hospital

By GEORGE H. HANST

OAKLAND, April 5—A resolution formally accepting the bequest of $175,000 made by the late George W. Loar, of Oakland, to be used to construct and equip a hospital here, was drawn up and signed by the county commissioners at their meeting this week, making the new structure a certainty. The commissioners announced that they favored its erection at the earliest date possible.

The resolution explained the conditions of the will and the regulations that are to be carried out by the commissioners in accepting the responsibility for maintenance of the hospital.

Will Accept Donations

The commissioners also announced a plan whereby donations would be accepted. They retained the members of the hospital committee who were appointed some time ago to make a study of the project, and authorized them to accept contributions, all checks, money, etc., to be turned over to J. M. Jarboe, who has agreed to serve in this capacity. A receipt would be issued by Jarboe to the donor, and he would also make reports from time to time to the county commissioners. Contributions not specifically designated will be issued where most needed in construction, maintenance, etc., it was stated by John W. Herman, president of the commissioners.

Arrangement for acceptance of contributions were made because of the many voluntary offers that have been expressed both verbally and in writing. Members of the committee include L. M. Fraley, Dr. E. I. Baumgartner, Dr. A. E. Mance, B. I. Gonder, George H Hanst, Mrs. E. Z. Tower, Oakland; Henry M. Speicher, Accident; Quincy Murphy, Friendsville; Harvey Gortner, Grantsville; Lester Yutzy, Crellin; Milton Pritts, Kitzmiller.

By the last will and testament of George W. Loar, and a codicil to the will, the sum of $160,000 was bequeathed for erection and equipping of a hospital at Oakland. The executors were further authorized to expend an additional $10,000 to landscape and $5,000 for support and maintenance during the period right after its opening.

Committee Favors Hospital

The will also provided that before any steps toward its erection could be taken the county commissioners should agree by proper resolution to accept, maintain and support said hospital under joint control of the commissioners and an advisory committee of five members.

The resolution pointed out that an advisory committee had recommended its erection and that many citizens, organizations and business concerns had urged the passage of the resolution; that no objections had been registered and that it appeared in accord with the will of the people.

The mayor and council have agreed to convey to the commissioners the site for the said hospital.

The resolution was signed by Mr. Herman as president; W. G. Meyers and Jonas W. Sines, as commissioners, and attested by J. J. Ashby, clerk.

He declared that 60 per cent of the library income goes to salaries and maintenance, and that under the new program the proportionate cost for these functions would not be as high and that more books would be available.

Could Ask Exemption

"As I see the situation, it would be taking money out of one pocket and placing it in another," stated Commissioner Myers G. Light.

Keegan pointed out that the city could continue on the present basis and ask for an exemption in any county tax levied for library purposes.

(Allegany County Commissioners, meeting this morning, rejected the county library proposal by a two-one vote.)

Commissioner Keegan also wanted to know how the plan can be carried out without raising the tax rate. Eves stated the city rate could be reduced under the new plan as the city would no longer make a direct contribution for library support.

Would Benefit All

"I think the plan would be of benefit to all," said Mayor Post. "It would reduce the city budget and more could be accomplished by consolidation with the county and state. We should go on record as approving the plan."

Eves said the county library headquarters would remain in Cumberland and that the city would have a library twice as large as the one it now supports.

Also attending the session was Miss Mary G. Walsh, librarian.

Measure Marked

Recalling the warning of a White House veto, Sen. LaFollette (Prog-Wis) one of the sponsors of the wage bill, told his colleagues today:

"We ought to quit operating on this legislative cadaver and send it as decently and quickly as possible to a legislative mortuary."

Other senators took the floor to proclaim it "a dead duck" and "an administrative monstrosity."

Majority Leader Barkley, of Kentucky, advised administration followers not to give up — something acceptable might be worked out in the House.

Radcliffe Opposed New Hike

WASHNGTON, April 5 (AP)—Here is the way in which senators from four states voted today when the Senate balloted to make the new statutory minimum wage sixty-five cents an hour, in place of the sixty cents previously approved. The current level is forty cents:

Democrats for the amendment — McKellar and Stewart, of Tennessee.

Republican for — Revercomb, of West Virginia.

Coal Operation's

far has been opposed to government intercession, beyond having a conciliator sit in on the conference.

However it was learned from persons inside the conference, it was Lewis who placed Dorrance's telegram before the meeting.

Aides said Lewis did so to chide the operators, whose chairman, Ezra Van Horn, had been asked by Dorrance on March 17 to put the proposition before the conference.

The operators have indicated in private conversations that they do not want a fact-finding board and are not advocating it for this dispute.

Government Conciliator Paul W. Fuller declined to comment because of his position in the negotiations but labor department officials have indicated they feel fact-finding may not be effective in the coal dispute.

Negotiations toward settlement of the strike got nowhere today. Both Fuller and Operators Spokesman Charles O'Neill said Lewis was not present. He was attending a funeral in nearby Maryland.

Despite lack of advance toward writing a new contract to supplant the one terminated by Lewis last Sunday night, Fuller insisted that the parties continue in session today. He acted at the request of Secretary of Labor Schwellenbach, who told a reporter he thought the negotiators should be kept on the job during the critical strike to come to the speediest possible agreement.

Proposal To Halt

"We can obtain the necessary men for the armed services by raising the pay rates, which we must do. We can keep the registration machinery intact and continue to maintain a backlog of eligibles. If, on February 15, it appears that the armed forces actually face a serious shortage of men, the congress can decide whether to reinstate inductions."

Opponents of Harness's plan, who are advocating a straight nine-months extension of the draft law, conceded that the Indianan's move had potent backing.

In addition to halting inductions, Harness's measure also would require the discharge of men now in uniform after eighteen months of service and would limit service liability for future inductees to eighteen months. On that provision, the committee is in general agreement.

House Committee

Rep. Brown (D-Ga), was approved 20 to 3.

2. A requirement that OPA allow the trade's historical retail profit margins on reconversion items such as automobiles and refrigerators, on which production was curtailed severely during the war. The OPA cost absorption policy has required retail outlets to bear a portion of the increased cost of production. The amendment, by Rep. Crawford (R-Mich), was approved 15 to 6.

3. A ban on OPA's maximum average price policy by which the agency attempts to force manufacturers to produce low cost clothing. By Rep. Sundstrom (R-NJ). Approved 12 to 11.

Subsidies End Gradually

4. A requirement for gradual termination of the government's war-initiated $2,000,000,000 annual subsidy program, including payments to hold down food prices. Under this provision the government would reduce subsidy payments by twenty-five per cent—or $500,000,000—for the year beginning July 1 and get out of the subsidy business by June 30, 1947. The OPA could make price adjustments to cover the subsidy reductions. By Rep. Monroney (D-Okla). Approved 15 to 5.

5. A policy statement that OPA should allow price adjustments for "transient" hotels—making a distinction between a transient and an apartment hotel. No percentage of increase is stipulated. By Rep. Barry (D-NY). Approved 8 to 4.

6. Directors to OPA, in determing cotton and wool fabric ceilings, to take into account the actual price of raw cotton or the parity price, whichever is highest. Rep. Brown, the author of this amendment, said OPA now considers only parity for raw cotton for this purpose, while cotton prices are considerably above parity.

Speaker Rayburn (D-Tex) announced the House will begin its stormy debate on price control a week from Monday.

Price of Wheat

about twenty-five per cent. President Truman's Famine Emergency Committee has recommended that Americans voluntarily reduce their consumption of wheat products forty per cent during the present world food crisis.

The fact that American exports of wheat are falling behind government promises to famine-stricken areas was laid before President Truman today by Anderson and Secretary of Commerce Wallace. No comment was available on the White House conference.

After the conference, Anderson released the statement estimating that exports of American wheat and flour equivalent planned for 3,000,000 tons, amounted to 1,687,000 tons for the January-March period. The second quarter goal is another 3,000,000 tons, and the deficit of 313,000 tons must be made up also between April 1 and June 30 if the American net grain export commitment is to be met.

Movement of wheat off farms has declined rather sharply in recent weeks.

PITTSBURGER FINED $100 FOR EXCEEDING 70 MILES AN HOUR

George C. Trevorrow, of Pittsburgh, paid a fine of $100 and costs in trial magistrates court yesterday afternoon, on a charge of exceeding seventy miles an hour in a thirty-mile zone, after he entered a plea of guilty.

The charge was preferred by Sgt. Thomas M. Hignutt, who told Magistrate Frank A. Perdew that Trevorrow was going eighty-five miles an hour, at several places.

Trevorrow was driving at a high rate of speed toward the city on Baltimore Pike, and was seen by Sgt. Hignutt near the Shrine club. Sgt. Hignutt, who was accompanied by Charles Ceiforth, radio operator at the state police substation followed the Pittsburgh man into the city and stopped him on Baltimore avenue.

Police told the court that Trevorrow was driving a new 1946 Ford V-8 Coupe, that he ignored the police siren and at a couple of points pulled away from the police car. He passed a bus at the top of Long hill, and crowded the police cruiser almost off the road, when Sgt. Hignutt attempted to pass him near the city limit line. Officers said the man had probably been drinking, but they had insufficient evidence to charge him with drunken driving. There was a bottle of liquor in the front seat of the car, police added.

Magistrate Perdew assessed the driver the minimum fine on the charge in view of the fact that he entered a plea of guilty, but he cautioned Trevorrow to observe Maryland speed limits in the future.

Three Are Injured In Truck Crash

Grocery Truck Involved in Accident on County Farm Road

Three local youths were injured, one of them seriously, last evening at 9:15 o'clock when the M. A. McIntyre grocery delivery truck in which they were riding toward Cumberland crashed on the County Farm road, police reported.

Most seriously injured was Dale McIntyre, 16-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Howard J. McIntyre, 649 Sedgwick street, who was admitted to Allegany hospital at 9:30 p. m. suffering from a possible fracture of the skull and jaw and a left leg injury. Attaches said his condition was considered good.

Police said the truck the McIntyre youth was driving skidded on the gravel at the right side of the road about 500 feet east of Furnace street, swerved across the road to strike a tree on the left side and then careened twenty-five feet further into a field.

Detective Thomas J. See, who headed the investigation for city police, said the truck was badly damaged by the impact.

COUNTY LAY HEALTH COUNCIL APPOINTS ACTING CHAIRMAN

Mrs. Lewis C. Millholland, Jr., Bowling Green, was appointed acting chairman of a county lay health council being organized to coordinate the activities of health committees throughout the county and to volunteer health work in co-operation with public health nurses.

Dr. Joseph P. Franklin, deputy state and county health officer, said the appointment was made at a meeting of health committees Thursday afternoon at the county health office in the Public Safety building.

Mrs. Millholland has been a volunteer worker at the Cresaptown health center and at Mt. Royal school. Her husband is a past president of the school's parent-teacher association.

Miss Marion Weber, supervisor of public health nurses in Allegany county, presided at the meeting, which was attended by representatives from Flintstone, Oldtown, Spring Gap and this city.

Reports on the progress of plans for "Know Your Public Health Nurse" week, which will be observed April 7 through 13, were discussed at the meeting.

Miss Weber reported that Mrs. William Joachim, president of the lay section of the Maryland Organization for Public Health Nursing, will appear on the radio program, "Woman of the Week," to be broadcast from Baltimore over Station WBAL tomorrow at 4:30 p. m., marking the first day of observance of the week.

Various Subjects Are Discussed By Commissioners

No action was taken at the spring meeting of the Western Shore County Commissioners Association held Wednesday in Hagerstown where a number of subjects were discussed including state and county road work, welfare, automobile taxes, juvenile segregation, almshouse consolidation and other topics. Commissioner James Holmes attended from Allegany county.

President U. Grant Hooper, Frederick, who presided, said no definite action was taken on any of the subjects and the meeting was an "open forum" for discussion of a wide variety of proposals. Any action, he indicated, will come at the December meeting to be held the second Wednesday of that month at Westminister.

It was pointed out that since all of the Commissioners' terms expire this year and at least some will probably be re-elected, it would be unwise to chart definite policies or elect new officers until the December meeting.

Dissatisfaction with a law requiring roads construction by counties on a contract basis, even though the counties themselves may have efficient equipment to do such work, was expressed at the meeting and it was decided to sound out public opinion on a possible change in the law at the next session of the legislature. It is understood that such organizations as granges and farm bureaus will be contacted along with the others.

The welfare discussion touched on use of general public assistance funds to supplement funds provided for other relief categories such as aid to dependent children. The various county representatives gave information as to the steps being taken in connection with segregation of juveniles who are charged with offenses.

On the subject of schools, the commissioners discussed the prospects of additional capital outlay for new construction and additional teachers that probably will be needed in coming years.

Vice-president Christian Kahl, Baltimore county, was named delegate to the national convention of County Commissioners Associations.

Garrett County Commissioners Accept Bequest

By GEORGE H. HANST

OAKLAND, April 5—A resolution formally accepting the bequest of $175,000 made by the late George W. Loar, of Oakland, to be used to construct and equip a hospital here, was drawn up and signed by the county commissioners at their meeting this week, making the new structure a certainty. The commissioners announced that they favored its erection at the earliest date possible.

The resolution explained the conditions of the will and the regulations that are to be carried out by the commissioners in accepting the responsibility for maintenance of the hospital.

Will Accept Donations

The commissioners also announced a plan whereby donations would be accepted. They retained the members of the hospital committee who were appointed some time ago to make a study of the project, and authorized them to accept contributions, all checks, money, etc., to be turned over to J. M. Jarboe, who has agreed to serve in this capacity. A receipt would be issued by Jarboe to the donor, and he would also make reports from time to time to the county commissioners. Contributions not specifically designated will be issued where most needed in construction, maintenance, etc., it was stated by John W. Herman, president of the commissioners.

Arrangement for acceptance of contributions were made because of the many voluntary offers that have been expressed both verbally and in writing. Members of the committee include L. M. Fraley, Dr. E. I. Baumgartner, Dr. A. E. Mance, B. I. Gonder, George H Hanst, Mrs. E. Z. Tower, Oakland; Henry M. Speicher, Accident; Quincy Murphy, Friendsville; Harvey Gortner, Grantsville; Lester Yutzy, Crellin; Milton Pritts, Kitzmiller.

By the last will and testament of George W. Loar, and a codicil to the will, the sum of $160,000 was bequeathed for erection and equipping of a hospital at Oakland. The executors were further authorized to expend an additional $10,000 to landscape and $5,000 for support and maintenance during the period right after its opening.

Committee Favors Hospital

The will also provided that before any steps toward its erection could be taken the county commissioners should agree by proper resolution to accept, maintain and support said hospital under joint control of the commissioners and an advisory committee of five members.

The resolution pointed out that an advisory committee had recommended its erection and that many citizens, organizations and business concerns had urged the passage of the resolution; that no objections had been registered and that it appeared in accord with the will of the people.

The mayor and council have agreed to convey to the commissioners the site for the said hospital.

The resolution was signed by Mr. Herman as president; W. G. Meyers and Jonas W. Sines, as commissioners, and attested by J. J. Ashby, clerk.

He declared that 60 per cent of the library income goes to salaries and maintenance, and that under the new program the proportionate cost for these functions would not be as high and that more books would be available.

Could Ask Exemption

"As I see the situation, it would be taking money out of one pocket and placing it in another," stated Commissioner Myers G. Light.

Keegan pointed out that the city could continue on the present basis and ask for an exemption in any county tax levied for library purposes.

(Allegany County Commissioners, meeting this morning, rejected the county library proposal by a two-one vote.)

Commissioner Keegan also wanted to know how the plan can be carried out without raising the tax rate. Eves stated the city rate could be reduced under the new plan as the city would no longer make a direct contribution for library support.

Would Benefit All

"I think the plan would be of benefit to all," said Mayor Post. "It would reduce the city budget and more could be accomplished by consolidation with the county and state. We should go on record as approving the plan."

Eves said the county library headquarters would remain in Cumberland and that the city would have a library twice as large as the one it now supports.

Also attending the session was Miss Mary G. Walsh, librarian.

Recalling the warning of a White House veto, Sen. LaFollette (Prog-Wis) one of the sponsors of the wage bill, told his colleagues today:

"We ought to quit operating on this legislative cadaver and send it as decently and quickly as possible to a legislative mortuary."

Other senators took the floor to proclaim it "a dead duck" and "an administrative monstrosity."

Majority Leader Barkley, of Kentucky, advised administration followers not to give up — something acceptable might be worked out in the House.

Radcliffe Opposed New Hike

WASHNGTON, April 5 (AP)—Here is the way in which senators from four states voted today when the Senate balloted to make the new statutory minimum wage sixty-five cents an hour, in place of the sixty cents previously approved. The current level is forty cents:

Coal Operation's

far has been opposed to government intercession, beyond having a conciliator sit in on the conference.

However it was learned from persons inside the conference, it was Lewis who placed Dorrance's telegram before the meeting.

Aides said Lewis did so to chide the operators, whose chairman, Ezra Van Horn, had been asked by Dorrance on March 17 to put the proposition before the conference.

The operators have indicated in private conversations that they do not want a fact-finding board and are not advocating it for this dispute.

Government Conciliator Paul W. Fuller declined to comment because of his position in the negotiations but labor department officials have indicated they feel fact-finding may not be effective in the coal dispute.

Negotiations toward settlement of the strike got nowhere today. Both Fuller and Operators Spokesman Charles O'Neill said Lewis was not present. He was attending a funeral in nearby Maryland.

Despite lack of advance toward writing a new contract to supplant the one terminated by Lewis last Sunday night, Fuller insisted that the parties continue in session today. He acted at the request of Secretary of Labor Schwellenbach, who told a reporter he thought the negotiators should be kept on the job during the critical strike to come to the speediest possible agreement.

"We can obtain the necessary men for the armed services by raising the pay rates, which we must do. We can keep the registration machinery intact and continue to maintain a backlog of eligibles. If, on Febuary 15, it appears that the armed forces actually face a serious shortage of men, the congress can decide whether to reinstate inductions."

Opponents of Harness's plan, who are advocating a straight nine-months extension of the draft law, conceded that the Indianan's move had potent backing.

In addition to halting inductions, Harness's measure also would require the discharge of men now in uniform after eighteen months of service and would limit service liability for future inductees to eighteen months. On that provision, the committee is in general agreement.

House Committee

Rep. Brown (D-Ga), was approved 20 to 3.

2. A requirement that OPA allow the trade's historical retail profit margins on reconversion items such as automobiles and refrigerators, on which production was curtailed severely during the war. The OPA cost absorption policy has required retail outlets to bear a portion of the increased cost of production. The amendment, by Rep. Crawford (R-Mich), was approved 15 to 6.

3. A ban on OPA's maximum average price policy by which the agency attempts to force manufacturers to produce low cost clothing. By Rep. Sundstrom (R-NJ). Approved 12 to 11.

Subsidies End Gradually

4. A requirement for gradual termination of the government's war-initiated $2,000,000,000 annual subsidy program, including payments to hold down food prices. Under this provision the government would reduce subsidy payments by twenty-five per cent—or $500,000,000—for the year beginning July 1 and get out of the subsidy business by June 30, 1947. The OPA could make price adjustments to cover the subsidy reductions. By Rep. Monroney (D-Okla). Approved 15 to 5.

5. A policy statement that OPA should allow price adjustments for "transient" hotels—making a distinction between a transient and an apartment hotel. No percentage of increase is stipulated. By Rep. Barry (D-NY). Approved 8 to 4.

6. Directors to OPA, in determing cotton and wool fabric ceilings, to take into account the actual price of raw cotton or the parity price, whichever is highest. Rep. Brown, the author of this amendment, said OPA now considers only parity for raw cotton for this purpose, while cotton prices are considerably above parity.

Speaker Rayburn (D-Tex) announced the House will begin its stormy debate on price control a week from Monday.

about twenty-five per cent. President Truman's Famine Emergency Committee has recommended that Americans voluntarily reduce their consumption of wheat products forty per cent during the present world food crisis.

The fact that American exports of wheat are falling behind government promises to famine-stricken areas was laid before President Truman today by Anderson and Secretary of Commerce Wallace. No comment was available on the White House conference.

After the conference, Anderson released the statement estimating that exports of American wheat and flour equivalent planned for 3,000,000 tons, amounted to 2,687,000 tons for the January-March period. The second quarter goal is another 3,000,000 tons, and the deficit of 313,000 tons must be made up also between April 1 and June 30 if the American net grain export commitment is to be met.

Movement of wheat off farms has declined rather sharply in recent weeks.

PITTSBURGER FINED $100 FOR EXCEEDING 70 MILES AN HOUR

George C. Trevorrow, of Pittsburgh, paid a fine of $100 and costs in trial magistrates court yesterday afternoon, on a charge of exceeding seventy miles an hour in a thirty-mile zone, after he entered a plea of guilty.

The charge was preferred by Sgt. Thomas M. Hignutt, who told Magistrate Frank A. Perdew that Trevorrow was going eighty-five miles an hour, at several places.

Trevorrow was driving at a high rate of speed toward the city on Baltimore Pike, and was seen by Sgt. Hignutt near the Shrine club. Sgt. Hignutt, who was accompanied by Charles Ceiforth, radio operator at the state police substation followed the Pittsburgh man into the city and stopped him on Baltimore avenue.

Police told the court that Trevorrow was driving a new 1946 Ford V-8 Coupe, that he ignored the police siren and at a couple of points pulled away from the police car. He passed a bus at the top of Long hill, and crowded the police cruiser almost off the road, when Sgt. Hignutt attempted to pass him near the city limit line. Officers said the man had probably been drinking, but they had insufficient evidence to charge him with drunken driving. There was a bottle of liquor in the front seat of the car, police added.

Magistrate Perdew assessed the driver the minimum fine on the charge in view of the fact that he entered a plea of guilty, but he cautioned Trevorrow to observe Maryland speed limits in the future.

Three local youths were injured, one of them seriously, last evening at 9:15 o'clock when the M. A. McIntyre grocery delivery truck in which they were riding toward Cumberland crashed on the County Farm road, police reported.

Most seriously injured was Dale McIntyre, 16-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Howard J. McIntyre, 649 Sedgwick street, who was admitted to Allegany hospital at 9:30 p. m. suffering from a possible fracture of the skull and jaw and a left leg injury. Attaches said his condition was considered good.

COUNTY LAY HEALTH COUNCIL APPOINTS ACTING CHAIRMAN

Mrs. Lewis C. Millholland, Jr., Bowling Green, was appointed acting chairman of a county lay health council being organized to coordinate the activities of health committees throughout the county and to volunteer health work in co-operation with public health nurses.

Dr. Joseph P. Franklin, deputy state and county health officer, said the appointment was made at a meeting of health committees Thursday afternoon at the county health office in the Public Safety building.

Mrs. Millholland has been a volunteer worker at the Cresaptown health center and at Mt. Royal school. Her husband is a past president of the school's parent-teacher association.

Miss Marion Weber, supervisor of public health nurses in Allegany county, presided at the meeting, which was attended by representatives from Flintstone, Oldtown, Spring Gap and this city.

Reports on the progress of plans for "Know Your Public Health Nurse" week, which will be observed April 7 through 13, were discussed at the meeting.

Miss Weber reported that Mrs. William Joachim, president of the lay section of the Maryland Organization for Public Health Nursing, will appear on the radio program, "Woman of the Week," to be broadcast from Baltimore over Station WBAL tomorrow at 4:30 p. m., marking the first day of observance of the week.

Various Subjects Are Discussed By Commissioners

No action was taken at the spring meeting of the Western Shore County Commissioners Association held Wednesday in Hagerstown where a number of subjects were discussed including state and county road work, welfare, automobile taxes, juvenile segregation, almshouse consolidation and other topics. Commissioner James Holmes attended from Allegany county.

President U. Grant Hooper, Frederick, who presided, said no definite action was taken on any of the subjects and the meeting was an "open forum" for discussion of a wide variety of proposals. Any action, he indicated, will come at the December meeting to be held the second Wednesday of that month at Westminister.

It was pointed out that since all of the Commissioners' terms expire this year and at least some will probably be re-elected, it would be unwise to chart definite policies or elect new officers until the December meeting.

Dissatisfaction with a law requiring roads construction by counties on a contract basis, even though the counties themselves may have efficient equipment to do such work, was expressed at the meeting and it was decided to sound out public opinion on a possible change in the law at the next session of the legislature. It is understood that such organizations as granges and farm bureaus will be contacted along with the others.

The welfare discussion touched on use of general public assistance funds to supplement funds provided for other relief categories such as aid to dependent children. The various county representatives gave information as to the steps being taken in connection with segregation of juveniles who are charged with offenses.

On the subject of schools, the commissioners discussed the prospects of additional capital outlay for new construction and additional teachers that probably will be needed in coming years.

Work on Hospital At Meyersdale Is Delayed

MEYERSDALE, Pa., April 5 — Work on the Community Hospital in Meyersdale has not been stopped. The construction company temporarily withdrew machinery last week for the reason that the ground was found to be too soft. As soon as conditions improve the work of excavating for the foundation will proceed.

False rumors have been going around that the building of the hospital has been called off by some government authority. Nothing is farther from the truth. The directors of the hospital project state that they have received no official notification from anybody to hold up the work.

The fine co-operation of the people of the entire community; in their efforts to raise the necessary finances, shows that the people want the hospital, and there is nothing to stop what the people want.

Everybody who has tried to do a bit of building or repairing in these early postwar days knows what disappointments and delays there are in securing materials and labor. These same difficulties will, no doubt, be met in the building of the Meyersdale Community hospital. Moreover, it may be wise at times to wait for the best, rather than go ahead with substitutes, but whatever delays and difficulties arise to tax the patience and eagerness of all concerned, the building will be completed at the earliest possible date.

Nat Friedline, president of the Meyersdale Lions Club, takes this occasion to express his wholehearted thanks to the committee of the Lions and the rest of the club members for the co-operative manner in which they put over the recent very successful benefit dance and electrical appliance offer, by means of which approximately $1500 was raised for the hospital fund.

The frequency with which unsolicited contributions were made during the past two weeks is very gratifying.

The farmers in the vicinity are subscribing liberalliy to assist the firemen in paying for the truck.

Work on Hospital At Meyersdale Is Delayed

MEYERSDALE, Pa., April 5 — Work on the Community Hospital in Meyersdale has not been stopped. The construction company temporarily withdrew machinery last week for the reason that the ground was found to be too soft. As soon as conditions improve the work of excavating for the foundation will proceed.

False rumors have been going around that the building of the hospital has been called off by some government authority. Nothing is farther from the truth. The directors of the hospital project state that they have received no official notification from anybody to hold up the work.

The fine co-operation of the people of the entire community; in their efforts to raise the necessary finances, shows that the people want the hospital, and there is nothing to stop what the people want.

Everybody who has tried to do a bit of building or repairing in these early postwar days knows what disappointments and delays there are in securing materials and labor. These same difficulties will, no doubt, be met in the building of the Meyersdale Community hospital. Moreover, it may be wise at times to wait for the best, rather than go ahead with substitutes, but whatever delays and difficulties arise to tax the patience and eagerness of all concerned, the building will be completed at the earliest possible date.

Nat Friedline, president of the Meyersdale Lions Club, takes this occasion to express his wholehearted thanks to the committee of the Lions and the rest of the club members for the co-operative manner in which they put over the recent very successful benefit dance and electrical appliance offer, by means of which approximately $1500 was raised for the hospital fund.

The frequency with which unsolicited contributions were made during the past two weeks is very gratifying.

Keister, pastor of the First Methodist church, of which she was a faithful adherent during her long residence in Meyersdale.

Mrs. Price was born at Shenandoah, Pa., June 5, 1869, and was a daughter of Joseph and Lillie Daddow. Besides her husband, she leaves a sister, Mrs. Ether Morrison, of Rochelle, N. J.

The funeral cortege left toay for Shenandoah, where additional funeral services will be conducted this evening in the I. O. O. F. chapel there. Interment will be made in the Shenandoah I. O. O. F. Cemetery.

The farmers in the vicinity are subscribing liberallly to assist the firemen in paying for the truck.

By GEORGE HANST

OAKLAND, April 5—St. Paul's Methodist church is observing the tenth anniversary of the dedication of the present church building, Sunday morning, at the worship service.

The Rev. Winfield S. Patterson, D.D., pastor of St. Andrews Methodist church, Parkersburg, W. Va., who was pastor of the church at the time it was erected, will preach the sermon.

Following the service there will be an informal reception. While here Dr. and Mrs. Patterson and family will be guests of Mr. and Mrs. E. Ray Jones.

The first Methodist church in Oakland was organized in 1852, being the outgrowth of a Methodist Sunday school founded on the George Loar farm where T. C. Bittinger now resides, south of Oakland. A building was later erected on the McCarty farm. A church was built in Oakland in 1852, remodeled in 1875, torn down and rebuilt in 1891, and partially torn down and rebuilt in 1935 and 1936.

Marriage Is Announced

At an informal church wedding Sunday afternoon, March 31, at 2 o'clock, Miss Edith Delaine Fauber, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Fauber, became the bride of Donald M. Browning, a son of Mr. and Mrs. Cheston H. Browning, Sr., in St. Paul's Methodist church. Dr. Denver C. Pickens, pastor, performed the ceremony.

The bride was attired in a light blue suit with black accessories and had a corsage of white rosebuds. She had as her bridesmaids Miss Irma Jo Watkins, of Tunnelton, W. Va., a student at Potomac State college; and Miss Kathryn Johnson, Cumberland. Miss Watkins was attired in a black and pink afternoon dress with black accessories. A corsage of sweet peas completed her costume. Miss Johnson wore a gold dress and had a corsage of pink rosebuds. James B. Bell, Jr., was the bridegroom's best man.

The bride is a graduate of Tunnelton high school, class of 1942, and has been in the employ of the Chesapeake and Potomac Telephone company in Oakland for three years. The bridegroom attended Oakland high school and Mercersburg Academy.

He enlisted in March, 1943, in the army air forces, going overseas in November, 1944, with the Three Hundred Forty-second bomb group. He was a bombardier and gunner on a B-17 Flying Fortress and participated in twenty-five bombing missions over Germany, for which he received the Air Medal and three clusters, in addition to the ETO ribbon, Unit citation and Good Conduct Medal. He was given an honorable discharge in October, 1945. Recently he and his brother purchased the Browning store on Alder street, from the estate of the late Lt. Robert E. Browning.

Following the ceremony there was a reception at Pickwick Inn for members of the two immediate families and a few close friends. The couple are honeymooning in New York city.

Many Foxes Caught

The increased bounty on foxes has been instrumental in a large number of the animals being caught by hunters. During March it was revealed that bounties had been paid on ninety-nine foxes by Francis H. Ruge, district deputy game warden, who is authorized to make payment of $2 each for the state. An additional $2 each is paid by the county.

Vernon Wilson, Bloomington, received payment for eleven, while Robert Jones, Grantsville, was paid for nine. Harry L. Mickey, fur dealer, received payment for thirty-two but these were collected from various hunters.

100,000 Red Pine Trees Are To Be Planted Soon

By HELEN COLLETT

PARSONS, April 6—The Potomac district will plant 100,000 red pine trees this spring according to a statement made by Ralph Rowland, forest ranger, of Parsons. This will be done on Big Run in Whitmer section with Carl Barr, of Parsons, who was recently returned from Petersburg in charge of the fifteen to twenty men who will be employed.

Trees to be used on this job were raised during the war and are much larger than the usual planting stock. Originally they were intended for use in the Allegheny National Forest in Pennsylvania but due to their size, and the danger of spoilage while being hauled there, they will be planted nearer home.

PLANS

You can't draw "plans" without a plan. A pencil, ruler, triangle, compass—they are useless without a mental image of the thing to be drawn. An architect has to "see" his building before he draws a single line.

In life, too, you can't make plans without a plan. All our intentions must be founded on some vision of the course we are going to follow . . . the goal we want to reach.

A man's religion is his primary help in determining the right plan of his life. As he grows to understand the God who created life, he learns how life can be used to bring the greatest good and richest happiness to himself, his loved ones, his neighbors, his world. That vision guides his every-day planning. His plans are right because his aims are right!

You have a glorious future! Your church—the church of your choice—can help you discover it. And through your church's worship and preaching, through your Bible, prayers and faith . . . God will help you attain it.

The Golden Text

Christ blessing little children.

"Ye are My friends, if ye do the things which I command you." John 15:14.

Friends of Jesus

HIGHLIGHTS ON THE SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

By NEWMAN CAMPBELL

(The International Uniform Lesson on the above topic for April 7 is Mark 10:13, 14, 16; 15:43; Luke 6:13-16; 8:1-3; 15:1, 2; John 1:35-51; 3:1; 2a; 4:6, 7, the Memory Verse being John 15:14, "Ye are My friends, if ye do the things which I command you.")

"THE FRIENDS of Jesus" is the subject of our lesson today. We think of Jesus as the Friend of all people; and rarely think of His friends. Yet He made friends—warm, loyal friends—all through His life on earth. The record of these friendships are told in the books written after His death by those who knew Him on earth. What a wonderful friend He must have been!

Children were His friends and He was theirs. Mark tells the story in his tenth chapter, how the women brought their children to Him to have Him touch them, much as we today like to have our children meet and shake hands with or be patted on the head by some noted man. The disciples were annoyed that their leader should have His time taken up with things that to them seemed unimportant. Jesus thought differently. He was "much displeased," and said, "Suffer the little children to come unto Me, and forbid them not: for of such is the kingdom of God.

"Verily I say unto you, whosoever shall not receive the kingdom of God as a little child, he shall not enter therein.

"And He took them up in His arms, put His hands upon them, and blessed them." Do you not suppose those children talked about this event all the days of their lives?

Disciples Recognize Messiah

The next episode which seems to follow logically is the recognition of Jesus as the Messiah, by Andrew and Simon Peter, and also by Philip and Nathaniel. John the Baptist, beholding Jesus walking, said aloud, "Behold the Lamb of God!" Two disciples heard him, and they followed Jesus. Jesus turned, saw them, and asked what they were seeking, and they asked Him where He lived. "Come and see," replied the Master, and they went with Him and "abode with Him: for it was about the tenth hour." One was Andrew, Simon Peter's brother, who first found Simon, his brother, and said to him, "We have found the Messiah," and brought him to Jesus. When Jesus looked at Simon He said, "Thou art Simon the son of Jona: thou shalt be called Cephas, which is by interpretation, a stone."

Next day Jesus found Philip in Galilee and said, "Follow Me." Philip found Nathaniel and told him, "We have found Him of whom Moses in the law, and the prophets did write, Jesus of Nazareth, the son of Joseph." And Nathaniel asked skeptically, "Can any good thing come out of Nazareth?" Philip said, "Come and see." Jesus recognized Nathaniel and the latter was convinced that here was the Savior.

In Luke, the sixth chapter, we are told of the choosing of Jesus' apostles: Simon Peter, his brother Andrew, James and John, Philip and Batholomew, Matthew and Thomas, James, son of Alphaeus, and Simon called Zelotes; Judas, brother of James, and Judas Iscariot. These lived with Him, saw Him daily, shared their belongings with Him.

"And certain women, which had been healed of evil spirits and infirmities, Mary called Magdalene (but not the adultress), out of whom went seven devils. And Joanna, the wife of Chuza, Herod's steward, and Suzanna, and many others, which ministered unto Him of their substance."

Mary, Martha and Lazarus

Mary and Martha and Lazarus, at whose home Jesus spent many happy times, were among His close friends, although their names are not included in today's lesson.

Another friend was Nicodemus, a Pharisee and "a ruler of the Jews." He was a member of the Sanhedrin, and must have been much interested in this teacher, Jesus, of whom he had heard.

"The same came to Jesus by night," because, being a prominent man, he probably did not at that time want to be associated with Him, at least until he had proved to himself whether or not he could accept Him. He was an educated man, a leader of his people, and he wanted to talk with the Personage who was said to be the Messiah.

Another person whose life was changed for the good by Jesus was the woman whom He met at Jacob's well, the woman of Samaria, of whom He asked a drink of water in the heat of the day. Out of the conversation Jesus had with her she went into the city and brought out the men of Samaria to hear Him, and many believed.

And at the end of Jesus' life on earth a friend came to save Him from being buried in a criminal's grave—Joseph of Arimathea, "an honorable counsellor, which also waited for the kingdom of God, came, and went in boldly unto Pilate, and craved the body of Jesus."

The permission was given and He was put into Joseph's private tomb.

By NEWMAN CAMPBELL

(The International Uniform Lesson on the above topic for April 7 is Mark 10:13, 14, 16; 15:43; Luke 6:13-16; 8:1-3; 15:1, 2; John 1:35-51; 3:1; 2a; 4:6, 7, the Memory Verse being John 15:14, "Ye are My friends, if ye do the things which I command you.")

"THE FRIENDS of Jesus" is the subject of our lesson today. We think of Jesus as the Friend of all people; and rarely think of His friends. Yet He made friends—warm, loyal friends—all through His life on earth. The record of these friendships are told in the books written after His death by those who knew Him on earth. What a wonderful friend He must have been!

Children were His friends and He was theirs. Mark tells the story in his tenth chapter, how the women brought their children to Him to have Him touch them, much as we today like to have our children meet and shake hands with or be patted on the head by some noted man. The disciples were annoyed that their leader should have His time taken up with things that to them seemed unimportant. Jesus thought differently. He was "much displeased," and said, "Suffer the little children to come unto Me, and forbid them not: for of such is the kingdom of God.

"Verily I say unto you, whosoever shall not receive the kingdom of God as a little child, he shall not enter therein.

"And He took them up in His arms, put His hands upon them, and blessed them." Do you not suppose those children talked about this event all the days of their lives?

Disciples Recognize Messiah

The next episode which seems to follow logically is the recognition of Jesus as the Messiah, by Andrew and Simon Peter, and also by Philip and Nathaniel. John the Baptist, beholding Jesus walking, said aloud, "Behold the Lamb of God!" Two disciples heard him, and they followed Jesus. Jesus turned, saw them, and asked what they were seeking, and they asked Him where He lived. "Come and see," replied the Master, and they went with Him and "abode with Him: for it was about the tenth hour." One was Andrew, Simon Peter's brother, who first found Simon, his brother, and said to him, "We have found the Messiah," and brought him to Jesus. When Jesus looked at Simon He said, "Thou art Simon the son of Jona: thou shalt be called Cephas, which is by interpretation, a stone."

Next day Jesus found Philip in Galilee and said, "Follow Me." Philip found Nathaniel and told him, "We have found Him of whom Moses in the law, and the prophets did write, Jesus of Nazareth, the son of Joseph." And Nathaniel asked skeptically, "Can any good thing come out of Nazareth?" Philip said, "Come and see." Jesus recognized Nathaniel and the latter was convinced that here was the Savior.

In Luke, the sixth chapter, we are told of the choosing of Jesus' apostles: Simon Peter, his brother Andrew, James and John, Philip and Batholomew, Matthew and Thomas, James, son of Alphaeus, and Simon called Zelotes; Judas, brother of James, and Judas Iscariot. These lived with Him, saw Him daily, shared their belongings with Him.

"And certain women, which had been healed of evil spirits and infirmities, Mary called Magdalene (but not the adultress), out of whom went seven devils. And Joanna, the wife of Chuza, Herod's steward, and Suzanna, and many others, which ministered unto Him of their substance."

Mary, Martha and Lazarus

Mary and Martha and Lazarus, at whose home Jesus spent many happy times, were among His close friends, although their names are not included in today's lesson.

Another friend was Nicodemus, a Pharisee and "a ruler of the Jews." He was a member of the Sanhedrin, and must have been much interested in this teacher, Jesus, of whom he had heard.

"The same came to Jesus by night," because, being a prominent man, he probably did not at that time want to be associated with Him, at least until he had proved to himself whether or not he could accept Him. He was an educated man, a leader of his people, and he wanted to talk with the Personage who was said to be the Messiah.

Another person whose life was changed for the good by Jesus was the woman whom He met at Jacob's well, the woman of Samaria, of whom He asked a drink of water in the heat of the day. Out of the conversation Jesus had with her she went into the city and brought out the men of Samaria to hear Him, and many believed.

And at the end of Jesus' life on earth a friend came to save Him from being buried in a criminal's grave—Joseph of Arimathea, "an honorable counsellor, which also waited for the kingdom of God, came, and went in boldly unto Pilate, and craved the body of Jesus."

The permission was given and He was put into Joseph's private tomb.

By WHITNEY MARTIN

NEW YORK, Aprfl 5 (AP)—Probably the hardest blow of the next Joe Louis-Billy Conn fight June 19 will be the ticket prices, which are going to keep a lot of time-tested, tried (very tried, sometimes) and true ring fans sitting in front of their radios.

The $10 to $100 scale won't send any shudders through the big dough boys, the guys with swollen pocketbooks who rate the value of anything by the price alone. In fact, these walking mints probably will brag a little about paying their $100 for a seat, and if the price was $1,000 there probably would be quite a few willing to pay it on the theory that it is the smart thing to do.

Smart, that is, in the sense that it is stylish, putting the ringsider in sort of a sports social register. A lot of these fistic first-nighters will come from distant points, not lured so much by the merit of the fight itself as by the prestige they feel they might attain by being seen sitting on a $100 bill, and being able to say afterward: "I was there."

Once-a-Year Fans

A great many will be once-a-year fight fans who follow boxing only casually except when a big fight comes around. Then they suddenly become enthusiastic supporters of the game, if not positively experts, although they might not know a right cross from a left hook.

Boxing would give a sad little wheeze and expire if it were forced to rely on the once-a-year fans for support, for the fight game isn't just a heavyweight championship bout any more than a World Series is baseball. There were a lot of spectators who thought the 1945 World Series wasn't baseball, at that.

Boxing is the 1,000 and one little clubs which make up the fight game, and it's the so-called little men who by their faithful attendance keep the clubs going. They go to fights because they like the action, not because there is anything in particular at stake or because they want to be seen.

The $10 minimum for the Louis-Conn affair will keep a lot of this knot-hole gang away, as for the average worker $10 is $10, and not just a tip for the waiter.

As we have mentioned before, we think Mike Jacobs is within his rights in charging what the traffic will bear, as a merchant isn't going to take ten cents for a trinket he can sell for a dollar.

Martin's Opinion

Personally, we don't think it would be worth $100 to see a dozen Louises and a dozen Conns fighting in the ring at the same time, but that's purely an opinion and we realize there are hundreds, if not thousands, willing to pay the $100 fee to see one Louis and one Conn. Otherwise, Mr. Jacobs would bring down the price to a figure they would pay.

Anyway, the bigger the price the bigger the ballyhoo, so we can expect the most generous three-sheeting in pugilistic history. The fight might run a poor second in merit to a weekly show at a neighborhood sporting club, but then, a first-nighter might pay a good price to see the opening, and simultaneous closing, of a show that was a dismal flop.

The $100 ringsiders are gambling that they will get their money's worth. If they don't, they can get their satisfaction out of saying: "I was there."

Decathlon Gets Under Way at "Y"

The Central Y. M. C. A.'s spring athletic program was launched this week, according to Clifton Van Roby, "Y" physical director, who said that a two-division track and field decathlon was started Wednesday and will continue for ten weeks with one event weekly.

Starting off the decathlon was the fifty-yard dash. Ronald Hansrote was the Junior "B" event while Ronnie Cage copped the Junior "A" dash. Edward Joyce was second and Richard Dolan third in the Junior "B" contest while Bill Dawson was second and Robert Fox third in the Junior "A" event.

Should the same boy win all ten events, he will have scored 1,000 markers. Points are awarded in each contest as follows: First place, 100; second place, eighty, and third place, sixty. In addition, twenty-five points are awarded to all non-winners for attendance.

Next week's event will be the standing broad jump.

The Junior "A" Softball Nut League race opened Wednesday with the Grapenuts defeating the Doughnuts and the Walnuts edging out the Peanuts in a pair of 3-2 battles. The loop may later be expanded to six clubs. Team captains are Doughnuts, Tommy Keech; Grapenuts, James Kilroy; Peanuts, Bill Dawson, and Walnuts, Robert Fox.

Marine Victory, Derby Hopeful, Wins at Bowie

BOWIE, Md., April 5 (AP)—In his first appearance as a 3-year-old, Marine Victory, Robert Bruce Livie's candidate for the Kentucky Derby and Preakness, easily captured the $3,400 Chelton purse in the feature race at Bowie today.

Running with the odds 1-5, Marine Victory paid $2.40, $2.30 and $2.10. Oceania was second, paying $4.60 and $2.40, while Carlotta ran third at $2.20 to show.

Holders of Daily double tickets on the winning combination of silent Rose and Rose of Dawn collected $150.10 for $2.

ARDENT ANGLER

MRS. MARY POPLO, enthusiastic Midland sportswoman, probably lays claim to being the oldest veteran of them all when it comes to fishing. Mrs. Poplo, who is 71, yesterday took out her fishing license at the court house as usual, and plans to go after trout and bass again this season. Mrs. Poplo enjoys all types of fishing but she favors trout and bass. Above she is shown with one of her prize catches. Mrs. Poplo comes of a family of fishermen and she has never taken a back seat when it comes to reeling in the big ones.

IMPROVEMENTS SLATED FOR BASEBALL DIAMOND AT NORTH END FIELD

Mayor Thomas S. Post estimated yesterday that cost of grading and filling work at the North End playground to make it suitable for a baseball diamond will be about $4,000.

Following inspection of the Holland street field Thursday evening by city officials and the board of county commissioners, Ralph L. Rizer, city engineer, was instructed to prepare an estimate on the cost of removing a portion of the bank in right field large enough to make the diamond suitable for baseball.

Members of the playground association pointed out during the inspection that the present layout is unsafe, both from a player and spectator standpoint, for staging baseball games.

Commissioner William V. Keegan said that present plans call for use of dirt removed from the bank to fill in the section where tennis courts have been located. The soil will also be placed on the field and rolled, and ditches will be built for drainage, he added.

Work is expected to be completed in time for the opening game of the baseball season, April 28. Known as Sitcher field, the diamond has served as the home field for the Queen City team of the Bi-State league in recent years.

The First Methodist church softball team of the Central YMCA league will practice this afternoon at 1 o'clock at the Allegany high school field.

Jamaica Opening Today Expected To Draw 50,000

Marks Beginning of 189 Days of Racing in New York State

By SID FEDER

NEW YORK, April 5 (AP) — The 1946 gold rush — known to the trade as the New York racing season—starts its 189-day run tomorrow, with the opening of a Jamaica meeting featuring more seats and standing room for the two-buck bettors, more windows to do their betting at —and less cash return.

Jamaica's stands have been stretched out to hold 18,500 for this twenty-five-day meeting. The folks who run the races at the compact Long Island oval only expect 50,000 horse fans to turn out for the opening card, which is featured, as usual, by the Paumonak Handicap and a couple of dashes for three-year-olds that will see five Kentucky Derby hopefuls try out their running shoes.

Expect New Betting Record

The postwar spending jag on which sports fans have gone the past several months points to the definite possibility that last year's fancy betting spree—an all-ime record for backing the gee-gees finish sending it in at Jamaica, Belmont, Aqueduct, Empire City and Saratoga between now and November.

Last season, shortened to 154 days by the war, two-buck Benny and his misses tossed some $450,000,000 into the iron men and the state netted about $30,000,000 of that in taxes.

This time, the "bite" on Benny and his family will be even bigger. In addition to the state's six percent and the track's four percent take from the mutuels, the city also will cut in for five percent for the tracks inside its boundaries—Jamaica and Aqueduct—under a law recently passed by the legislature.

At the three horse parks outside New York City, the counties probably will put the arm on this extra five percent.

The fans will have a chance to get used to this fifteen percent take gradually, however, for the extra ten-cent touch won't be sliced off each two-dollar bet for probably the first week of the meeting. The slicing machinery won't be set up until then.

Buzfuz Leads Field

Dan Chappell's Miami-owned swiftie, Buzfuz, heads a field of nine for the thirty-eighth running of the six-furlong Paumonok, which will net an $8,100 bankroll to the winner if all nine entries go to the post.

The first of the two 5½-furlong sprints for three-year olds has two Derby hopes in the field—Hampden, from the barn of William duPont of Wilmington, Del., and William Helis's Phidias. The second of the sprints features Helis's Lycos, Al Ernst's Alstimu and Joseph Rosen's East Light, all nominated for the run for the roses at Churchill Downs in May.

The SPORTLIGHT By GRANTLAND RICE

Interesting Baseball Character

MIAMI, Florida—Heading northward from the Citrus Circuit, from this golden land of booze and blooms, this happy land of lush and leisure, the number of questions tossed in my direction have been beyond all answering.

"How can they beat the Cardinals? Will this be the Red Sox year? Are the Yankees the old Yankees of big baseball days? What will happen to the Dodgers? How can they beat Detroit's pitching? Or Cleveland's, with Bob Feller around?" These are only a few of the debates they open.

But the query became easier to answer when someone asked me to name the most interesting personality I met on this six-week invasion of spring practice, that included over seven-hundred ball players. I can give you his name. It happens to be Ted Williams of the Red Sox, the greatest hitter in baseball today—probably one of the greatest hitters of all time. Possibly the greatest hitter of all time.

Ted is a tall, lean, lanky entry from San Diego, Cal. He is 6 feet 3, weighing around 180 pounds. He is 27-years old and has just finished a service flier's career of three seasons.

He is an artist to watch, an artist of the Joe Jackson—Tris Speaker—Ben Hogan—Bobby Jones—Walter Hagen—Babe Ruth type. In his four seasons with the Red Sox club he piled up a batting average of .356, only 11 points shy of Ty Cobb's all-time record, far beyond DiMaggio, Lajoie, Joe Jackson, Tris Speaker and Babe Ruth. Ted Williams is the one man left who may pass Ty Cobb's all-time record overlooking the fact that in the way of power he is well past Cobb's extra base count.

As smart an observer as Bill Dickey has rated Ted Williams the greatest natural hitter he ever saw —and Dickey has worked back of Williams in any number of games. And it might be mentioned that in his long career with the Yankees, Bill Dickey has seen and worked with some pretty fair hitters. But the most interesting part of Ted Williams isn't his hitting. It is his philosophy of competition and life in general.

The Other Side of Williams

In place of being an untutored youngster, a slugger, a fellow who just swung a bat, we found the Red Sox star was a close student of the science of hitting. Williams asked me what the six greatest hitters picked as the main fundamental of hitting — Cobb, Ruth, Jackson, DiMaggio, Heilman and Hornsby.

'And don't forget Hans Wagner," he added. "What made them great hitters? Eyes, arms, hands, swings, stance or what?"

Williams wanted to know. There could be no answer, except one. Williams refused to accept that answer.

The only answer is one born to the job of leading the pack. Born with certain type of genius or coordination or reflexes. Born as Caruso was born to sing, as Joe Louis was born to fight. Plus, of course, the hard work that must go with such talent.

No one can make a .400 hitter out of a .270 hitter. Hard work may lift the .270 hitter up around the .290 spot. No teaching or instruction or hard work makes a Bobby Jones, a Bob Feller, a Joe DiMaggio, or a Ted Williams.

We discussed the physical side of fundamentals.

"Now about the other side," Williams said.

"What's that?" I asked.

"Just how you think about things," he said. "I could have led the league the first year I was in it, but I didn't think I was that good. A big mistake. Now I have kidded myself into thinking I am the greatest hitter in baseball. Maybe the greatest hitter of all time. Maybe I am not. But that's my target. Yes, I know Cobb's all time record is .367. I'm still 11 points away. But I'm still a kid in experience compared to Cobb's 24 years in baseball.

"It's my angle you are only going to be as good as you think you are. You've got to have that target to aim at. Remember when a 4.12 mile was something. Then it was 4.10. Everyone was shooting at 4.10. Now they are all shooting at the four-minute mile. I can tell you I'm shooting at nothing less than a .400 season. I still tell you I think I'm the greatest hitter baseball has ever known. Why? Because I have to think that way to ever be the greatest hitter. Suppose I'm wrong? Then what? I'll still hit pretty well and I'll still keep on thinking I'm still the best. They can't arrest me for that. If you are aiming at a target, why not pick the top one?

"I'll admit I'm working on my hitting all the time. The minute I am satisfied with what I am doing, that means I'm over the hill. I don't care what I hit—I want to hit better. No one can afford to stand pat and be satisfied."

This isn't boasting or babbling by Williams. He means it. And in addition to his great natural ability, this is one of the reasons why he may set an all-time batting mark. Skill and ability plus this type of ambition is the combination that makes the champion.

Two Owners Seek Purses Withheld By Racing Group

BALTIMORE, April 5. (AP)—The Maryland Racing Commission, before a court today for the third time in as many months, was given fifteen days to show cause why it should not pay Owners W. L. Brann and Sylvester Labrot, Jr., purses won by their horses at last fall's Pimlico meeting, and reinstate their respective trainers unconditionally.

The order was signed by Judge Emory H. Niles in the state circuit court for Baltimore, in a suit filed by the owners. Judge Niles upheld the same complainants in February by declaring invalid a commission rule holding trainers solely responsible when horses under their care were drugged.

The racing commission later granted the trainers, Edward A. Christmas and Clay Sutphin, new licenses, but qualified them by refusing to waive "any right of the commission to revoke or suspend (the licenses) for any reason or cause now or hereafter legally permitting such action."

Contending that Christmas and Sutphin had committed no offense, the owners asked the court to direct their unqualified reinstatement.

Brann and Labrot also charged the commission had withheld a $2,200 purse won by Labrot's Shako last November. At hearings later held for the trainers, the commission said analysis showed both winners had been stimulated.

The owners pointed out that the commission had failed to hold any new hearings on the stimulation charges since the rule under which the trainers had been charged was invalidated by the court.

The suit asserted commission spokesmen had said they intended to do so if their appeal in another trainer's case was successful.

Harry Gilmer Is Accepted for Service

TUSCALOOSA, Ala., April 5 (AP)—Army doctors dealt Alabama's hopes for another unbeaten football team a severe glow today when they decided Harry Gilmer, the wizard passer, was physically fit for duty in the service, but the showing of two returned veterans in spring practice softened the blow.

Gilmer, a 4-F previously because of stomach ulcers, was passed at Fort McClellan, Ala., and ordered home to await induction orders from his draft board.

Gilmer had been pushed for first string halfback duties this spring by Norman (Monk) Mosley, a returnee from the 1942 team, and Johnny Hite, a 1944 letterman, and while neither can be expected to match Gilmer's passing, either man should fill the vacant spot adequately.

Americans Jumping To Mexican League Must Pay U. S. Taxes

WASHINGTON, April 5 (AP) — Baseball players jumping to the Mexican League for higher salaries must pay United States income taxes so long as they are American citizens, the Internal Revenue Department says.

Mickey Owen, Brooklyn catcher; Vernon Stephens, slugging St. Louis Browns shortstop, and numerous other players have made the leap this spring from organized ball to the Mexican circuit.

Taxes paid to the Mexican government will be deductible from the amount due the United States, said department officials who cannot be identified.

"But in the final analysis, these players will have to pay as much as if all their taxes were paid to the United States," they pointed out.

Keiser Continues Dazzling Play In Golf Tourney

Ex-Sailor Has Five Stroke Lead in Masters Meet at Halfway Mark

By GAYLE TALBOT

AUGUSTA, Ga., April 5 (AP)—The Masters Golf Tournament reached the halfway point tonight, and a slender, blue eyed "unknown" named Herman Keiser still was far out in front of the nation's superstars. He threatened to give them the beating of their gilded careers.

Keiser, 31-year-old ex-sailor who shot a fine 69 in yesterday's high wind to tie for the lead at the end of the first 18, came right back today with a spectacular 68—four under par for the Augusta National course—to show there was nothing accidental about it. At the rate the Akron, Ohio, comet was going, he could break the tournament record of 279 strokes for 72 holes and win top prize of $2,500 without working up a sweat.

Five big strokes behind his two-day total of 137 was Jimmy Thomson, the long-hitter from Los Angeles, with 72-70—142. Clayton Heafner, of Charlotte, N. C., with successive rounds of 74-69—143, was in third place, and the rest were nowhere.

In posting 34-34 today, Keiser played the kind of golf that dreams are made of. He was on every green when he should have been, scored two birdies on each nine and was never over par. In addition he admitted he missed about eight "reasonable" putts that he might have had.

Ben Hogan, co-favorite with Byron Nelson in pre-tournament betting, batted out a good 70, and yet found himself bracketed with three others at 144 at the halfway mark, seven strokes behind the leader. Nelson, with 72-73—145, shared that unenviable spot with three others, including Jimmy Demaret.

Legion Arranges Good Fight Card For Monday Night

Jim Cantanese and Vance Sinclair who will meet in a non-tourney bout, head an attractive card for the American Legion's Tri-State tournament program at the armory here Monday night, according to an announcement made by Matchmaker Phil Fleming.

Four championship bouts are on the card and there is a possibility, Fleming said, that four others will be arranged featuring Zan A. C. boxers from Morgantown, W. Va.

Another bout that is causing quite a bit of comment in boxing circles here is the return match between Bobby Fuller and Bobby Goss, a pair of 112 pounders who engaged in a real scrap last Monday with Fuller gaining the decision.

Jim Lehman, representing the South End A. C., will meet Marty Mull, of the Legion, in a 118-pound novice title bout.

Jim Klosterman and Curtis "Red" Portmess will decide the 147-pound open championship, while in novice division of the same weight class, "Dick" Clay and Jim Wright will clash.

In the other tournament bout, Don Miller, of the Police Boys Club, and Pat Murphy, South End, A. C., will meet for the 126 pound novice title.

The first bout Monday night will start at 8 o'clock. The same officials who handled last Monday's card will handle the fights Monday night.

Trout Should Be Plentiful This Year, Kolmer Says

BALTIMORE, April 5, (AP)—When the trout season opens April 15, Maryland anglers will have more than 26,000 brook, rainbow, and brown trout for their hooks, ranging in size from seven to sixteen inches, Harold Kolmer, secretary of the state game and inland fish commission said, today.

He said resident sportsmen as well as a large number of anglers from other states would be assured plenty of sport throughout the season, which ends July 15, by a restocking of the waters at intervals.

A. M. Powell, superintendent of fish hatcheries, at Lewistown, Frederick county, explained that local game wardens helped stock the waters so they could know the exact number of trout in their districts.

Kolmer said he expected a larger number than ever of fishing licenses to be issued this year. A total of 34,534 were issued during the commission's last fiscal year, July, 1944 to June, 1945. Streams are stocked from the proceeds of the license sales.

Following is a list of waters and numbers of trout stocked:

Allegany county: Evitts creek, 2,500; Flintstone creek, 400; Anne Arundel county; Severn Run, 1,000; Baltimore county; Jones Falls, 1,500; Carroll county; Beaver Run, 500; Frederick county, Fishing creek, 3,000; Big Hunting creek, 2,000; Middle creek 1,500; Garrett county: Bear creek, 2,500; Savage river, 2,500; Salt Block, 1,300; White Rock, 500; Mill Run, 300; Wolf Den Run, 300; Laurel Run, 500; Lost Land Run, 500; Puzzley Run, 500.

Pro Football Teams May Use Stadium After Navy Games

ANNAPOLIS, Md., April 5. (AP)—Capt. C. O. Humphreys, Naval Academy athletics director, said today Navy probably would agree to modifying its contract with Baltimore Stadium to allow its use by professional football teams on Sundays following navy games.

He said negotiations still were in progress between himself and Baltimore Park Board officials, adding that these negotiations were in no sense a "disagreement."

At the same time he declared a clause prohibiting football games in the stadium for five days preceding a Navy game probably would be incorporated in the proposed contract.

Final decisions are expected tomorrow, he declared.

The board had objected to the restrictive element in the proposed contract which would have interfered with renting the stadium on three-weekends following Navy's game with Duke, Oct. 12; North Carolina, Oct. 19, and Notre Dame, Nov. 2.

Board officials had pointed out that professional football organizations were showing increased interest in using the stadium.

Prices May Be Hardest Blow Of Title Battle

By WHITNEY MARTIN

NEW YORK, Aprfl 5 (AP)—Probably the hardest blow of the next Joe Louis-Billy Conn fight June 19 will be the ticket prices, which are going to keep a lot of time-tested, tried (very tried, sometimes) and true ring fans sitting in front of their radios.

The $10 to $100 scale won't send any shudders through the big dough boys, the guys with swollen pocketbooks who rate the value of anything by the price alone. In fact, these walking mints probably will brag a little about paying their $100 for a seat, and if the price was $1,000 there probably would be quite a few willing to pay it on the theory that it is the smart thing to do.

Smart, that is, in the sense that it is stylish, putting the ringsider in sort of a sports social register. A lot of these fistic first-nighters will come from distant points, not lured so much by the merit of the fight itself as by the prestige they feel they might attain by being seen sitting on a $100 bill, and being able to say afterward: "I was there."

Once-a-Year Fans

A great many will be once-a-year fight fans who follow boxing only casually except when a big fight comes around. Then they suddenly become enthusiastic supporters of the game, if not positively experts, although they might not know a right cross from a left hook.

Boxing would give a sad little wheeze and expire if it were forced to rely on the once-a-year fans for support, for the fight game isn't just a heavyweight championship bout any more than a World Series is baseball. There were a lot of spectators who thought the 1945 World Series wasn't baseball, at that.

Boxing is the 1,000 and one little clubs which make up the fight game, and it's the so-called little men who by their faithful attendance keep the clubs going. They go to fights because they like the action, not because there is anything in particular at stake or because they want to be seen.

The $10 minimum for the Louis-Conn affair will keep a lot of this knot-hole gang away, as for the average worker $10 is $10, and not just a tip for the waiter.

As we have mentioned before, we think Mike Jacobs is within his rights in charging what the traffic will bear, as a merchant isn't going to take ten cents for a trinket he can sell for a dollar.

Martin's Opinion

Personally, we don't think it would be worth $100 to see a dozen Louises and a dozen Conns fighting in the ring at the same time, but that's purely an opinion and we realize there are hundreds, if not thousands, willing to pay the $100 fee to see one Louis and one Conn. Otherwise, Mr. Jacobs would bring down the price to a figure they would pay.

Anyway, the bigger the price the bigger the ballyhoo, so we can expect the most generous three-sheeting in pugilistic history. The fight might run a poor second in merit to a weekly show at a neighborhood sporting club, but then, a first-nighter might pay a good price to see the opening, and simultaneous closing, of a show that was a dismal flop.

The $100 ringsiders are gambling that they will get their money's worth. If they don't, they can get their satisfaction out of saying: "I was there."

Decathlon Gets Under Way at "Y"

The Central Y. M. C. A.'s spring athletic program was launched this week, according to Clifton Van Roby, "Y" physical director, who said that a two-division track and field decathlon was started Wednesday and will continue for ten weeks with one event weekly.

Starting off the decathlon was the fifty-yard dash. Ronald Hansrote was the Junior "B" event while Ronnie Cage copped the Junior "A" dash. Edward Joyce was second and Richard Dolan third in the Junior "B" contest while Bill Dawson was second and Robert Fox third in the Junior "A" event.

Should the same boy win all ten events, he will have scored 1,000 markers. Points are awarded in each contest as follows: First place, 100; second place, eighty, and third place, sixty. In addition, twenty-five points are awarded to all non-winners for attendance.

Next week's event will be the standing broad jump.

The Junior "A" Softball Nut League race opened Wednesday with the Grapenuts defeating the Doughnuts and the Walnuts edging out the Peanuts in a pair of 3-2 battles. The loop may later be expanded to six clubs. Team captains are Doughnuts, Tommy Keech; Grapenuts, James Kilroy; Peanuts, Bill Dawson, and Walnuts, Robert Fox.

Marine Victory, Derby Hopeful, Wins at Bowie

BOWIE, Md., April 5 (AP)—In his first appearance as a 3-year-old, Marine Victory, Robert Bruce Livie's candidate for the Kentucky Derby and Preakness, easily captured the $3,400 Chelton purse in the feature race at Bowie today.

Running with the odds 1-5, Marine Victory paid $2.40, $2.30 and $2.10. Oceania was second, paying $4.60 and $2.40, while Carlotta ran third at $2.20 to show.

Holders of Daily double tickets on the winning combination of silent Rose and Rose of Dawn collected $150.10 for $2.

Mrs. Poplo enjoys all types of fishing but she favors trout and bass. Above she is shown with one of her prize catches. IMPROVEMENTS SLATED FOR BASEBALL DIAMOND AT NORTH END FIELD

Mayor Thomas S. Post estimated yesterday that cost of grading and filling work at the North End playground to make it suitable for a baseball diamond will be about $4,000.

Following inspection of the Holland street field Thursday evening by city officials and the board of county commissioners, Ralph L. Rizer, city engineer, was instructed to prepare an estimate on the cost of removing a portion of the bank in right field large enough to make the diamond suitable for baseball.

Members of the playground association pointed out during the inspection that the present layout is unsafe, both from a player and spectator standpoint, for staging baseball games.

Commissioner William V. Keegan said that present plans call for use of dirt removed from the bank to fill in the section where tennis courts have been located. The soil will also be placed on the field and rolled, and ditches will be built for drainage, he added.

Work is expected to be completed in time for the opening game of the baseball season April 28. Known as Sitcher field, the diamond has served as the home field for the Queen City team of the Bi-State league in recent years.

Jamaica Opening Today Expected To Draw 50,000

Marks Beginning of 189 Days of Racing in New York State

By SID FEDER

NEW YORK, April 5 (AP) — The 1946 gold rush — known to the trade as the New York racing season—starts its 189-day run tomorrow, with the opening of a Jamaica meeting featuring more seats and standing room for the two-buck bettors, more windows to do their betting at —and less cash return.

Jamaica's stands have been stretched out to hold 18,500 for this twenty-five-day meeting. The folks who run the races at the compact Long Island oval only expect 50,000 horse fans to turn out for the opening card, which is featured, as usual, by the Paumonak Handicap and a couple of dashes for three-year-olds that will see five Kentucky Derby hopefuls try out their running shoes.

Expect New Betting Record

The postwar spending jag on which sports fans have gone the past several months points to the definite possibility that last year's fancy betting spree—an all-ime record for backing the gee-gees finish sending it in at Jamaica, Belmont, Aqueduct, Empire City and Saratoga between now and November.

Last season, shortened to 154 days by the war, two-buck Benny and his misses tossed some $450,000,000 into the iron men and the state netted about $30,000,000 of that in taxes.

This time, the "bite" on Benny and his family will be even bigger. In addition to the state's six percent and the track's four percent take from the mutuels, the city also will cut in for five percent for the tracks inside its boundaries—Jamaica and Aqueduct—under a law recently passed by the legislature.

At the three horse parks outside New York City, the counties probably will put the arm on this extra five percent.

The fans will have a chance to get used to this fifteen percent take gradually, however, for the extra ten-cent touch won't be sliced off each two-dollar bet for probably the first week of the meeting. The slicing machinery won't be set up until then.

Buzfuz Leads Field

Dan Chappell's Miami-owned swiftie, Buzfuz, heads a field of nine for the thirty-eighth running of the six-furlong Paumonok, which will net an $8,100 bankroll to the winner if all nine entries go to the post.

The first of the two 5½-furlong sprints for three-year olds has two Derby hopes in the field—Hampden, from the barn of William duPont of Wilmington, Del., and William Helis's Phidias. The second of the sprints features Helis's Lycos, Al Ernst's Alstimu and Joseph Rosen's East Light, all nominated for the run for the roses at Churchill Downs in May.

The SPORTLIGHT By GRANTLAND RICE

Interesting Baseball Character

MIAMI, Florida—Heading northward from the Citrus Circuit, from this golden land of booze and blooms, this happy land of hush and leisure, the number of questions tossed in my direction have been beyond all answering.

"How can they beat the Cardinals? Will this be the Red Sox year? Are the Yankees the old Yankees of big baseball days? What will happen to the Dodgers? How can they beat Detroit's pitching? Or Cleveland's, with Bob Feller around?" These are only a few of the debates they open.

But the query became easier to answer when someone asked me to name the most interesting personality I met on this six-week invasion of spring practice, that included over seven-hundred ball players. I can give you his name. It happens to be Ted Williams of the Red Sox, the greatest hitter in baseball today—probably one of the greatest hitters of all time. Possibly the greatest hitter of all time.

Ted is a tall, lean, lanky entry from San Diego, Cal. He is 6 feet 3, weighing around 180 pounds. He is 27-years old and has just finished a service flier's career of three seasons.

He is an artist to watch, an artist of the Joe Jackson—Tris Speaker—Ben Hogan—Bobby Jones—Walter Hagen—Babe Ruth type. In his four seasons with the Red Sox club he piled up a batting average of .356, only 11 points shy of Ty Cobb's all-time record, far beyond DiMaggio, Lajoie, Joe Jackson, Tris Speaker and Babe Ruth. Ted Williams is the one man left who may pass Ty Cobb's all-time record overlooking the fact that in the way of power he is well past Cobb's extra base count.

As smart an observer as Bill Dickey has rated Ted Williams the greatest natural hitter he ever saw —and Dickey has worked back of Williams in any number of games. And it might be mentioned that in his long career with the Yankees, Bill Dickey has seen and worked with some pretty fair hitters. But the most interesting part of Ted Williams isn't his hitting. It is his philosophy of competition and life in general.

The Other Side of Williams

In place of being an untutored youngster, a slugger, a fellow who just swung a bat, we found the Red Sox star was a close student of the science of hitting. Williams asked me what the six greatest hitters picked as the main fundamental of hitting — Cobb, Ruth, Jackson, DiMaggio, Heilman and Hornsby.

'And don't forget Hans Wagner," he added. "What made them great hitters? Eyes, arms, hands, swings, stance or what?"

Williams wanted to know. There could be no answer, except one. Williams refused to accept that answer.

The only answer is one born to the job of leading the pack. Born with certain type of genius or coordination or reflexes. Born as Caruso was born to sing, as Joe Louis was born to fight. Plus, of course, the hard work that must go with such talent.

No one can make a .400 hitter out of a .270 hitter. Hard work may lift the .270 hitter up around the .290 spot. No teaching or instruction or hard work makes a Bobby Jones, a Bob Feller, a Joe DiMaggio, or a Ted Williams.

We discussed the physical side of fundamentals.

"Now about the other side," Williams said.

"What's that?" I asked.

"Just how you think about things," he said. "I could have led the league the first year I was in it, but I didn't think I was that good. A big mistake. Now I have kidded myself into thinking I am the greatest hitter in baseball. Maybe the greatest hitter of all time. Maybe I am not. But that's my target. Yes, I know Cobb's all time record is .367. I'm still 11 points away. But I'm still a kid in experience compared to Cobb's 24 years in baseball.

"It's my angle you are only going to be as good as you think you are. You've got to have that target to aim at. Remember when a 4.12 mile was something. Then it was 4.10. Everyone was shooting at 4.10. Now they are all shooting at the four-minute mile. I can tell you I'm shooting at nothing less than a .400 season. I still tell you I think I'm the greatest hitter baseball has ever known. Why? Because I have to think that way to ever be the greatest hitter. Suppose I'm wrong? Then what? I'll still hit pretty well and I'll still keep on thinking I'm still the best. They can't arrest me for that. If you are aiming at a target, why not pick the top one?

"I'll admit I'm working on my hitting all the time. The minute I am satisfied with what I am doing, that means I'm over the hill. I don't care what I hit—I want to hit better. No one can afford to stand pat and be satisfied."

This isn't boasting or babbling by Williams. He means it. And in addition to his great natural ability, this is one of the reasons why he may set an all-time batting mark. Skill and ability plus this type of ambition is the combination that makes the champion.

Two Owners Seek Purses Withheld By Racing Group

BALTIMORE, April 5. (AP)—The Maryland Racing Commission, before a court today for the third time in as many months, was given fifteen days to show cause why it should not pay Owners W. L. Brann and Sylvester Labrot, Jr., purses won by their horses at last fall's Pimlico meeting, and reinstate their respective trainers unconditionally.

The order was signed by Judge Emory H. Niles in the state circuit court for Baltimore, in a suit filed by the owners. Judge Niles upheld the same complainants in February by declaring invalid a commission rule holding trainers solely responsible when horses under their care were drugged.

The racing commission later granted the trainers, Edward A. Christmas and Clay Sutphin, new licenses, but qualified them by refusing to waive "any right of the commission to revoke or suspend (the licenses) for any reason or cause now or hereafter legally permitting such action."

Contending that Christmas and Sutphin had committed no offense, the owners asked the court to direct their unqualified reinstatement.

Brann and Labrot also charged the commission had withheld a $2,200 purse won by Labrot's Shako last November. At hearings later held for the trainers, the commission said analysis showed both winners had been stimulated.

The owners pointed out that the commission had failed to hold any new hearings on the stimulation charges since the rule under which the trainers had been charged was invalidated by the court.

The suit asserted commission spokesmen had said they intended to do so if their appeal in another trainer's case was successful.

Harry Gilmer Is Accepted for Service

TUSCALOOSA, Ala., April 5 (AP)—Army doctors dealt Alabama's hopes for another unbeaten football team a severe glow today when they decided Harry Gilmer, the wizard passer, was physically fit for duty in the service, but the showing of two returned veterans in spring practice softened the blow.

Gilmer, a 4-F previously because of stomach ulcers, was passed at Fort McClellan, Ala., and ordered home to await induction orders from his draft board.

Gilmer had been pushed for first string halfback duties this spring by Norman (Monk) Mosley, a returnee from the 1942 team, and Johnny Hite, a 1944 letterman, and while neither can be expected to match Gilmer's passing, either man should fill the vacant spot adequately.

Keiser Continues Dazzling Play In Golf Tourney

Ex-Sailor Has Five Stroke Lead in Masters Meet at Halfway Mark

By GAYLE TALBOT

AUGUSTA, Ga., April 5 (AP)—The Masters Golf Tournament reached the halfway point tonight, and a slender, blue eyed "unknown" named Herman Keiser still was far out in front of the nation's superstars. He threatened to give them the beating of their gilded careers.

Keiser, 31-year-old ex-sailor who shot a fine 69 in yesterday's high wind to tie for the lead at the end of the first 18, came right back today with a spectacular 68—four under par for the Augusta National course—to show there was nothing accidental about it. At the rate the Akron, Ohio, comet was going, he could break the tournament record of 279 strokes for 72 holes and win top prize of $2,500 without working up a sweat.

Five big strokes behind his two-day total of 137 was Jimmy Thomson, the long-hitter from Los Angeles, with 72-70—142. Clayton Heafner, of Charlotte, N. C., with successive rounds of 74-69—143, was in third place, and the rest were nowhere.

In posting 34-34 today, Keiser played the kind of golf that dreams are made of. He was on every green when he should have been, scored two birdies on each nine and was never over par. In addition he admitted he missed about eight "reasonable" putts that he might have had.

Chick Harbert, young Detroit professional who shared first day honors with Keiser, soared to 75 to wind up with Toney Penna, Bob Hamilton and Hogan at 144.

Americans Jumping To Mexican League Must Pay U. S. Taxes

WASHINGTON, April 5 (AP) — Baseball players jumping to the Mexican League for higher salaries must pay United States income taxes so long as they are American citizens, the Internal Revenue Department says.

Mickey Owen, Brooklyn catcher; Vernon Stephens, slugging St. Louis Browns shortstop, and numerous other players have made the leap this spring from organized ball to the Mexican circuit.

Taxes paid to the Mexican government will be deductible from the amount due the United States, said department officials who cannot be identified.

"But in the final analysis, these players will have to pay as much as if all their taxes were paid to the United States," they pointed out.

Legion Arranges Good Fight Card For Monday Night

Jim Cantanese and Vance Sinclair who will meet in a non-tourney bout, head an attractive card for the American Legion's Tri-State tournament program at the armory here Monday night, according to an announcement made by Matchmaker Phil Fleming.

Four championship bouts are on the card and there is a possibility, Fleming said, that four others will be arranged featuring Zan A. C. boxers from Morgantown, W. Va.

Another bout that is causing quite a bit of comment in boxing circles here is the return match between Bobby Fuller and Bobby Goss, a pair of 112 pounders who engaged in a real scrap last Monday with Fuller gaining the decision.

Jim Lehman, representing the South End A. C., will meet Marty Mull, of the Legion, in a 118-pound novice title bout.

Jim Klosterman and Curtis "Red" Portmess will decide the 147-pound open championship, while in novice division of the same weight class, "Dick" Clay and Jim Wright will clash.

In the other tournament bout, Don Miller, of the Police Boys Club, and Pat Murphy, South End, A. C., will meet for the 126 pound novice title.

The first bout Monday night will start at 8 o'clock. The same officials who handled last Monday's card will handle the fights Monday night.

Trout Should Be Plentiful This Year, Kolmer Says

BALTIMORE, April 5, (AP)—When the trout season opens April 15, Maryland anglers will have more than 26,000 brook, rainbow, and brown trout for their hooks, ranging in size from seven to sixteen inches, Harold Kolmer, secretary of the state game and inland fish commission said, today.

He said resident sportsmen as well as a large number of anglers from other states would be assured plenty of sport throughout the season, which ends July 15, by a restocking of the waters at intervals.

A. M. Powell, superintendent of fish hatcheries, at Lewistown, Frederick county, explained that local game wardens helped stock the waters so they could know the exact number of trout in their districts.

Kolmer said he expected a larger number than ever of fishing licenses to be issued this year. A total of 34,534 were issued during the commission's last fiscal year, July, 1944 to June, 1945. Streams are stocked from the proceeds of the license sales.

Following is a list of waters and numbers of trout stocked:

Allegany county: Evitts creek, 2,500; Flintstone creek, 400; Anne Arundel county; Severn Run, 1,000; Baltimore county; Jones Falls, 1,500; Carroll county; Beaver Run, 500; Frederick county, Fishing creek, 3,000; Big Hunting creek, 2,000; Middle creek 1,500; Garrett county: Bear creek, 2,500; Savage river, 2,500; Salt Block, 1,300; White Rock, 500; Mill Run, 300; Wolf Den Run, 300; Laurel Run, 500; Lost Land Run, 500; Puzzley Run, 500.

Harford county: Rock Run, 300; Mine Branch, 200; Howard county: Patuxent, 300; Montgomery county: Rock run, 500; Washington county: Beaver creek, 2,000; Marsh Run, 500; St. James Run, 500; Tonoloway, 800.

Pro Football Teams May Use Stadium After Navy Games

ANNAPOLIS, Md., April 5. (AP)—Capt. C. O. Humphreys, Naval Academy athletics director, said today Navy probably would agree to modifying its contract with Baltimore Stadium to allow its use by professional football teams on Sundays following navy games.

He said negotiations still were in progress between himself and Baltimore Park Board officials, adding that these negotiations were in no sense a "disagreement."

At the same time he declared a clause prohibiting football games in the stadium for five days preceding a Navy game probably would be incorporated in the proposed contract.

Final decisions are expected tomorrow, he declared.

The board had objected to the restrictive element in the proposed contract which would have interfered with renting the stadium on three-weekends following Navy's game with Duke, Oct. 12; North Carolina, Oct. 19, and Notre Dame, Nov. 2.

Board officials had pointed out that professional football organizations were showing increased interest in using the stadium.

Lovely Cottage, 25 to 1 Shot, Wins Big Race

Horse Ex-artilleryman Bought for $8,000 Cops the Grand National

By BILL MACKLIN

AINTREE, England, April 5—(AP)—An advertisement ex-artilleryman John Morant saw in a racing paper last December won him the one hundred and third running of the Grand National Steeplechase today before the greatest throng ever to turn out for a horse race anywhere.

The lucky ad offered the nine-year-old Irish gelding, Lovely Cottage, for sale. Morant sent a veterinarian to Ireland to buy the horse for him, sight unseen, from Mrs. L. Hyde for $8,000. Today, the sturdy bay, unheralded in the pre-race consideration and piloted by an amateur rider, came with a great rush to sweep to the wire by four lengths in the first Grand National since the war put a stop to racing's toughest grind six years ago.

Astonishing Finish

It was an astonishing finish for a crowd estimated by police at 400,000—all the more astonishing since James V. Rank's Prince Regent, one of the shortest-priced favorites in Grand National history, faltered badly after taking a twenty-length lead approaching the stretch, and came home third.

The four miles, 856 yards of fences, ditches and brooks that make up Aintree's roughest of all jumping courses, had taken all the run out of the Prince, who was cut to 3-1 in the closing betting. He was unable to withstand the surge of Lovely Cottage under Captain R. Petre's steady ride, and L. S. Elwell's 100-1 shot, Jack Finlay, charged past him in the final yards to take second place by three lengths.

Back of these three, only three other horses in the starting field of thirty-four managed to negotiate the thirty jumps in the two swings around Aintree's spacious lop-sided racing oval and reach the finish wire.

The much-feared leap over Becher's Brook, took some of the well-backed fencers the first time around, among them the well-regarded French star, Symbole, who had to be destroyed.

Wins $33,320 Purse

For Modest Morant, it marked the first big triumph in twenty years of racing. Lovely Cottage's victory "won him out" less than four months after he bought the horse, for a bankroll of $35,320 was waiting at the finish line today—largest Grand National winner's purse since Man O'War's son, Battleship, took the 1938 renewal and $37,545. In addition to the original $8,000 purchase price, Morant had to give Mrs. Hyde $4,000 from today's purse, under the terms of the sale.

A 50-1 shot almost until twenty-four hours before the race, Lovely Cottage dropped to 33-1 in last night's final callover and closed at a 25-1 with the bookmakers at post time. The totalizers, however, paid only 11-1 on him, because his backers had "sent it in" from Ireland and London.

Packing only 145 pounds, compared to the 173 "wagonload" Prince Regent had to tote, Lovely Cottage was clocked in 9 minutes, 38 1-5 seconds. His time was regarded as fair.

Hillyer Court Is Favored To Take Bowie Handicap

BOWIE, Md., April 5 (AP) — Bernard Seroy's Hillyer Court and eight other horses were named today to compete tomorrow in the $7,500 Bowie Handicap, first Saturday feature of the spring meeting here.

Hillyer Court ruled the overnight favorite to take the mile and 70-yard test on the basis of his victory in the opening-day feature at the same distance. He previously had won the New Orleans Handicap.

His greatest opposition in the Bowie was expected to come from E. D. Talbert's One Only, which finished second to Hillyer Court last Monday, Vincent Cicero's Royal Flush and J. L. Friendman's Milcave.

Others named overnight were Hasteville, Gypster, Cat Bridge, Valdina Craft and Happy Buckie.

Lovely Cottage, 25 to 1 Shot, Wins Big Race

By BILL MACKLIN

AINTREE, England, April 5—(AP)—An advertisement ex-artilleryman John Morant saw in a racing paper last December won him the one hundred and third running of the Grand National Steeplechase today before the greatest throng ever to turn out for a horse race anywhere.

The lucky ad offered the nine-year-old Irish gelding, Lovely Cottage, for sale. Morant sent a veterinarian to Ireland to buy the horse for him, sight unseen, from Mrs. L. Hyde for $8,000. Today, the sturdy bay, unheralded in the pre-race consideration and piloted by an amateur rider, came with a great rush to sweep to the wire by four lengths in the first Grand National since the war put a stop to racing's toughest grind six years ago.

Astonishing Finish

It was an astonishing finish for a crowd estimated by police at 400,000—all the more astonishing since James V. Rank's Prince Regent, one of the shortest-priced favorites in Grand National history, faltered badly after taking a twenty-length lead approaching the stretch, and came home third.

The four miles, 856 yards of fences, ditches and brooks that make up Aintree's roughest of all jumping courses, had taken all the run out of the Prince, who was cut to 3-1 in the closing betting. He was unable to withstand the surge of Lovely Cottage under Captain R. Petre's steady ride, and L. S. Elwell's 100-1 shot, Jack Finlay, charged past him in the final yards to take second place by three lengths.

Back of these three, only three other horses in the starting field of thirty-four managed to negotiate the thirty jumps in the two swings around Aintree's spacious lop-sided racing oval and reach the finish wire.

The much-feared leap over Becher's Brook, took some of the well-backed fencers the first time around, among them the well-regarded French star, Symbole, who had to be destroyed.

Wins $33,320 Purse

For Modest Morant, it marked the first big triumph in twenty years of racing. Lovely Cottage's victory "won him out" less than four months after he bought the horse, for a bankroll of $35,320 was waiting at the finish line today—largest Grand National winner's purse since Man O'War's son, Battleship, took the 1938 renewal and $37,545. In addition to the original $8,000 purchase price, Morant had to give Mrs. Hyde $4,000 from today's purse, under the terms of the sale.

A 50-1 shot almost until twenty-four hours before the race, Lovely Cottage dropped to 33-1 in last night's final callover and closed at a 25-1 with the bookmakers at post time. The totalizers, however, paid only 11-1 on him, because his backers had "sent it in" from Ireland and London.

Packing only 145 pounds, compared to the 173 "wagonload" Prince Regent had to tote, Lovely Cottage was clocked in 9 minutes, 38 1-5 seconds. His time was regarded as fair.

Cooper Accepts Terms

DAYTONA BEACH, Fla., April 5 (AP)—Walker Cooper, the New York Giants' $175,000 catching beauty, agreed to the terms of a two-year contract today in a telephone conversation with Manager Mel Ott.

Cooper, discharged from the navy this week, said he would leave his Missouri home at once for Jacksonville, Fla., where he will train for a week or ten days with the Jersey City Club of the International League, while the Giants head north.

Hillyer Court Is Favored To Take Bowie Handicap

BOWIE, Md., April 5 (AP) — Bernard Seroy's Hillyer Court and eight other horses were named today to compete tomorrow in the $7,500 Bowie Handicap, first Saturday feature of the spring meeting here.

Morgan C. Harris, State's Attorney, Seeks Re-election

Announces Candidacy Subject to Republican Primary June 24

Morgan C. Harris, state's attorney of Allegany county since he was appointed in June 10, 1937, last night announced his candidacy for re-election, subject to the Republican primary election June 24.

Harris's appointment to the office was made by Judges D. Lindley Sloan, Frank Wagaman and William A. Huster after a vacancy occurred when Judge Huster was elevated to the bench.

In 1938 he was elected state's attorney and was re-elected in 1942 without opposition in either the primary or the general election.

A native of Midland, Harris was educated at Westernport high school and Baltimore Business college and received his law degree from the Law School of George Washington university. He has been practicing law in Cumberland since 1924.

Chairman of Delegation

Harris was elected to the house of delegates in 1926 and served as chairman of the Allegany county delegation the following year. As a member of the legislature he was successful in having a bill passed providing that state institutions and departments in Maryland use Maryland mined coal where economically advisable.

This bill was passed despite an unfavorable report by the committee and over the objections of both the minority and majority floor leaders. Among other measures he introduced and supported was the bill creating the peoples court for Cumberland, which provided substantial improvement and advancement over the justice of the peace system.

In the early days of his law practice, Harris gave eight months of his time in preparing and presenting cases before the Interstate Commerce Commission in order to correct the prejudicial freight rates from George's creek to Washington and Baltimore.

He finally was successful in securing a thirteen cents per ton reduction in the freight rates to Baltimore, Washington and other points, which inured to the benefit of George's creek coal miners, coal operators and businessmen alike.

In 1936 Harris was honored by the judges of the United States District Court for the District of Maryland by being appointed referee in bankruptcy for Allegany and Garrett counties. He resigned this position when appointed state's attorney the following year.

Conducted Safety Campaign

Several years ago Harris conducted a safety campaign throughout the county to reduce traffic accidents and has taken a sincere interest in matters pertaining to safe operation of automobiles.

He likewise has taken a keen interest in the reduction of juvenile delinquency and has been president of the Police Boys' club since its organization.

For the past eight years Harris has been vice president of the State's Attorney's Association of Maryland and is a past president of the Allegany County Bar Association. He is also a member of the American Bar Association, the Maryland Bar Association and the Maryland Police Association.

Harris has been commended by every grand jury since he has held the office of state's attorney for the efficient manner in which he has conducted his office.

In a statement yesterday, Harris said he is "running on his record and, if re-elected, will continue to conduct my office without bitterness, bigotry, prejudice or narrowness toward creed, sect, order or individual, which is the policy upon which the office has been conducted in the past."

Republican Club Member

Harris is a member of the Lonaconing Republican Club, Young Men's Republican Club of Frostburg, the Sixth District Republican Club, South End Republican Club, Young Men's Republican Club of Cumberland, Ali Ghan Temple of the Shrine, the Elks, Junior Order United American Mechanics, Allegany-Garrett County Sports Association, Fraternal Order of Eagles, Masonic Lodge of Westernport, and Antioch Commandery, No. 6, Knights Templar.

SEEKS RE-ELECTION — Morgan C. Harris announces that he will seek re-election as state's attorney of Allegany county, subject to the Republican primary election on June 24. Harris has been state's attorney since June 10, 1937, when he was appointed by the judges of the Fourth judicial circuit to succeed William A. Huster who was elevated to the judgeship. (See story)

Town Hill Hotel Is Purchased By the Mays

Managers of Ali Ghan Shrine Club To Begin New Duties Apr. 20

Charles E. Mays and Lillian M. Mays, his wife, managers of Ali Ghan Shrine County Club for the past several years, have purchased the Town Hill hotel on the National highway, twenty-three miles east of Cumberland, from R. S. Dillon.

Mays said last night that he has been negotiating for the purchase of the property for several weeks, and he and Mrs. Mays resigned from the Shrine club a couple of weeks ago. Their resignation becomes effective April 20, at which time they will assume active management of their new enterprise.

Town Hill hotel, sometimes referred to as Town Hill Inn, was established in the past twenty-five years. The place had gradual but steady growth, and started from a little fruit stand where members of the Dillon family sold baskets of fruit to tourists. Later a small sandwich shop was constructed, and gradually the place was enlarged to a fair sized tourist home, service station and restaurant.

The sale, according to Mays includes the entire premises. There is a large hotel, which includes a dining room, kitchen, storage space, rest rooms and twenty-seven sleeping rooms. There is a forty-car garage, a five-room house and an eight-room house on the grounds. Mays said he plans to use one of the houses for his help and assistants. There is also a gasoline service station and facilities for repairing and servicing automobiles.

In the next few weeks, Mays indicated there will be some remodeling and improvements made, but business will continue in the meantime. Mr. and Mrs. Mays plan to cater to tourists and travelers, but will also specialize in dinners and dinner reservations.

Mays said last night tentative plans are to operate the hotel and service station the year-round, as a check of increased travel over the highway indicates a need for accommodations at this point, most of the months in the year.

Mr. and Mrs. Mays are long experienced in this type of business. They managed the Shrine club here since early in 1941, except for seven months last year, when they took leave of absence.

They operated a restaurant for fifteen years in Martins Ferry, Ohio, and in 1925 and 1926 operated two places in Hollywood, Florida. The Hollywood Inn and the Park Royal restaurant.

The sale of the Town Hill property became effective yesterday. Mr. and Mrs. Mays formed a corporation under which name the business will be operated. Corporation papers will show the name to be Town Hill Hotel Corporation. Mays will be president and Mrs. Mays, secretary-treasurer.

Swift Workers Select Meat Cutters Union

Swift and Company employes here voted yesterday for Local 322, Amalgamated Meat Cutters Union, AFL, as their bargaining agent, William Krapf, union president, reported.

Twenty-three of the twenty-seven workers eligible to vote in the NLRB election voted for the union, Krapf said. The union leader said a proposed contract will be mailed to the company this week and that contract negotiations will begin in the near future.

Workers Oppose Kelly Tax Exemption In Pay Hike Appeal

W. Calvin Shipes, chairman of a committee representing street, water and sewer department workers, said yesterday that part of the money for higher city wages can be raised if the mayor and city council refuse to continue the tax exemption for the Kelly-Springfield Tire Company.

Shipes and the committee appeared before the council to ask for an increase of fifteen cents hourly.

City officials, headed by Mayor Thomas S. Post, said the pay of all city workers would have to be increased if the rates for one department are raised, and that the total cost would be $87,000, which represents at least eighteen cents on the tax rate.

Mayor Post said the question of the Kelly exemption may be brought up at the council meeting Monday. Shipes estimated that if the exemption were denied, "at least $40,000" could be derived from the Kelly in taxes.

The mayor reminded the group that taxes may be raised only an additional two cents for general purposes due to limitations by law, and that for a further increase authority must be obtained from the legislature.

The council agreed to another meeting April 19 at 10 a. m. Other members of the delegation of city employes were H. W. Rodenhauser and Carl F. Minke.

Red Cross Home Nursing Awards Presented to Carver Students

Twenty-one eleventh and twelfth grade students at Carver school, Frederick street, were presented Red Cross Home Nursing certificates yesterday, upon completion of a thirty-hour home nursing course.

Mrs. Charles L. Kopp, chairman of the local Red Cross chapter made the presentations. Mrs. Irma Mars Marley, 112 Luteman road, had charge of the course for the Red Cross, and Miss Mary G. Carter, teacher at the school co-operated in conducting and arranging the classes. A part of the course was also taught by Dr. Joseph P. Franklin, city and county health officer.

Those who received the awards were: Alice Regina Darr, 442 Pine avenue; Sara Louise Jones, 358 Davidson street; Ethel Rose Darr, 347 Frederick street; Lois Ann Gilmore, 509 Greene street; Roberta Elizabeth Walker, 223 Independence street; Audrey June Powell, 512 Hill street; Catherine Wionia Page, 444 Pine avenue.

Annabell Davis, 349 Frederick street; Barbara Elaine Cooper, 26 Bedford street; Agnes Elizabeth Hurt, 214 Wallace street; Delores Velma Darr, 442 Pine street; Ruth Etta Hurt, and Naomi Lora Hurt, both of 211 Wallace street; Barbara Aretta Holly, 943 Glenwood street; Delores Eleanor Stephens and Georgia Roberta Stephens, 327 Central avenue; Ethel Elizabeth Ovelton, 184 Wineow street and June Louisa Males, 317 Central avenue.

Three Frostburg girls were included in the group. They are, Gloria M. Taylor, 140 Mechanic street; Eleanor Louisa White, Beall street extended; and Kathleen Belle Bush, 144 North Mechanic street.

Vincent Sheean Will Appear Here Monday Night

Correspondent Will Be Second Forum Attraction for Jaycees

Vincent Sheean, regarded by critics as one of the sharpest observers and most gifted stylist of the present crop of war correspondents, will be the second Community Forum attraction of the Cumberland Junior Chamber of Commerce, Monday night at 8:15 o'clock at the Allegany high school auditorium.

When war was declared in 1941 by the United States, Sheean discarded his typewriter and joined up with the American Air Force, seeing service for two years both in the European and Far Eastern theaters.

Placed on the inactive list in 1944, he went abroad as a war correspondent with General Patton's Third Army. Consequently, Sheean is an observer who knows the war years inside out, having been a serviceman and later a correspondent.

As a writer of gripping action in a world that has seen plenty of it in the last few years, Sheean has no peer and he has also been highly praised for an insight somewhat more penetrating than a majority of his companions at the ringside of world events.

His books, "Not Peace but the Sword" and "Personal History" have been two of the most widely-read books of their type yet published.

Members of the Junior chamber, the sponsoring group for the annual forum lectures, are hopeful that Sheean's appearance here will be better attended than that of Hallet Abend, the Far Eastern Correspondent of the New York Times, who was the initial speaker in this year's series. Some forum supporters who heard Abend's lecture regarded it as the finest ever heard on a forum platform in Cumberland.

Three Are Injured When Car Crashes On Braddock Road

Frostburg Man Is Charged With Operating on Expired License

One person was admitted and two others were treated in Miners hospital, yesterday morning after the car in which they were returning from work at the Kelly-Springfield Tire Company plant here crashed against a guard rail and overturned on Braddock road yesterday at 7:30 a. m.

William Stevenson, 47, Midland, driver of the car, was reported in a "pretty good" condition in Miners hospital where he was admitted for treatment of a right hip injury and a lacerated forehead.

Clarence Winebrenner, 26, Midland, riding with him, was treated for brush burns of the forehead and Miss Marie Manley, 18, also of Midland, was treated for possible chest injuries. X-rays were taken to determine the extent of Miss Manley's injuries.

Other Driver Reorts

State Trooper Glen D. Folk, who investigated, said Stevenson was driving west when he crashed while attempting to pass another car which pulled out in front of him. Several vehicles had formed a line of traffic, the trooper said, and when Stevenson started to pass, one of the cars in the line pulled out in front of him.

The driver of the other car, after reading that he was wanted for questioning in the accident, turned himself in at the local police station early last evening, Trooper Folk said.

Trooper Folk identified the driver as Robert James Stewart, 255 East Main street, Frostburg, adding that Stewart is charged with driving on an expired operator's license. The trooper explained, however, that Stewart was not responsible for the crash.

Is Hit by Car

Six-year-old Freda Leasure daughter of Mrs. Myrtle Leasure Williams Road, escaped serious injury early Thursday night when she was struck by an automobile driven by George McGee, 470 Race street, near her home. The child was treated in Allegany hospital at 6:30 p. m., for brush burns on the right side of her face and about the hands.

Hospital attaches said X-rays were taken of the girl's head to determine the extent of possible injuries.

Forbeck Is Held

Earl Forebeck, 326 Virginia avenue, is being held in the city jail for the sheriff of Frederick county. Police said the local man, held by authority of a warrant charging non support, was arrested by Detective Lt. R. E. Flynn.

HEALTH PROTECTOR—Protecting the health of school children is one of the most important duties of public health nurses. One of the ways in which high health standards are maintained in Allegany county schools is shown above, as Miss Grace Hardman, city health nurse, tests the hearing of a school child with the aid of an audiometer recently purchased by Mountain district of the American Legion and presented to the county health department. The boy is Gaither G. Martin, 12, 950 Frederick street, a sixth-grade pupil at the Gephart school. Students at four county schools, including Gephart, Piney Plains, Cresaptown and Bruce high school, Westernport, are now receiving audiometer tests under a new health program to assist teachers in recognizing symptoms of physical defects or illness among the children.

Police, Firemen Ask City Council For Pay Increase

Tax on Bingo Games and Levying of Sales Tax Are Proposed

Austin L. Warnick, a fireman, said yesterday in appealing for a wage increase for policemen and firemen that the city council could tax bingo games, levy a sales tax, and make the movie tax apply to all days of the week instead of just Sunday, as methods of raising additional funds.

Warnick also said the firemen are not so much interested in a wage increase as they are in the eight hour day. Currently firemen work fourteen and ten hours a day on alternate weeks.

Police want an increase of eighteen per cent over their base pay while firemen suggest a scale as follows: Chief $275, assistant chief $250, captains and lieutenants $210, fire men $200, and probationaries $160. The proposed fire scale would also amount to about eighteen per cent.

Firemen Work Long Hours

Warnick said firemen work an average of seventy-two hours weekly, which is longer than any other city group.

Commissioner William V. Keegan said all groups are entitled to a raise.

In discussing the movie tax of five cents per admission, Warnick said the Sunday levy could continue for charity while the money raised on the other six days could be used for general purposes.

Warnick said he understands the Eagles paid the federal government $6,000 in bingo taxes last year and suggested the city collect a like amount.

Sales Tax Proposed

Commissioner Keegan suggested that whatever means is used to raise money all people should pay and not just certain groups. It was then that Warnick proposed a two per cent sales tax.

Warnick said firemen only receive an average of forty-nine cents an hour.

Mayor Thomas S. Post said it might take several years to work out a program under Warnick's suggestions, even if the city has the power.

Officer J. Carl Stouffer mentioned the gasoline tax collected by the state as another source of city revenue.

"We need something now," said Officer John G. Powers.

Contend Veterans Won't Work

In stressing that the firemen are more interested in an eight-hour day than in a pay increase, Warnick said they realize they cannot get both. He said fourteen more men should be added and that veterans and others looking for work could be employed.

Fireman Harry A. Spies said some councils "never do anything on wage matters and then wonder why the men go to the legislature." The firemen said it will cost $23,000 yearly to place the department on an eight-hour day.

Also attending the meeting were Officer E. M. Powell and Fireman O. Delbert Proudfoot.

The council set 11 a. m. of April 19 as the time for another conference.

Koppers Workers File Strike Notice

Local 453, Teamsters and Chauffeurs' Union, AFL, has filed a thirty-day strike notice with the National Labor Relations Board in regard to the Koppers Company's Green Spring, W. Va., tire plant, according to C. E. Stutzman, business agent.

The union leader said the local has asked for a wage increase of twenty-five cents and has been offered eight cents. The contract expired April 1 and the strike notice was filed as of that date, Stutzman said.

History of Public Health Nursing Here Goes Back to July 10, 1914

Earliest Board of Health Minutes Cite One of First City Nurses

By MARY LOUISE BUZZEL

On the eve of Cumberland's observance of "Know Your Public Health Nurse" week, which opens tomorrow, local health department officials recalled that the history of public health nursing here goes back to July 10, 1914, when it was noted in the minutes of the board of health that Miss Clara M. Cotter had resigned on that date as visiting nurse for the city.

Dr. Thomas W. Koon, former mayor, who instituted the present health department, said that Miss Cotter was one of the first nurses to be appointed by the city, if not the first.

Other Appointees Named

Other public health nurses who were among the first to be employed by the city were Miss Mabel Head, who was appointed in 1918 and who became infant welfare nurse in 1920; and the late Miss Mabel Avers, who was appointed by the board of health in 1917 and who served until her death in 1919.

Following the death of Miss Avers, Miss May Steiner was appointed, and served until December 1, 1927, when she resigned to be married to Wilbur V. Wilson, local attorney.

Miss Margaret L. Morrisey, now serving in the Cresaptown district, was the first state public health nurse to serve in Allegany county, assuming her duties in 1923.

Two other nurses in the department have also completed more than twenty years' service here. They are Miss Anna P. Hardy, who began her career with the city health department in August, 1924, and Mrs. Isabella Laughlin, who began work in the Westernport district in October, 1925, and who is now a state public health nurse in the Oldtown and Flintstone sections.

Ten Nurses On Staff

In the course of nearly thirty-two years, the public health nursing staff has been increased until at the present time it numbers ten nurses, three employed by the city, two by the county, and the others by the state. Miss Marion L. Weber, the present supervisor of public health nurses in Allegany county, served as a city and state nurse for four years before her appointment in October, 1945.

Records of the Allegany county health department, the first full-time county health service in Maryland when it was organized in 1922, indicate the invaluable aid given to the community by public health nurses in fighting disease.

In 1922 there were 138 cases of diphtheria, ninety-seven of tuberculosis, and seventy-five of typhoid fever reported to the department. In 1945, no typhoid cases were reported, while four diphtheria and thirty-six tuberculosis cases were listed.

Services of the public health nurse are available to everyone. They include helping a family understand how to carry out the doctor's instructions; helping mothers to prepare and plan for the coming of a new baby; showing members of a family how to care for a sick person; and checking on home conditions to make sure they are conducive to good physical and mental health.

Other of her many duties are helping to trace the source of sickness, supervising isolation in communicable disease, working to improve social conditions which may be hampering a patient's recovery, and collecting information which is invaluable in determining health conditions in the community.

Clinics Listed

"Public health nursing is basically an educational program," Dr. Joseph P. Franklin, deputy state and county health officer, pointed out. "The nurses teach the people to help themselves and how to stay well through immunization, through good nutrition and through good hygiene."

Clinics offered in public health work here include a dental clinic open every working day; chest clinics twice a month; thirteen child hygiene clinics a month; three pre-natal clinics a month; a monthly nutrition clinic with a pediatric consultant; a monthly pediatric clinic; thre or four ear clinics annually; a weekly tonsil clinic, and an eye clinic twice weekly.

No Formal Action Taken by Council On Library Plan

Mayor Post Favors Proposal; Commissioner Keegan Opposes It

No formal action was taken by the mayor and city council yesterday on a recommendation that the city withdraw its appropriation for the Cumberland Free Public Library and join indirectly with the county commissioners in establishing a county library which would also serve Cumberland.

The recommendation was made by a committee representing the county co-ordinating council for social agencies. Although no formal action was taken, Mayor Thomas S. Post expressed his approval, and Commissioner William V. Keegan opposed the plan.

Roy W. Eves, vice chairman of the co-ordinating council, declared there would be no double taxation under the county-wide plan as a two-cent county tax would take care of the local library and the city would no longer need to give support.

Would Lose Control

Commissioner Keegan expressed the view that under the plan the city would no longer retain control and that the state would take over.

Dr. Harold R. McNally, another member of the committee, said the county library would be directed by a board composed of county residents and would have increased facilities.

"The plan would place the library under state control. The only thing to be done locally would be to appropriate funds," said Keegan.

Tasker G. Lowndes said the city has supported the library for 22 years and started out with an appropriation of $2,000. Last year the city gave $12,000 to the library. He said a request for $15,000 would be made for this fiscal year if support is continued on the same basis as in the past.

Governor Would Name Board

Lowndes, who is president of the State Board of Education and a member of the library board, said the Governor would name the board under the proposed setup and the library would be kept out of politics as the school system is. He explained that a levy of two cents by the county would raise about $19,000 and the state would contribute an additional $5,000.

Lowndes contended that the people of Cumberland would not pay as much for library support under the plan as they do now, and that the county program would serve more people.

Some Students Are Not Observing Traffic Signals at Intersection

Police reported yesterday afternoon that students returning to their homes from Allegany high school by way of Allegany street are placing their lives in danger by failing to observe the foot traffic signals at the intersection.

Oscar W. Eyerman, chief of police, said that police have been investigating the intersection since the report that several school children narrowly escaped being struck by cars Wednesday.

Eyerman explained that while the schoolboy patrol is on duty students observe safety rules rigidly but that stragglers have been collecting at the intersection after the patrol goes off duty.

Some of the students, he said, stand at the corner and talk and fail to start across the street when the light changes for foot traffic and thus often do not have time to cross in safety.

The traffic light at Allegany street was installed for the purpose of protecting the lives of students going to and from school, Eyerman said.

City police, he added, are checking speeding in this city and will continue the drive. Most cases of speeding here occur on Greene, Fayette and Bedford streets and Maryland avenue, the police chief said.

One motorist, George Ruehl, 544 North Mechanic street, was fined $2 on a charge of speeding at a hearing before Magistrate Frank A. Perdew in police court yesterday. Ruehl, arrested Thursday on Greene street near the Dingle, testified he was driving thirty-one miles an hour in the twenty-five-mile zone while Sgt. Frank A. Shober declared the motorist was driving in excess of forty miles.

Other traffic cases disposed of yesterday include John Mull, 5 Bellevue street, and Alpha Filler, Route 2, who both forfeited $5 bonds on charges of running through red lights at Greene and Allegany streets.

Elmer Hott, Westernport, posted $10 bond in police court yesterday for a hearing Monday on a charge of careless driving. Police said he was arrested by Sgt. Shober for speeding on Greene street.

Library Proposal Is Turned Down By Commissioners

Green Says There Is Not Enough Time for Study before Laying Levy

The board of county commissioners yesterday rejected the proposal for a $20,000 appropriation in the 1946 levy for a county library system to serve rural areas.

Although Horace P. Whitworth, board attorney, had informed the commissioners that it might be advisable to await the action of the mayor and city council of Cumberland regarding the city's willingness to participate in the program, the board yesterday voted down the proposal by a vote of two to one. The city deferred action yesterday.

Simeon W. Green, board president, said yesterday that he was not opposed to the library and in fact thought it was a worthwhile project but was of the opinion the question "is too much involved" to be handled in the scant two weeks remaining before the new levy is approved.

Green Issues Statement

In a statement, Green said, "if the city decided to go along with the proposition it would require a tax increase of two cents in the county. However, if the city voted to continue under its present library polity, the project would increase the county tax rate four and three-fourth cents, he said.

"And it should also be pointed out that there is some question as to whether the county could retain its hold on the old Academy building which houses the present municipal library if the county proposition was approved. When the Academy building was turned over to the county it was stipulated that it should be used by the county and if not, should be returned to the heirs."

Green also cited that in the event the city turned down the proposition and the county went ahead with it, it would mean the preparation of two different tax rates which would result in confusion and expense that the county is not prepared to meet at this time.

Green also quoted an editorial in the NEWS which pointed out that it might be advisable to hold up action on the proposition at the present time in view of the fact that federal legislation is pending that may result in a much more attractive library program.

"I must say, I feel that the Library act of the legislature is very confused", Green said. "If the state wanted to do something for libraries why didn't they provide a program for libraries already in existence and let them go ahead with it."

Wilkinson Favors Proposal

Commissioner James Holmes yesterday went along with a resolution drawn up by President Green which read:

"After due consideration from all angles as to the advantages and disadvantages connected with the proposed Library extension program for Allegany county and with the understanding that there is the Federal Library Extension program pending at this time, I feel it would be unwise for the country to participate in the program and I hereby offer a motion that Allegany County does not participate in the Library Extension Program at the present time."

Commissioners Green and Holmes then voted down the proposition with Commissioner C. N. Wilkinson dissenting.

A large number of clubs in the county had indorsed the plan and a letter was received yesterday morning from the Westernport-Luke Civic Club, supporting the project. The letter signed by Naomi G. Fisher, secretary, and Mrs. R. C. Roberts, president, said the club established its own library in 1925 with 100 books and now has 8,297 volumes.

While the library extension program received considerable support from women's organizations throughout the county, the commissioners also received a large number of communications from individuals opposing the measure.

Commissioners Release Mortgage On Allegany Inn

Anouncement was made yesterday that the board of county commissioners had disposed of the Allegany Inn property, Baltimore avenue, and the mortgage released upon payment of $19,500 by the Allegany Inn Company, represented by J. W. Towler.

The property, once the Western Maryland Hospital, was hold by the county about twenty years ago, but the mortgage was never reduced by the purchaser. In recent years, Towler took over the inn and has been operating it, while paying the interest on the mortgage.

Mrs. Bertha Dick, Lonaconing, yesterday advised the board that she is opposed to a "saloon" in the community building, which has been leased by Alvin Neat Post, No. 5280, Veterans of Foreign Wars, for use as a recreation center.

Mrs. Dick said she heard the VFW is seeking a beer license and that she opposes it on the ground that many young people would use the recreation center and that it is near the Jackson Street School.

The board took no action since such protests are customarily made to the circuit court.

Clifford Goodfellow and Marie Holzshu asked that County Engineer John H. Carscaden advise them on laying out a street on LaVale Terrace, to meet county standards. They are building more than a dozen homes in that section and one is nearing completion.

Raymond G. Messner, Cumberland, was awarded the contract for painting the first floor of the court house on his low bid of $1,350. Clyde S. Kuhns, also of Cumberland, submitted a bid of $1,525. Both bids also listed $75 additional for stencil work on the interior painting. The work is to be done within the next two months.

Morgan C. Harris, State's Attorney, Seeks Re-election

Announces Candidacy Subject to Republican Primary June 24

Morgan C. Harris, state's attorney of Allegany county since he was appointed in June 10, 1937, last night announced his candidacy for re-election, subject to the Republican primary election June 24.

Harris's appointment to the office was made by Judges D. Lindley Sloan, Frank Wagaman and William A. Huster after a vacancy occurred when Judge Hufter was elevated to the bench.

In 1938 he was elected state's attorney and was re-elected in 1942 without opposition in either the primary or the general election.

A native of Midland, Harris was educated at Westernport high school and Baltimore Business college and received his law degree from the Law School of George Washington university. He has been practicing law in Cumberland since 1924.

Chairman of Delegation

Harris was elected to the house of delegates in 1926 and served as chairman of the Allegany county delegation the following year. As a member of the legislature he was successful in having a bill passed providing that state institutions and departments in Maryland use Maryland mined coal where economically advisable.

This bill was passed despite an unfavorable report by the committee and over the objections of both the minority and majority floor leaders. Among other measures he introduced and supported was the bill creating the peoples court for Cumberland, which provided substantial improvement and advancement over the justice of the peace system.

In the early days of his law practice, Harris gave eight months of his time in preparing and presenting cases before the Interstate Commerce Commission in order to correct the prejudicial freight rates from George's creek to Washington and Baltimore.

He finally was successful in securing a thirteen cents per ton reduction in the freight rates to Baltimore, Washington and other points, which inured to the benefit of George's creek coal miners, coal operators and businessmen alike.

In 1936 Harris was honored by the judges of the United States District Court for the District of Maryland by being appointed referee in bankruptcy for Allegany and Garrett counties. He resigned this position when appointed state's attorney the following year.

Conducted Safety Campaign

Several years ago Harris conducted a safety campaign throughout the county to reduce traffic accidents and has taken a sincere interest in matters pertaining to safe operation of automobiles.

He likewise has taken a keen interest in the reduction of juvenile delinquency and has been president of the Police Boys' club since its organization.

For the past eight years Harris has been vice president of the State's Attorney's Association of Maryland and is a past president of the Allegany County Bar Association. He is also a member of the American Bar Association, the Maryland Bar Association and the Maryland Police Association.

Harris has been commended by every grand jury since he has held the office of state's attorney for the efficient manner in which he has conducted his office.

In a statement yesterday, Harris said he is "running on his record and, if re-elected, will continue to conduct my office without bitterness, bigotry, prejudice or narrowness toward creed, sect, order or individual, which is the policy upon which the office has been conducted in the past."

Republican Club Member

Harris is a member of the Lonaconing Republican Club, Young Men's Republican Club of Frostburg, the Sixth District Republican Club, South End Republican Club, Young Men's Republican Club of Cumberland, Ali Ghan Temple of the Shrine, the Elks, Junior Order United American Mechanics, Allegany-Garrett County Sports Association, Fraternal Order of Eagles, Masonic Lodge of Westernport, and Antioch Commandery, No. 6, Knights Templar.

SEEKS RE-ELECTION — Morgan C. Harris announces that he will seek re-election as state's attorney of Allegany county, subject to the Republican primary election on June 24. Harris has been state's attorney since June 10, 1937, when he was appointed by the judges of the Fourth judicial circuit to succeed William A. Huster who was elevated to the judgeship. (See story)

Vincent Sheean Will Appear Here Monday Night

Correspondent Will Be Second Forum Attraction for Jaycees

Vincent Sheean, regarded by critics as one of the sharpest observers and most gifted stylist of the present crop of war correspondents, will be the second Community Forum attraction of the Cumberland Junior Chamber of Commerce, Monday night at 8:15 o'clock at the Allegany high school auditorium.

When war was declared in 1941 by the United States, Sheean discarded his typewriter and joined up with the American Air Force, seeing service for two years both in the European and Far Eastern theaters.

Placed on the inactive list in 1944, he went abroad as a war correspondent with General Patton's Third Army. Consequently, Sheean is an observer who knows the war years inside out, having been a serviceman and later a correspondent.

As a writer of gripping action in a world that has seen plenty of it in the last few years, Sheean has no peer and he has also been highly praised for an insight somewhat more penetrating than a majority of his companions at the ringside of world events.

His books, "Not Peace but the Sword" and "Personal History" have been two of the most widely-read books of their type yet published.

Members of the Junior chamber, the sponsoring group for the annual forum lectures, are hopeful that Sheean's appearance here will be better attended than that of Hallet Abend, the Far Eastern Correspondent of the New York Times, who was the initial speaker in this year's series. Some forum supporters who heard Abend's lecture regarded it as the finest ever heard on a forum platform in Cumberland.

Town Hill Hotel Is Purchased By the Mays

Managers of Ali Ghan Shrine Club To Begin New Duties Apr. 20

Charles E. Mays and Lillian M. Mays, his wife, managers of Ali Ghan Shrine County Club for the past several years, have purchased the Town Hill hotel on the National highway, twenty-three miles east of Cumberland, from R. S. Dillon.

Mays said last night that he has been negotiating for the purchase of the property for several weeks, and he and Mrs. Mays resigned from the Shrine club a couple of weeks ago. Their resignation becomes effective April 20, at which time they will assume active management of their new enterprise.

Town Hill hotel, sometimes referred to as Town Hill Inn, was established in the past twenty-five years. The place had gradual but steady growth, and started from a little fruit stand where members of the Dillon family sold baskets of fruit to tourists. Later a small sandwich shop was constructed, and gradually the place was enlarged to a fair sized tourist home, service station and restaurant.

The sale, according to Mays includes the entire premises. There is a large hotel, which includes a dining room, kitchen, storage space, rest rooms and twenty-seven sleeping rooms. There is a forty-car garage, a five-room house and an eight-room house on the grounds. Mays said he plans to use one of the houses for his help and assistants. There is also a gasoline service station and facilities for repairing and servicing automobiles.

In the next few weeks, Mays indicated there will be some remodeling and improvements made, but business will continue in the meantime. Mr. and Mrs. Mays plan to cater to tourists and travelers, but will also specialize in dinners and dinner reservations.

Mays said last night tentative plans are to operate the hotel and service station the year-round, as a check of increased travel over the highway indicates a need for accommodations at this point, most of the months in the year.

Mr. and Mrs. Mays are long experienced in this type of business. They managed the Shrine club here since early in 1941, except for seven months last year, when they took leave of absence.

They operated a restaurant for fifteen years in Martins Ferry, Ohio, and in 1925 and 1926 operated two places in Hollywood, Florida, The Hollywood Inn and the Park Royal restaurant.

The sale of the Town Hill property became effective yesterday. Mr. and Mrs. Mays formed a corporation under which name the business will be operated. Corporation papers will show the name to be Town Hill Hotel Corporation. Mays will be president and Mrs. Mays, secretary-treasurer.

Three Are Injured When Car Crashes On Braddock Road

Frostburg Man Is Charged With Operating on Expired License

One person was admitted and two others were treated in Miners hospital, yesterday morning after the car in which they were returning from work at the Kelly-Springfield Tire Company plant here crashed against a guard rail and overturned on Braddock road yesterday at 7:30 a. m.

William Stevenson, 47, Midland, driver of the car, was reported in a "pretty good" condition in Miners hospital where he was admitted for treatment of a right hip injury and a lacerated forehead.

Clarence Winebrenner, 26, Midland, riding with him, was treated for brush burns of the forehead and Miss Marie Manley, 18, also of Midland, was treated for possible chest injuries. X-rays were taken to determine the extent of Miss Manley's injuries.

Other Driver Reorts

State Trooper Glen D. Folk, who investigated, said Stevenson was driving west when he crashed while attempting to pass another car which pulled out in front of him. Several vehicles had formed a line of traffic, the trooper said, and when Stevenson started to pass, one of the cars in the line pulled out in front of him.

The driver of the other car, after reading that he was wanted for questioning in the accident, turned himself in at the local police station early last evening, Trooper Folk said.

Trooper Folk identified the driver as Robert James Stewart, 255 East Main street, Frostburg, adding that Stewart is charged with driving on an expired operator's license. The trooper explained, however, that Stewart was not responsible for the crash.

Is Hit by Car

Six-year-old Freda Leasure daughter of Mrs. Myrtle Leasure Williams Road, escaped serious injury early Thursday night when she was struck by an automobile driven by George McGee, 470 Race street, near her home. The child was treated in Allegany hospital at 6:30 p. m., for brush burns on the right side of her face and about the hands.

Hospital attaches said X-rays were taken of the girl's head to determine the extent of possible injuries.

Police, Firemen Ask City Council For Pay Increase

Tax on Bingo Games and Levying of Sales Tax Are Proposed

Austin L. Warnick, a fireman, said yesterday in appealing for a wage increase for policemen and firemen that the city council could tax bingo games, levy a sales tax, and make the movie tax apply to all days of the week instead of just Sunday, as methods of raising additional funds.

Warnick also said the firemen are not so much interested in a wage increase as they are in the eight hour day. Currently firemen work fourteen and ten hours a day on alternate weeks.

Police want an increase of eighteen per cent over their base pay while firemen suggest a scale as follows: Chief $275, assistant chief $250, captains and lieutenants $210, fire men $200, and probationaries $160. The proposed fire scale would also amount to about eighteen per cent.

Firemen Work Long Hours

Warnick said firemen work an average of seventy-two hours weekly, which is longer than any other city group.

Commissioner William V. Keegan said all groups are entitled to a raise.

In discussing the movie tax of five cents per admission, Warnick said the Sunday levy could continue for charity while the money raised on the other six days could be used for general purposes.

Warnick said he understands the Eagles paid the federal government $6,000 in bingo taxes last year and suggested the city collect a like amount.

Sales Tax Proposed

Commissioner Keegan suggested that whatever means is used to raise money all people should pay and not just certain groups. It was then that Warnick proposed a two per cent sales tax.

Warnick said firemen only receive an average of forty-nine cents an hour.

Mayor Thomas S. Post said it might take several years to work out a program under Warnick's suggestions, even if the city has the power.

Officer J. Carl Stouffer mentioned the gasoline tax collected by the state as another source of city revenue.

"We need something now," said Officer John G. Powers.

Contend Veterans Won't Work

In stressing that the firemen are more interested in an eight-hour day than in a pay increase, Warnick said they realize they cannot get both. He said fourteen more men should be added and that veterans and others looking for work could be employed.

Fireman Harry A. Spies said some councils "never do anything on wage matters and then wonder why the men go to the legislature." The firemen said it will cost $23,000 yearly to place the department on an eight-hour day.

Also attending the meeting were Officer E. M. Powell and Fireman O. Delbert Proudfoot.

The council set 11 a. m. of April 19 as the time for another conference.

History of Public Health Nursing Here Goes Back to July 10, 1914

Earliest Board of Health Minutes Cite One of First City Nurses

By MARY LOUISE BUZZEL

On the eve of Cumberland's observance of "Know Your Public Health Nurse" week, which opens tomorrow, local health department officials recalled that the history of public health nursing here goes back to July 10, 1914, when it was noted in the minutes of the board of health that Miss Clara M. Cotter had resigned on that date as visiting nurse for the city.

Dr. Thomas W. Koon, former mayor, who instituted the present health department, said that Miss Cotter was one of the first nurses to be appointed by the city, if not the first.

Other Appointees Named

Other public health nurses who were among the first to be employed by the city were Miss Mabel Head, who was appointed in 1918 and who became infant welfare nurse in 1920; and the late Miss Mabel Avers, who was appointed by the board of health in 1917 and who served until her death in 1919.

Following the death of Miss Avers, Miss May Steiner was appointed, and served until December 1, 1927, when she resigned to be married to Wilbur V. Wilson, local attorney.

Miss Margaret L. Morrisey, now serving in the Cresaptown district, was the first state public health nurse to serve in Allegany county, assuming her duties in 1923.

Two other nurses in the department have also completed more than twenty years' service here. They are Miss Anna P. Hardy, who began her career with the city health department in August, 1924, and Mrs. Isabella Laughlin, who began work in the Westernport district in October, 1925, and who is now a state public health nurse in the Oldtown and Flintstone sections.

Ten Nurses On Staff

In the course of nearly thirty-two years, the public health nursing staff has been increased until at the present time it numbers ten nurses, three employed by the city, two by the county, and the others by the state. Miss Marion L. Weber, the present supervisor of public health nurses in Allegany county, served as a city and state nurse for four years before her appointment in October, 1945.

Records of the Allegany county health department, the first full-time county health service in Maryland when it was organized in 1922, indicate the invaluable aid given to the community by public health nurses in fighting disease.

In 1922 there were 138 cases of diphtheria, ninety-seven of tuberculosis, and seventy-five of typhoid fever reported to the department. In 1945, no typhoid cases were reported, while four diphtheria and thirty-six tuberculosis cases were listed.

Services of the public health nurse are available to everyone. They include helping a family understand how to carry out the doctor's instructions; helping mothers to prepare and plan for the coming of a new baby; showing members of a family how to care for a sick person; and checking on home conditions to make sure they are conducive to good physical and mental health.

Other of her many duties are helping to trace the source of sickness, supervising isolation in communicable disease, working to improve social conditions which may be hampering a patient's recovery, and collecting information which is invaluable in determining health conditions in the community.

Clinics Listed

"Public health nursing is basically an educational program," Dr. Joseph P. Franklin, deputy state and county health officer, pointed out. "The nurses teach the people to help themselves and how to stay well through immunization, through good nutrition and through good hygiene."

Clinics offered in public health work here include a dental clinic open every working day; chest clinics twice a month; thirteen child hygiene clinics a month; three pre-natal clinics a month; a monthly nutrition clinic with a pediatric consultant; a monthly pediatric clinic; thre or four ear clinics annually; a weekly tonsil clinic, and an eye clinic twice weekly.

Mayor Post Favors Proposal; Commissioner Keegan Opposes It

No formal action was taken by the mayor and city council yesterday on a recommendation that the city withdraw its appropriation for the Cumberland Free Public Library and join indirectly with the county commissioners in establishing a county library which would also serve Cumberland.

The recommendation was made by a committee representing the county co-ordinating council for social agencies. Although no formal action was taken, Mayor Thomas S. Post expressed his approval, and Commissioner William V. Keegan opposed the plan.

Roy W. Eves, vice chairman of the co-ordinating council, declared there would be no double taxation under the county-wide plan as a two-cent county tax would take care of the local library and the city would no longer need to give support.

Would Lose Control

Commissioner Keegan expressed the view that under the plan the city would no longer retain control and that the state would take over.

Dr. Harold R. McNally, another member of the committee, said the county library would be directed by a board composed of county residents and would have increased facilities.

"The plan would place the library under state control. The only thing to be done locally would be to appropriate funds," said Keegan.

Tasker G. Lowndes said the city has supported the library for 22 years and started out with an appropriation of $2,000. Last year the city gave $12,000 to the library. He said a request for $15,000 would be made for this fiscal year if support is continued on the same basis as in the past.

Governor Would Name Board

Lowndes, who is president of the State Board of Education and a member of the library board, said the Governor would name the board under the proposed setup and the library would be kept out of politics as the school system is. He explained that a levy of two cents by the county would raise about $19,000 and the state would contribute an additional $5,000.

Lowndes contended that the people of Cumberland would not pay as much for library support under the plan as they do now, and that the county program would serve more people.

Swift Workers Select Meat Cutters Union

Swift and Company employes here voted yesterday for Local 322, Amalgamated Meat Cutters Union, AFL, as their bargaining agent, William Krapf, union president, reported.

Twenty-three of the twenty-seven workers eligible to vote in the NLRB election voted for the union, Krapf said. The union leader said a proposed contract will be mailed to the company this week and that contract negotiations will begin in the near future.

Forbeck Is Held

Earl Forebeck, 326 Virginia avenue, is being held in the city jail for the sheriff of Frederick county. Police said the local man, held by authority of a warrant charging non support, was arrested by Detective Lt. R. E. Flynn.

Workers Oppose Kelly Tax Exemption In Pay Hike Appeal

W. Calvin Shipes, chairman of a committee representing street, water and sewer department workers, said yesterday that part of the money for higher city wages can be raised if the mayor and city council refuse to continue the tax exemption for the Kelly-Springfield Tire Company.

Shipes and the committee appeared before the council to ask for an increase of fifteen cents hourly.

City officials, headed by Mayor Thomas S. Post, said the pay of all city workers would have to be increased if the rates for one department are raised, and that the total cost would be $87,000, which represents at least eighteen cents on the tax rate.

Mayor Post said the question of the Kelly exemption may be brought up at the council meeting Monday. Shipes estimated that if the exemption were denied, "at least $40,000" could be derived from the Kelly in taxes.

The mayor reminded the group that taxes may be raised only an additional two cents for general purposes due to limitations by law, and that for a further increase authority must be obtained from the legislature.

The council agreed to another meeting April 19 at 10 a. m. Other members of the delegation of city employes were H. W. Rodenhauser and Carl F. Minke.

Some Students Are Not Observing Traffic Signals at Intersection

Police reported yesterday afternoon that students returning to their homes from Allegany high school by way of Allegany street are placing their lives in danger by failing to observe the foot traffic signals at the intersection.

Oscar W. Eyerman, chief of police, said that police have been investigating the intersection since the report that several school children narrowly escaped being struck by cars Wednesday.

Eyerman explained that while the schoolboy patrol is on duty students observe safety rules rigidly but that stragglers have been collecting at the intersection after the patrol goes off duty.

Some of the students, he said, stand at the corner and talk and fail to start across the street when the light changes for foot traffic and thus often do not have time to cross in safety.

The traffic light at Allegany street was installed for the purpose of protecting the lives of students going to and from school, Eyerman said.

City police, he added, are checking speeding in this city and will continue the drive. Most cases of speeding here occur on Greene, Fayette and Bedford streets and Maryland avenue, the police chief said.

One motorist, George Ruehl, 544 North Mechanic street, was fined $2 on a charge of speeding at a hearing before Magistrate Frank A. Perdew in police court yesterday. Ruehl, arrested Thursday on Greene street near the Dingle, testified he was driving thirty-one miles an hour in the twenty-five-mile zone while Sgt. Frank A. Shober declared the motorist was driving in excess of forty miles.

Other traffic cases disposed of yesterday include John Mull, 5 Bellevue street, and Alpha Filler, Route 2, who both forfeited $5 bonds on charges of running through red lights at Greene and Allegany streets.

Elmer Hott, Westernport, posted $10 bond in police court yesterday for a hearing Monday on a charge of careless driving. Police said he was arrested by Sgt. Shober for speeding on Greene street.

Commissioners Release Mortgage On Allegany Inn

Anouncement was made yesterday that the board of county commissioners had disposed of the Allegany Inn property, Baltimore avenue, and the mortgage released upon payment of $19,500 by the Allegany Inn Company, represented by J. W. Towler.

The property, once the Western Maryland Hospital, was hold by the county about twenty years ago, but the mortgage was never reduced by the purchaser. In recent years, Towler took over the inn and has been operating it, while paying the interest on the mortgage.

Mrs. Bertha Dick, Lonaconing, yesterday advised the board that she is opposed to a "saloon" in the community building, which has been leased by Alvin Neat Post, No. 5280, Veterans of Foreign Wars, for use as a recreation center.

Mrs. Dick said she heard the VFW is seeking a beer license and that she opposes it on the ground that many young people would use the recreation center and that it is near the Jackson Street School.

The board took no action since such protests are customarily made to the circuit court.

Clifford Goodfellow and Marie Holzshu asked that County Engineer John H. Carscaden advise them on laying out a street on LaVale Terrace, to meet county standards. They are building more than a dozen homes in that section and one is nearing completion.

Raymond G. Messner, Cumberland, was awarded the contract for painting the first floor of the court house on his low bid of $1,350. Clyde S. Kuhns, also of Cumberland, submitted a bid of $1,525. Both bids also listed $75 additional for stencil work on the interior painting. The work is to be done within the next two months.
